France Agrees to Join Talks on Merger Of 3 German Zones

But Bidault Hints At Special Regime In Ruhr; Confers With Marshall

(See the editorial, "Now There Are Two Worlds," on Page 18.)

By Walter Kerr

London, Dec. 16 (NYHT.)—French Foreign Minister Bidault expressed willingness here today to discuss the fusion of the French zone of occupation in Germany with the combined Anglo-American zones, but only under conditions which he regarded as essential to the security of France.

This was the first consequence of yesterday's final meeting of the Council of Foreign Ministers which, after three weeks of effort, failed to reach substantial agreement on political and economic unification of Germany.

With no time or place fixed for a future session of the council, the main subject here was: what is going to happen next?

Marshall Works on Report

No word came from the Russians. Early in the morning Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov took off for Moscow by plane.

Secretary of State Marshall, head of the American delegation, had nothing to say, although he worked on a report to the American people which he expects to make on his return to Washington Friday evening. British Foreign Secretary Bevin planned a statement for the Commons on Thursday or Friday.

Only Bidault faced the questions of newspaper correspondents, and he strongly indicated France would consider the fusion of its zone with the other western zones only if it could obtain satisfaction with regard to its demands for a special regime in the Ruhr, a loose federation as the form of any political organization proposed, and other security requirements.

Bidault, Marshall Confer

[The Associated Press reported that Marshall met tonight with Bidault in what authoritative informants said was the beginning of informal "exploratory" talks on the merging of western Germany into a single zone of occupation.

[A meeting of the American, British and French Ministers was suggested for January 15 in Washington. Bidault was reported anxious to consult his government before giving a definite answer.]

[It was understood Marshall laid before Bidault for study a general outline of the United States position on such a merger.]

There is a strong belief in some American circles, whose spokesmen perhaps are Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American military governor of Germany, and his political adviser, Robert D. Murphy, that an agreement on merger is not advisable for the time being.

De Mille Loses Fight Against AFL Suspension

San Francisco, Dec. 16 (AP)—Cecil B. de Mille today lost his legal fight in the California Supreme Court to enjoin the American Federation of Radio Artists (AFL) from suspending him as a member because he refused to pay a $1 assessment to campaign against the 1944 right of employment act.

It was a unanimous decision, written by Justice John W. Shenk.

The decision upheld the ruling of the Los Angeles Superior Court and the State District Court of Appeal.

Multimillionaire-Producer De Mille went off the air with his Lux Theater program in 1944 when he refused to pay the assessment.

His services in connection with the radio program netted him $68,200 a year, the opinion stated.

Propaganda War Intensified

Failure of Big Four Parley Means Future Full of Tension

By Ferdinand Kuhn, Jr.
Post Reporter

Months, if not years, of strain and tension with Russia stretched ahead of American policy-makers yesterday in the aftermath of the Foreign Ministers' failure in London.

The collapse of the London meeting does not mean an irrevocable break; Secretary Marshall is expected to stress this point when he broadcasts to the Nation on his return. Twenty minutes of radio time have been reserved for the Secretary on Friday night for a report to the American people.

But there also is every prospect of another winter of four-power occupation of Austria, a continuance of the present east-west division of Germany, a further postponement of peace negotiations with Japan, and a heightening of the Soviet-American propaganda war all over the world.

In these circumstances Secretary Marshall is expected to push forward along two lines.

The first is to put every ounce of American effort into the economic recovery of western Europe. This means not only redoubled effort on this side of the Atlantic for enactment of the four-year "Marshall Plan" but also renewed attempts to make western Germany self-supporting and able to play its part in European recovery.

The second is to find some new method of dealing with the Russians in place of the thoroughly discredited mechanism of the Council of Foreign Ministers. The trouble here is that every conceivable method has been tried in the past 2½ years and has failed: one Big Three meeting of heads of states, seven exhausting sessions of the Foreign Ministers, endless public wrangles in the United Nations and even more futile secret exchanges in diplomatic correspondence.

It is recognized here that the foreign ministers' meetings in London were not negotiations at all, but rather a long-drawn-out exercise of propaganda. The record of confidential diplomatic dealings is even worse.

The best-known example is the 14-month effort to persuade the Russians to start negotiations for settling their lend-lease account. The first move was made in an American note dated February 21, 1946. An inconclusive reply from Moscow came March 15; another American note April 18, another Moscow reply May 17; still another American note June 13, and no reply at all for the rest of the year in spite of two further American reminders.

It was not until April of this year

Mrs. Jillson Granted Divorce, Custody of 4-Year-Old Son

By Henry Burroughs—The Washington Post
WINS SON'S CUSTODY—In this exclusive picture, Mrs. Kathryn Jillson, 27, overjoyed by the judge's decision which awarded her the custody of her son, George, 4, races with the boy from District Court yesterday after being granted a limited divorce from former Army Maj. George J. Jillson, 39

By Dorothea Andrews
Post Reporter

It was 2:15 yesterday afternoon when Justice F. Dickinson Letts announced a five-minute recess in the case of Jillson vs. Jillson.

He left the court to consider his verdict—whether Mrs. Kathryn Jillson, 27, former congressional committee secretary who now takes in roomers, had been guilty of adultery; whether former Army Maj. George Jillson, 37, and now unemployed, had been guilty of cruelty; whether either was entitled to a divorce, and the all-important question of who was to have custody of their 4-year-old son. (Custody of 2-year-old Irene Jillson was not a question in the case. She has been with her mother in Washington at 1841 R st. nw.)

But the five minutes lengthened into 20 before slight, wiry Judge Letts returned to the court. And in the meantime 4-year-old George had been brought down to the courtroom, and sat in the clerk's place, his head barely visible above the balustrade.

Too Upset to Stay

By court order, George had been to spend Monday night with his mother, but he was so upset that at about 8 p. m. that night his mother agreed to having Mrs. Ann Jillson, his grandmother, take him to a hotel for the night.

Kathryn Jillson looked across the courtroom at this son of hers who was a stranger to her. Her throat tightened, her lips trembled into a smile.

Then Judge Letts returned to the bench, and in slow, measured terms began his opinion: "We are dealing here, as we are frequently called upon to do, with the fragments of a broken home . . . Among the fragments of this broken home we have two so small and of such tender years that they have no conception of what is going on here today or what has gone on between the plaintiff and defendant prior to the bringing of these proceedings."

Judge Gives Opinion

Then, one by one, the jurist disposed of the charges in the case, and as each charge fell or was sustained, the courtroom grew tenser, and quieter.

"The court thinks the defendant (the father) has wholly failed to sustain his charge of adultery. The defendant was actuated by a suspicion which came into his mind and which he has nurtured and fostered from that day to this . . ."

Jillson had charged that he had found his wife in a "compromising position" with Lieut. Comdr. George Cantzlaar in their apartment on April 1, 1944. Mrs. Jillson's attorney, Jean Boardman, yesterday put Wac Sergt. Marguerite Smith on the stand, who testified she had been in the room at the time the "compromising" situation had occurred, and that Mrs. Jillson had not been indecent in her actions.

"The plaintiff (the mother) rests her complaint on cruelty . . . Mental cruelty is of a much graver nature and the consequences which follow mental cruelty are much more severe than any physical cruelty could possible be . . . It is hard to conceive of any cruelty which would be followed by more effects than a charge of infidelity . . ."

"The poison has taken hold on both these parties. Each is filled with something akin to hatred for the other . . . I think mental cruelty has been shown. This plaintiff is entitled to a limited decree of divorce."

But still the courtroom was tense. Not a muscle in Mrs. Jillson's face moved. There was still the question of the boy George.

"Then comes the thing that always distresses this court," Judge Letts resumed, and, after outlining the circumstances:

"I have had occasion to know that the grandmother who has had custody of George for the last two or three years (at her home in Pearle River, N. Y.) is a most estimable character . . . The court thinks she would be certainly proper to have care and custody of George."

Mrs. Kathryn Jillson winced, and the tears started from her eyes.

"But there are two children involved," the judge went on, calmly. "Should the court separate them in their formative years and require that they live apart from each other? It is more desirable that there be found some home which

GOP Senators Rush 2 Anti-Inflation Bills; Action Set for Today

1 Measure Contains 3 of 4 Points Of Wolcott Plan Blocked in House

By Alfred Friendly
Post Reporter

Senate Republicans plan a final attempt today to put through some "stopgap" anti-inflation legislation before the end of the special session of Congress.

They arranged for consideration of two bills which, if the Senate acts on them without delay, may conceivably get through the House before Friday, the probable adjournment date.

One is a relatively noncontroversial bill, approved by the Senate Banking Committee, restoring the Federal Reserve Board's power to limit installment buying. It expired November 1.

The other, bearing the name of Senator Taft (R., Ohio), chairman of the GOP Senate Policy Committee, contains three of the four points of the Wolcott bill, which House Democrats refused on Monday to consider under a gag rule.

Voluntary Action Favored

The Taft bill extends controls over exports and transportation, expiring next February 29. It also provides for the President to seek voluntary agreements among business groups to allocate materials, and frees the participants from antitrust law prosecution.

Additional sections of the Taft bill not in the Wolcott measure permit the Secretary of Agriculture to limit grain used by distillers until February 1, and give the Commerce Department power if requested to apply price criteria in granting export licenses.

Senate Democrats, undecided about what to do when the bills come up for consideration today, will meet at 10:30 this morning to plan their response.

Meantime, on the House side, Speaker Martin (R., Mass.) told newsmen, "We will do everything possible to put it through the House during the special session if the Senate passes it and it arrives in the House in time."

Political Implications Seen

The chief considerations surrounding the legislation, it appeared last night, were political. The move of the Senate Banking Committee, in quickly approving the Taft bill yesterday afternoon, was seen by Democrats as a device to get the Republicans "off the hook." They had been left there by their futile attempt on Monday to obtain suspension of the House rules for the Wolcott bill.

The Democrats had defeated that attempt. The question was: would they decide also to beat the Taft bill, claiming that it was only a straw-man measure designed to show the Republicans in a false guise of cooperating with Mr. Truman to enact some inflation controls?

Though Senate Democrats could not vote the bill down, they could easily argue about it, under liberal Senate debate procedure, until it was too late to take action on it this session.

Bills' Provisions Disputed

On the other hand, the two bills coming up today for consideration did, in fact, contain some of the provisions requested by the President, and included nothing particularly objectionable from his point of view.

Taft said the two measures had about half of what the President asked in his 10-point message on November 17. Democrats thought the amount was nearer one sixth, or one tenth.

For the bills touch what are essentially fringe issues in the present inflationary situation. They do not deal directly with the key monetary and bank credit aspects nor do they give the Government the big stick—power to prescribe allocations and priorities and to fix price and wage ceilings.

A possible Democratic strategy was to seek to amend the Taft bill on the Senate floor, by offering one or more Administration bills, including that to authorize price controls, as substitute sections.

"Demonstration" Possible

They would have no chance to win a majority vote on these measures, but might make the attempt anyway. It would be to make a public demonstration of what they thought was necessary to curb inflation and to make

Based on U. S. Figures

It Costs Family of Four $3562 A Year to Live in Washington

A family of four in Washington, where costs are higher than in any other major city, had to spend $3458 a year, at the price levels of last June, to enjoy a modest but adequate American standard of living."

This was the finding, released yesterday, of a monumental 2½-year study on city workers' family budgets, made by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

It showed that living costs for the four-member Washington "budget family" jumped by $473, or almost 16 per cent, from March, 1946, to last summer.

The BLS did not have the figures to show the costs as of the present. Its rough estimate, however, was "at least 3 per cent" more for the last five months. With this addition, then, the present annual cost for goods and services "considered essential" and "below which deficiencies exist in one or more aspects of family consumption" is about $3562.

Thus, in about 20 months, "necessary minimum" family costs have have risen by 19 per cent.

The Washington figures were $454 above comparable costs for the least expensive city on the list New Orleans. They were $70 above the second most expensive city, Seattle.

In the study, the BLS surveyed 34 major American cities. It had been ordered by Congress in the spring of 1945 to "find out what it costs a worker's family to live in the large cities of the United States." Yesterday's report, delivered by BLS director Ewan Clague to the Joint Economic Committee was the answer.

The study applied a novel approach, combining scientific standards with hard-headed reality. It priced what most families chose to buy to achieve certain living standards, not what they "ought" to buy.

As the "budget family," the BLS assumed a husband, who was the sole breadwinner, a wife who spent her full time at household duties without outside employment, a boy of 13 in high school, and a girl of 8 in grade school.

It then priced the food the family bought if it satisfied the National Research Council's recommended nutritional standard of about 3000 calories a day average per person; and assumed a private family dwelling of five rooms, heated to 70 degrees, with private bath, kitchen and hot and cold running water.

For the rest—clothing, medical care, transportation, recreation, taxes, tobacco, barber shops, school costs and the like—it took a level at what it called a "point of resistance." This is a point below which families ought not to fall. In other

$300,000 Fire Razes School At Bethesda

150 Students File Out of Honeywell In Perfect Order

A $300,000 fire razed the main building of the fashionable Honeywell Foundation private day school in suburban Bethesda, Md., at 10:45 a. m. yesterday.

One hundred fifty students, 8 to 17 years old, filed from the building in orderly manner, most of them thinking the alarm was a routine fire drill.

The 24-room, Georgian colonial type house atop a hill overlooking Wilson la., and Bradley blvd., was emptied of students in 90 seconds while flames gained rapid headway through the northeast end of the two-story frame building.

Fought More Than 2 Hours

Fire fighting equipment from eight Montgomery County communities, four engine companies and one truck company from Washington fought the wind-fanned flames more than two hours. Roof of the main section of the sprawling building collapsed at noon. By 2 p. m., only smoke-blackened walls framed the wreckage.

Volunteer departments from Chevy Chase, Glen Echo, Cabin John, Kensington, Takoma Park and Rockville and the Bethesda and Silver Spring departments were on th escene in addition to the District units.

Defense Row Flares Openly At Pentagon

Reserve Officers' Blast at Planning Hit as Irresponsible

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

An undercover row between the Department of the Army and leaders of the Reserve Officers Association over defense planning broke out into the open yesterday.

A spokesman for the association charged Pentagon chiefs with "antiquated thinking," poor leadership and failure to organize the Nation's trained reservists for possible combat.

America, said Brig. Gen. E. A. Evans, executive secretary of the Reserve group, is "making faces at Russia" with neither the military force nor proper planning to back it up.

An Army spokesman promptly branded the statements as "irresponsible" and called upon the Reservists to present facts instead of charges.

"It is amazing that an officer of such a responsible association is permitted to issue such irresponsible charges," said Maj. Gen. Manton S. Eddy, the Army's chief of information.

"The Department of the Army recognizes the importance of the Reserves in our national defense structure; it recognizes and is sympathetic to the urge of hundreds of thousands of Reserve officers to

House Group Cuts Relief Bill By 88 Millions

Committee Reduces Occupied Area Funds Also, Starting Fight

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

A cut of 88 million dollars in western European relief and a 200-million-dollar slash in occupied area funds yesterday were recommended by the House Appropriations Committee.

House Democrats at once opened a floor attack on the eleventh-hour reductions, but no organized move to restore them developed.

In fact, all indications pointed to House ratification of these and other last-minute restrictions on interim aid when House voting on implementing funds starts today.

Friends of the program on both sides of the aisle said they were counting on Senate restoration of most of the cuts.

The House Appropriations Committee swung the ax less than 24 hours after Congress authorized the full 597 million dollars asked by the Administration to help France, Italy and Austria through the winter.

The aid authorization, still awaiting the President's signature, had named China as well but had recommended no specific sum for that government pending completion of a State Department aid plan for the Far East.

The House Appropriations Committee, however, wasn't bound by the Aid Authorization Act. The funds group dominated by Chairman John Taber (R., N. Y.), leading critic of foreign aid, in effect wrote its own interim bill into the deficiency measure required to pay the cost of the program.

Carving the 497-million-dollar stopgap request down to 509 million dollar in actual cash outlay, the Taber Committee said the unappropriated 88-million-dollar balance would be "held in reserve for future consideration in the event a program for China is presented."

Arab, Jewish Police Clash In 3 Battles

4 Jews, 1 Moslem Slain in Desert Settlement Fights

Jerusalem, Dec. 16 (AP)—Camel-riding Arab police and Jewish settlement enforcement officers clashed in three battles in the Holy Land's southern desert today and four Jews and one Arab were officially reported killed.

Civilians of both factions, including Arab desert tribesmen, also engaged in the battles which centered about the Jewish settlements of Halutza, Revivim and Beth Eshel.

The death toll in the three clshes brought to 259 the number of persons killed in Palestine since the United Nations decided November 29 to partition the Holy Land.

Hagana, the Jewish defense army, earlier claimed to have trapped and destroyed a large force of Arabs five miles north of Petah Tiqva.

A Hagana spokesman said the Arabs, believed to be a scouting party from the Arab village of Tulkarm, were first sighted north of Tel Aviv. They were pursued northward and took refuge in a group of abandoned houses where Hagana fighters surrounded them, the spokesman said.

There was no confirmation of such a clash from Arab sources.

In Jerusalem tonight two British police sergeants were seriously wounded by gunfire.

Advices from Arab centers indicated the Arab drive for men and money was gaining impetus.

Resolution Necessary

Anderson Challenges Hill To Let Him Reveal Traders

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson last night challenged Congress to adopt a joint resolution authorizing him to reveal names of grain market speculators.

However, Senate Appropriations Committee Republicans replied that Anderson already had "full legal authority" to give then names to a congressional committee and said they would explore other ways of getting "all the names and all the facts" before resorting to such a resolution.

The Agriculture Secretary made his suggestion in a letter to Chairman Styles Bridges of the Appropriations group, who had called on Anderson to provide the identities of speculators.

Despite the hostile reception given his proposal by Bridges' committee, the House Republican Steering Committee decided to set up a special seven-man committee to investigate "speculation on the commodity exchanges." Speaker Martin (R., Mass.) made the announcement following a meeting of Republican leaders in his office. The committee probably will be headed by Representative August H. Andresen (R., Minn.).

In making his joint resolution suggestion to Bridges, Anderson wrote:

Fairlington Strike

Four Named In Assault Warrants

Warrants charging assault were sworn out yesterday against four nonstrikers in connection with an incident resulting from the strike of maintenance workers at Fairlington.

Named in the warrants were Charles H. Ball of 5809 N. Washington blvd., Arlington; R. B. Shunk of 4824 S. 29th st., Arlington; Thomas O. Davis of 3035 Calvin st., Alexandria, and Bryant Tyree of 120 N. Henry st., Alexandria.

The warrants were issued on the complaints of three strikers, Wilson Robinson, 48, of 3345 King st., Alexandria; Wilbert L. Roberson, 33, of 940 P [illegible] nw., and Edward M. Putman, 24, of 635 N. West st., Alexandria.

Warrants charging assault and felonious assault were issued Saturday against Robinson, Roberson and Putman on the complaint of Ball, Davis and Tyree.

According to Fairfax police, there was a struggle between the two groups Saturday afternoon on Duke st. (extended) in Fairfax as the nonstrikers were preparing to go to work on their jobs at Fairlington.

All of the men have been ordered to appear in Fairfax Court Friday.

NFTW Enjoined From Financing CWA Successor

By Howard Dutkin
Post Reporter

The National Federation of Telephone Workers, now in the process of dissolution, yesterday was forbidden by District Court order to give financial aid to the fledgling Communications Workers of America.

The latter organization was formed last June to supplant the federation in an effort to concentrate the power of the multifarious telephone unions in a single channel.

The temporary restraining order, good for 10 days, pendnig request for a temporary injunction, was granted by Chief Justice Bolitha J. Laws at the behest of attorneys for two unions which formerly belonged to the federation but which did not join the C. W. A.

Charges Preferred

The suit filed by Attorney Ray Murdock in behalf of the American Union of Telegraph Workers of America and the Association of Communications Equipment Workers, both CIO units, charged:

1. That the trustees of the federation are dilatory in winding up the affairs of the federation.

2. That the CWA is receiving funds from the federation which are used to "raid" the membership of non-CWA unions.

3. That the NFTW building at 917 G pla. nw. is currently leased to the CWA for $250, the rent payable in the form of demand notes, when it could be leased for $1000; and that valuable office equipment and furniture is leased to CWA for $100 a month.

The plaintiffs asserted that liquidation of about $400,000 in NFTW assets should be speeded and that the returns should be split up among the unions formerly comprising the membership.

Accounting Requested

The complaining unions also asked that Joseph A. Beirne, former head of the NFTW and present chief of the CWA, and members of his executive board be brought into court to give an accounting of funds disbursements.

In a statement to reporters Beirne termed the complaint "a nuisance suit."

"It is part of the CIO drive to try to embarrass our union," he asserted. "The NFTW was dissolved on June 8. The CWA took its place minutes afterward.

"Liquidation of the NFTW began in June and is proceeding according to schedule. Regular accounting of operations are made by the trustees.

Defendants Named

"The two unions that have filed the suit are among our largest debtors. They owe us money covered by demand notes."

Named defendants in the suit were the NFTW, the executive board of that organization; the CWA and the building committee of the NFTW.

Western Union Offer 'Insults' Telegraphers

Philadelphia, Dec. 16 (AP).—The Western Union Telegraph Co. tonight offered its 50,000 AFL employes a 1947 bonus of about $22 each and a wage increase which the union immediately rejected as "insulting."

The company proposal, first since negotiations began last September 16, terminated a meeting arranged by the United States Conciliation Service in hopes of averting a Nation-wide telegraphers strike next Tuesday—two days before Christmas.

Adolph Brungs, president of the Western Union Division of the Commercial Telegraphers Union, said the company offered a one million dollar bonus to be "split among our men, amounting to exactly $22.72 per person."

Wage Offer Scorned

Brungs declared the wage increase "covers only 9029 of the AFL workers and if divided among all our people would amount to an hourly boost of seven-tenths of one cent a person."

Benefitting by the pay hike, Brungs said, "would be 4455 workers who would get 5 cents, 1429 who would bet 4, 1021 who'd get 3, 1270 2 and 864 1. The other 40,000—nothing."

"Our reply to that offer was a loud 'no,'" Brungs asserted. "We considered it an insult."

"We'll strike if that's the best the company can offer. We will strike to get what's coming to us—and that's 15 cents an hour more than what we are getting now."

Earlier, management spokesmen were quoted as saying "there is no money for a pay boost."

H. Ross Colwell, regional conciliation director from New York who arranged the meeting, said negotiations "were recessed until further notice."

Brungs, bidding goodbye to union leaders from Atlanta, Ga., and Dallas, Tex., who attended the sessions, said:

"I'll see you on the picket line."

If the scheduled strike comes off it will be the first AFL walkout since 1918.

Chicago Mayor Confers With Papers, Printers

Chicago, Dec. 16 (AP).—Mayor Martin H. Kennelly held a conference of several hours today with representatives of Chicago's six daily newspapers and their striking printers, and announced at its conclusion he was "optimistic" and "there seems to be a better attitude."

The mayor yesterday offered "the facilities of my office in the public interest."

Today, Mayor Kennelly said the parties had not discussed a definite settlement, but rather that the meeting was a "general discussion."

He added that both sides agreed to carry on independent discussions and to hold another meeting with the mayor in a few days.

Bus Passengers Hurt In 3-Vehicle Crash

Arnold Estate Denies Owing Firm $88,000

Administrators of the estate of Leon Arnold, late president of the Washington, Virginia & Maryland Coach Co. (Arnold Lines), deny the estate owes the company $88,000 and charge, instead, that the company actually owes the estate $32,000.

The company last month filed notice of a motion for judgment for $88,000 in Fairfax Circuit Court, alleging that Arnold received that amount "without authority" from company funds in the period from 1941 to 1945.

Defendants in the company suit are Joseph L. Arnold, Mrs. Louise E. Counselman, Mrs. Dorothy A. Duncan and the Arlington Trust Co. The defendants, in their reply, charge the suit is founded on "an alleged open account" on which the limit for initiating court action is three years. Arnold, according to the suit, allegedly received $82,000 of the $88,000 more than three years ago.

the owners of the school, said the loss, including equipment, furnishings and his own Georgian silver and dishes would approximate $300,000. He said the house and equipment are "well insured."

Not included in the loss estimate, however, is a 5000-volume library formerly owned by the late Ralph Adams Cram, designer of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, New York and the Princeton University chapel.

On Loan to School

The books, on loan to the school by Mrs. Edward Nicholas, secretary of the Honeywell Foundation and daughter of Mr. Cram, were to have formed the nucleus of the Ralph Adams Cram Memorial Library. The books, still crated, were in the west wing of the house which was least seriously damaged. The volumes were heavily water-soaked, however.

The school's 6000-volume library was destroyed.

Two firemen from the Bethesda department were injured fighting the blaze, but both were released from Suburban Hospital after treatment. They were Capt. Arthur C. Oldfield, 48, of 4616 Fairfield dr. and John K. Russ, 29, of 110 Primrose st. Several other firemen suffered minor injuries and were treated on the scene.

The fire, which originated in a kitchen wall, ate away the house quickly after the wind reached the flames. The northwest wind not only fanned the fire, but turned water from hoses into spray.

The alarm was sounded shortly after a cook, Joseph Short, 47, who lives at the school, heard a "roaring" in the walls. He notified Mrs. Nicholas, who sounded the alarm; then checked each room to see that all students were out of the building.

Rehearsing Christmas Play

In a downstairs room, about 60 of the students who were rehearsing a Christmas play made their orderly exits still clad in costumes. On the south lawn, they lined up, some o fthem in angels' garb. Without their coats, they were placed in the school's buses and station wagons and taken to Sky Meadows, former home of the school at Seven Locks rd. and Bradley blvd., about 4 miles from the burned building. It is now used as quarters for about 10 resident students.

Fourteen-year-old Sally Pardou, injured some time ago, was carried from the burning school with her leg in a cast.

Saved from the fire despite the high winds and flying embers was a second building on the 36-acre estate which is used for school quarters for about 75 additional children.

Was McLean Summer Home

The main structure was built shortly after 1925 and was formerly owned by Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean as a summer home. In 1935 it was leased to the Landon School for Boys during construction of the school's buildings nearby.

It 1940 it opened as the Whitehall School.

Dr. Honeywell and Col. Frederick Jones-Davies, former owners of the King's School in Singapore, founded Honeywell about two years ago. Its enrollment consists largely of children from Washington and nearby Maryland diplomatic circles.

Md., Va. to Get Study On Fisheries Soon

Joint Commission to Offer Conservation Plan For Action by Legislatures of Both States

Chairman C. O'Conor Goolrick said yesterday he expects to present the report of the Maryland-Virginia Fisheries Study Commission to the Governors of the two States in about a week.

The commission met in a four-hour executive session yesterday in the Capitol Hill offices of Senator Millard E. Tydings (D., Md.).

Their study was touched off last winter when oyster feuding in the lower Potomac reached the shooting stage, and Marylanders moved to end a long-standing agreement by which each State tries its own citizens for fishing violations.

The commission was set up as the Maryland Legislature studied a bill to permit trying Virginia fishing violators in Maryland courts.

Goolrick, while declining to discuss details, said the commission's final report was just about ready.

He added that the commission would submit its proposed agreement, covering fish and oyster conservation in the Potomac and Chesapeake Bay, to the Governors, and that the Legislatures of both States would have to approve it.

He said the group had not gone into the legal issues raised by the oystering disputes, but had concentrated on the conservation problems.

Conservation Urged To Return Wealth to Bay

Baltimore, Dec. 16 (AP).—David H. Wallace, executive secretary of the Maryland Department of Tidewater Fisheries, described Chesapeake Bay as "potentially one of the richest bodies of water in the world" in an address prepared for delivery at a men's club meeting of University Baptist Church tonight.

"However, since the turn of the century," Wallace said, "improved methods of taking oysters, fish and clams have resulted in a depletion of this vast resource. For example, less than 15 oyster dredge boats are currently working an area that 50 years ago required a fleet of over 1000 craft."

Wallace suggesteed five requirements to protect bay resources and improve its yield: wider education of watermen in conservation, continued research, effective law enforcement, sond propagation procedures an dcontinued improvement in fishery management.

School Gives Jewish and Gentile Plays

The children at the Crosby Noyes School, 10th and Franklin sts. ne., are gaining a valuable lesson in tolerance and understanding.

This week they are presenting two religious plays, one Christian, one Hebrew. The plays are presented together. Jewish and gentile children appear in both plays.

The mimeographed program of the play contains this Biblical quotation from Malachi 2:12, which explains the program in an economy of words:

"Have we not all one father? Hath not one God created us? Why do we deal treacherously every man against his brother, by profaning the covenant of our fathers?"

The idea for this example of tolerance originated with Miss Grace Bush, the school principal.

There are 49 children, ranging in age from 8 to 12, in the two plays. You will find Jimmy McCauley cast in the Hebrew play and Murry Gelberg taking a role in the Christian play.

The program is opened with the Hebrew play, which tells the story of Hannuka, or The Feast of Lights.

The first scene takes place outside the home of Mattathias, an aged Hebrew father. While his sons are assembled about him, Mattathias bemoans the destruction of their temple.

The second scene is laid in the palace of Antiochus, King of Syria, and shows him ordering that the last of Hannah's sons be slain. The third and final scene depicts the rededication of the temple at Jerusalem.

Songs which accompany the Hebrew play are "Hannuka," "Hail the Maccabees," "Little Candle Fires" and "Rock of Ages."

The Nativity is the subject of the Christian play. Children playing the parts of Mary, Joseph, the shepherds and the wise men appear.

Children of the upper grades sing these Christmas songs, "Wind Through the Olive Trees," "Softly the Stars are Shining," "Once Unto the Shepherds," "One Fair Morn," "Love Came Down at Christmas" and "Adeste Fideles." Children from the lower grades sing, "Away in a Manger," "Brahm's Lullaby," "The First Noel," "We Three Kings of Orient Are" and "I Heard the Bells on Christmas Day."

Presented Through Week

The double-play program was presented Monday and yesterday for children at the elementary school. The program will be repeated today, tomorrow and Friday at 1:15 p. m. for parents of the children.

The Crosby Noyes School, which has an enrollment of nearly 400, has a sizable number of Jewish pupils. Miss Bush said she decided to stage the two plays as a working example of tolerance and better understanding. The children, she said, were enthusiastic about the project. Each one who has a role furnished his own costume.

Jewish and gentile parents, Miss Bush said, were unanimous in their approval. She said invitations to view the plays had been sent to all parents and that more than 200 of them had accepted.

"THE FEAST OF LIGHTS"—A traditional Jewish festival Chanukah—is the title of the second play staged yesterday by Noyes School students. Paige Bridges, dressed as a rabbi, holding a bowl of oil, lights the "Menorah," signifying the "Rededication of the Temple at Jerusalem" The Washington Post

Lane Congratulates Brann on Challenger II

Annapolis, Md., Dec. 16 (AP).—Challenger II, prize stud of Glade Valey Farm in Frederick County, might not know it, but the State of Maryland is proud of him.

Governor Lane made the sentiments official in a letter to William L. Brann, now at Boynton Beach, Fla., congratulating him for the horses' record.

Offspring of Challenger II won $1,455,339 in 1944, 1945 and 1946—more than horses sired by any other stud in those years. Challedon and Gallorette are two of the Challenger's famed offspring.

7 Navy Airmen Die in 2-Plane Norfolk Crash

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 16 (AP).—Seven naval airmen were killed today when a Corsair fighter plane and a patrol bomber carrying a crew of seven collided in the air and crashed at the Norfolk Naval Air Station.

Naval spokesmen said the Corsair, from the aircraft carrier Coral Sea, collided at an altitude of 100 feet with the right wing of the bomber, attached to Amphibious Group 3. The Corsair caught fire and its pilot burned to death.

Sole survivor was a bomber crewman who was thrown from a gun blister when the plane crashed in swampy ground 300 yards from the Corsair. He escaped with lacerations and bruises. Six bodies were recovered from the bomber.

The dead: Lieut. (j.g.) J. H. Dawley, jr., 25, son of J. H. Dawley, Syracuse, N. Y.; Ens. J. F. Mathews, 22, Husband of Mrs. Veronica Ann Mathews, 7618 Bondale ave., Norfolk; Henry Wagner, 25, husband of Mrs. Marge Marie Wagner, 1616 Lasalle ave., Norfolk; L. P. Sun Rays Bring Out Annapolis Firemen words, they continued purchasing even if it meant going into debt, buying on credit or seeking relief.

The report showed that most people would consider the level as being considerably more "modest" than it was "adequate."

For example, it provided about 2 pounds of all kinds of meat per person per week, or about two thirds of the average per capita consumption. It allowed for such few purchases of higher priced cuts and poultry that a turkey or good piece of meat could be had only on Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's Day. It gave 12 quarts of milk, 6 loaves of bread and 20 eggs a week.

It allowed less than one pack of cigarettes every two days; a little better than three phone calls and one letter a week; one movie every two weeks for the boy, one every three weeks for the others; one haircut for the father every three weeks; two house dresses for the wife a year, one coat every four years; about four doctor's calls a year per family.

The standard of living permitted by the BLS budget, Clague said, was "somewhat more liberal" than the WPA so-called "maintenance" budget, the last widely used level developed by a Government agency. But it was considerably lower than the famed "Heller" budget standard worked up for San Francisco.

In almost all the categories going into the budget, Washington had either the highest or near highest costs. It had the highest housing expense of any city. Only New York and cold Minneapolis had higher clothing costs.

The BLS made estimates for the costs of goods and services (not including taxes, occupational expenses, etc.) for this budget for Washington with different sized families. They are presented in the left-hand column below, for June, 1947. The right-hand column shows the rough correction, of an additional 3 per cent, to bring the figures up to date:

	June, 1947	Dec., 1947
Two-person family	$2000	$2060
Three-person family	2600	2678
Four-person family	3111	3204
Five-person family	3550	3656

The BLS did not attempt to judge the $64 question: what proportion of families in the country are able to afford this standard which they "insist on having." It did, however, present figures on income of four-member families in one city, Indianapolis, as of March 1946.

These data showed that at that time only 12 per cent of these families had total incomes below the cost of the budget, and 88 per cent had incomes above (although many of these probably had more than one breadwinner).

The BLS declined to speculate whether these ratios held as prices increased in the 20 months since then. It is probable, however, that many families of industrial workers have kept up, with added incomes to offset higher prices, while some families of fixed income, particularly white collar workers, have dropped behind.

Testifies Against Sugar Heir

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

MRS. LOU DELL SPRECKELS testified in a Pasadena, Calif., court yesterday about a fight that resulted in charges of assault and battery against her husband, John B. GOP Rushes Inflation Bills clear what they consider are the inadequacies of the GOP bills.

Taft, however, told his colleagues yesterday that the bills to come up today are the only ones which have any chance of enactment this session. They do not foreclose consideration of other, more far-reaching but more controversial bills at the regular session in January, he promised.

Before he spoke, Senator Barkley (D., Ky.) the minority leader, introduced the Administration's price control bill. It had been sent to the Capitol the previous day by the Secretaries of Agriculture, Commerce, Interior and Labor.

Barkley also introduced three other Administration bills, all dealing with inflation in agricultural commodities. One would empower the Secretary of Agriculture to fix margin requirements in all commodity exchanges, as a preventative against unwarranted speculation.

The second would give the Commodity Credit Corporation power to enter advance contracts with non-European countries and give other assistance to encourage the production of food.

The third called for an authorization of one million dollars for a domestic campaign to conserve food and animal feed through education, propaganda, intensified rodent and insect control and other methods.

Australian Girls Cash Love Notes On Dollar Bills

Sydney, Australia, Dec. 16 (U.P.)—Australian girls are cashing in the love notes their wartime GI boy friends wrote them on United States dollar bills, the Daily Mirror reported from Brisbane today.

Foreign exchange traders at Brisbane banks are receiving a steadily growing dollars with tender messages inscribed on them "as memories of the American fade," the newspaper said.

With or without glowing sentiments, an American dollar is worth 6 shillings 2 pence (99 cents) at any Australian bank.

"The more wide-awake girls are washing up their wartime romances with a nice profit" by selling their gilt-edged correspondence on the black market at twice the bank rate, the Mirror said.

Reclamation Cuts Restored With Increase

House Republicans who slashed funds for Western reclamation projects in the economy drive at the last session of Congress moved yesterday not only to restore the cuts but to provide more than the Administration asked for.

Democrats promptly charged that the cuts were near-sighted policy and that the Republicans were now retreating because of the outcry from Western States.

The restoration was recommended today by the Republican-controlled House Appropriatoins Committee.

Four Big Projects

The committee recommended a total of $31,939,000 in supplemental appropriations for the Central Valley project in California, the Colorado-Big Thompson Dam in Colorado, Davis Dam on the Arizona-Nevada border and the Columbia Basin project in the State of Washington.

This total was $2,564,000 more than the $29,375,000 in supplemental funds sought by the administration, and, according to reclamation bureau officials, approximately makes up for the cuts voted at the last session. The restoration recommended today will have to be approved by the full House and the Senate.

Work on some parts of the vast Central Valley project in California actually had come to a halt this month for lack of funds.

It was learned that for the first time since Republicans organized Congress, GOP Appropriations committeemen swithched sides on a major issue. Democrats voted to hold the reclamation items to the President's budget figures. Republicans over-rode them to vote more.

Gore Raises Question

"Who are the spenders now?" asked Representative Albert Gore (D., Tenn.), minority scorekeeper on budget changes.

Said Gore:

"What they are proving here is that the President's budget was right on the nose. But an election year is approaching, so they are going to vote more. Now it's the President who's 'economy-minded.'"

Representative Chet Holifield (D., Calif.) said the Republican stand was a "remarkable spectacle."

"We see the Republican Party marching downhill in abject defeat before the factual realities of the situation," he said.

The committee recommended a grant of $200,000 for direct emergency aid to the Navajo and Hopi Indians—less than one-half the amount requested by President Truman.

The committee coupled its recommendation with a contention that conditions of the Southwestern tribes are "directly the result of the shortsighted policies of the Bureau of Indian Affairs."

Italy Will Salvage 31 'Subs' for Scrap

Gets $3,522,120 Worth of Gold Looted By Nazis in Pact With U. S., Britain, France

Rome, Dec. 16 (AP).—The Big Four powers have granted Italy permission to salvage for scrap 31 submarines slated for scuttling at midnight under the Italian Peace Treaty, a Foreign Ministry communique said today.

In addition, representatives of the United States, Britain, France and Italy signed in London a protocol permitting Italy to receive 8386 pounds of gold ($3,522,120 at the price of $35 an ounce) as a share of the gold hoard looted by Germany during the war.

Soviet consent to salvaging the submarines was received today.

(The United States Securities and Exchange Commission announced in Philadelphia that trading in Italian securities will be permitted in the United States on or about December 22, ending a seven-year war-created ban. The Italian government and two of its agencies registered $131,971,700 of new bonds with the commission.)

Premier Alcide de Gasperi went before the Constituent Assembly today to speak in behalf of his new cabinet which now includes moderate Labor Socialists, Republicans and Independents as well as his own Christian Democrats.

He was interrupted by a Communist cry, "the Voice of America speaks"—the introduction of United State Department broadcasts to Italy.

Christian Democrat deputies replied, "You are sold to Moscow."

De Gasperi said he had reshuffled the cabinet to "guarantee democracy to the country."

The provincial chamber of labor at Catania, Sicily, declared a general strike effective at midnight tonight in a demand for unemployment relief. Catania is a city of 244,000.

Employes of the Genoa Chamber of Commerce and some employes of the stock exchange and commodities exchange also struck for 36 hours in protest against an official appointment.

Reds Take 70% of Zone Output, Bevin Charges

London, Dec. 16 (AP).—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin accused Russia tonight of taking about 70 per cent of industrial production in its German occupation zone and of giving false figures to the Big Four foreign ministers on the total amount produced.

The charges were made in a 19-point, 2000-word statement.

There is no way of knowing exactly how much reparations Russia has taken, Bevin said, because "Mr. Molotov will not allow us to know the facts."

Elizabeth and Duke Have First 'At Home'

London, Dec. 16 (AP).—Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh gave their first official reception today for representatives of British county and town organizations which gave them wedding presents.

The invitations said the royal couple would be "at home" in the state rooms in Buckingham Palace.

Germans Map Basic Plan for Western Reich; Communists Barred From Secret Meeting

Frankfurt, Germany, Dec. 16 (AP).—The principal political leaders of the British and American zones took stock of the breakup of the Foreign Ministers' Conference today and agreed on the basic plan for the creation of a western Germany.

Meeting behind closed doors, without the Communists, the leaders of the Christian Social Union, Social Democrat, Liberal Democrat and Centrum Parties announced the leaders had accepted an invitation to a conference with the British and American zonal commanders, probably Saturday.

Out of this conference with Gens. Lucius D. Clay and Sir Brian Robertson, American and British military governors, may emerge a political organization for the two zones to which the French zone may adhere later. At any rate, the Germans expect to learn just how far they may go.

Invited to the conference are Dr. Erich Koehler, chairman of the Bizonal Economics Council; his aides and the eight Minister Presidents of the two zones.

The German leaders said they had mapped a detailed campaign designed to combat Soviet propaganda and influence in Germany and attract 17 million Germans in the Russian zone away from communism.

Their plans, they said, call for a democratically elected government dedicated to "Western ideas and principles of freedom," which would always leave its doors open to the east provided the Germans there agree that liberty is paramount.

They said they had agreed to tell Generals Clay and Robertson:

1. They wish to avoid any suggestion they are creating a "western German state" and that Germany is forever divided between east and west.

2. Nevertheless, they recognize that the London conference failed to unify Germany, and "50 million people in the western zones must be in a position to live and work."

3. A sound economy must be established. This can be achieved only by reorganization of the present Bizonal Economic Council, which originally was conceived as an "economic parliament."

4. A "provisional parliament" is necessary.

One spokesman said it was generally agreed that the proposed parliament should consist of two houses, one representing the voters, the other the states, and that the states would have as yet undefined powers of veto over legislation.

Members of the committee said they probably would ask Clay and Robertson for permission to create three ministries—justice, internal affairs and labor and welfare—until a provisional parliament can be formed. These would in effect add law-enforcing powers to the present authority of the economic council.

American observers noted that the German proposals were almost identical with the personal views of Anglo-American control office officials, who are awaiting word from Washington and London on just how much authority the Germans may be allowed under any new setup.

OLD WOUND PROVES FATAL—X-ray picture shows 4-inch knife blade imbedded in lung tissue and its point resting on a major artery near the heart of Maxie Ingram, 45, of 308 New York ave. nw. Ingram was stabbed four years ago in a street fight, recovered from the wound and returned to work as a presser in a Washington laundry. Monday he complained of a severe pain in his chest and doctors at Gallinger Hospital discovered the blade with the X-ray. They rushed him to Garfield Hospital for delicate surgery to remove it, but Ingram's borrowed time ran out—he died on the way to the operating room.

Reds Cry Sabotage at U. S.

London, Dec. 16 (U.P.).—Iron-curtain Europe clamored today that the United States sabotaged the Big Four Conference in order to carry out its own designs on Germany and other countries.

Elsewhere on the Continent there was anxiety over the split between the United States and Russia, and Austrians were deeply gloomy at the realization that the treaty to restore their country's independence is months away.

A summary of content follows:

IRON CURTAIN

London—Moscow radio says newspapers headline story of Big Four breakup; "Rupture of London Session: Provocative Plans of Western Powers in Action."

Berlin—Russian army newspaper says United States "torpedoed" the conference with aid of other western powers."

Prague—Communist newspaper Rude Pravo: "The Americans went to London to await a favorable moment to scuttle negotiations."

Bucharest—The United States, Britain and France wrecked every possibility of understanding. The newspaper Semnalul, which has no political affiliation, said: "There is sufficient positive basis to resume negotiations in a less tense atmosphere."

AUSTRIA

Vienna—Officials were in deepest gloom. Chancellor Leopold Figl's office said he would open a drive to attract world attention to Austria's plea for a fair treaty. The Communist newspaper Oesterreichische Wolkstimme said: "Marshall wrecked the conference; Molotov saved continued discussion of Austrian treaty."

ALLIES

Paris—L'Epoque, which supports Gen. De Gaulle, said: "Europe is definitely split in two." Communist L'Humanite: "Marshall takes the initiative in rupture." Independent L'Intransigeant: "Russia may denounce the Russo-French pact after the London stalemate which confirms the splitting of the world in two blocs."

Brussels—A Ministry of Foreign Affairs spokesman: "The question we ask ourselves is, 'is this a definitive and irrevocable rupture?'"

Oslo—Liberal Dagbladet: "The apparatus of the Council of Foreign Ministers is still intact . . . an optimist would say there is hope as long as there is life."

Copenhagen—Conservative Nationaltidende: "The breakdown is complete . . . the partition of Europe is a fact . . . we in the interminable future will have to reckon with two Germanies . . . and with two great power systems working on different sides of the iron curtain."

NEUTRALS

Zurich—Die Tat: Had the western power accepted Russian demands on Germany, "Germany's economy would have been completely bound to Russia for two decades . . . if the conference in Moscow was afiacos, the conference in London turned out to be a catastrophe."

Stockholm—Liberal Tidningen: "Never has a conference of historic importance been opened under such general pessimism. Russia is solely to blame for the failure. 'The splitting of our part of the world into two zones now seems to be established for an unsurveyable future."

Big 4 Faces Tense Future

that the Russians agreed to confer on the subject at all. Negotiations began, but were broken off in disagreement several months ago. Now a new Soviet Ambassador, Alexander S. Panyushkin, has arrived in Washington to head the Soviet lend-lease delegation, but there is no prospect of greater speed or better results than before.

It takes Moscow from eight to twelve months, on the average, to reply to every State Department note inquiring about American property in Soviet-occupied territories. Diplomatic notice notes on citizenship cases usually take from four to six weeks to get any reply at all, and then the answer is usually a cursory acknowledgement.

As for cultural exchange, the effort to improve people-to-people relationships between the Soviet Union and the United States, overtures from the United States often are not answered at all. Last January Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith went to the Kremlin with a list of nine specific American invitations and requests for cultural exchanges which had not been answered during the preceding six months. Not one of these overtures has had a favorable response from Moscow since then.

Diplomatic Channels Useless

Bigger questions are no longer dealt with "through diplomatic channels" between Washington and Moscow. If, for example, the United States wants to communicate a proposal regarding Germany, the reply usually is that this is a matter for the four-power Allied Control Council in Berlin. Or the Russians will answer that a proposal of substance, as distinct from mere procedure, requires a conference, which produces the usual propaganda wrangle, which ends in frustration and failure.

It may be that some variant of the Council of Foreign Ministers can be proposed—perhaps something like a four-power Council of Ambassadors in Moscow, where there could be quick recourse to Generalissimo Stalin in case of deadlock. After a previous London meeting of the Council, which broke up in utter disagreement in the fall of 1945, Secretary Byrnes flew to Moscow and accomplished something by means of direct discussions with Stalin.

Certainly Secretary Marshall will not want to subject himself in a hurry to another session of the Council of Foreign Ministers under its present procedures. Nor will he be any more willing than before to let the Council of Foreign Ministers write the draft of a Japanese peace treaty—a procedure proposed by Russia but strenuously resisted by the United States and Great Britain.

Secret Meetings Fail, Too

As always after a failure of the Foreign Ministers, there are suggestions that secret meetings might succeed where public or semi-public meetings, with "briefings" of newspapermen, have produced nothing but propaganda. These suggestions might be more attractive if the secret method had not been tried and failed.

It was tried at the London meeting in 1945, with the result that the Russians promptly "leaked" to their chosen instruments of propaganda in the press and radio. Secretary Byrnes gave up the secrecy in some disgust, and ultimately instituted the system of "briefings" by a member of each delegation after each day's meeting had ended.

Of all the problems left deadlocked in London the future of Austria's probably causes more worry to American policymakers than any other. The continued occupation of Austria leaves Soviet troops also occupying "lines of communication" in Hungary and Romania. Moreover, it leaves the Russians in occupation of the richest industrial part of Austria, the eastern zone, without which western Austria cannot possibly become economically healthy and self-supporting.

A winter of inevitable discontent will leave Austria a danger spot in Europe in spite of American emergency relief and the inclusion of western Austria in the 16-nation Marshall Plan.

The picture in Germany is somewhat more encouraging, partly because of the remarkable increase in coal production in the Ruhr in recent weeks. In Germany there is at least a chance that the western zones can be made self-supporting without Russia.

Clay for Plant Dismantling

The Army Department yesterday made public a statement from Gen. Lucius D. Clay, American commander in Germany, completely supporting the policy of dismantling surplus German plants as reparations.

The statement showed entire agreement on Clay's part with the State Department's recent reaffirmation of American policy on plant removals. In recent congressional debates there has been strong sentiment against dismantling, and suggestion that Clay opposes it.

Clay took his stand in a message to Army Secretary Royall on December 8. The message recalled that the permitted level of industry in the two western zones was high enough to let the area become self-supporting, and that the plants earmarked for reparations were surplus to German needs.

France Agrees To Big 3 Talks mind, it is reported they intend to establish some form of German national council in their zone and claim it as the mouthpiece for all Germany.

Two other subjects were uppermost in London conversation today.

One was the question whether there would ever be again a session of the Council of Foreign Ministers. No one knew, but all were agreed that the present situation—a sine die adjournment—was not tragic and that some form of international talks would be organized, perhaps in the late Spring or Summer.

Soviet sources here were doubtfut yesterday, whether the Big Four would meet again as a council, as were members of other delegations.

Another subject was the effect of the council's failure on world public opinion.

No Need for Pessimism, Says Dulles

Members of the Western delegations were unanimous in saying the deadlock on Germany should not increase talk of war or fear of war.

John Foster Dulles, Republican adviser to Secretary Marshall, said that with relations as they are between the Soviet Union and the West it was natural to expect a council deadlock.

For this reason, he said, there was no justification for sudden pessimism, and he freely predicted further conversations between the major powers.

Tomorrow the council's deputies will start talking about an Austrian settlement again, but no one expects them to make much progress. Observers noted that Molotov opposed the idea of work by the deputies, preferring instead bilateral negotiations.

This was one explanation cited for the belief that the council, as such, may never meet again.

Russia Expected to Step Up Propaganda Through U. N.

Lake Success, Dec. 16 (AP).—Russia will step up the tempo of her propaganda output through the United Nations, but will not change her policies here because of the Foreign Ministers' break in London, key U. N. delegates and officials predicted today.

The consensus was that the U. N. will go ahead according to its present plans. No one expressed the view that the Russians will get out of the Assembly, the Security Council or the Atomic Energy Commission.

One U. N. official said the Russians now are in the U. N. because speech-making in the Assembly, the Security Council, and the Atomic Comission, gave the Soviet an excellent outlet for communicating its views to the world.

Today, Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister, picked up the Soviet assault on the United States and Britain here. He charged they were doing everything to "undermine" the 1946 Soviet-sponsored Assembly resolution calling for reduction and regulation of armaments. He spoke to a closed meeting of the working committee of the U. N. Commission on Conventional Armaments. Gromyko noted that a year had passed and charged that nothing had been accomplished.

Dr. Alberto Gonzalez-Fernandez, of Colombia, reminded the arms delegates that they could not work without taking into account what was happening outside. He said it would be better to wait one or two years without forcing any vote which would make the East-West differences sharper. A U. N. official said the Colombian obviously was referring to the failure of the London conference.

The body recessed until January 2.

House Group Cuts Relief Bill

nanigans" and foreign aid "sleight of hand," Tabor contended the 66-million-dollar French share of the cut and 22 million dollars pared from Italian relief would have gone to pay their debts and not for food and fuel.

But Representative Clarence Cannon (D., N. Y.) called it "cheeseparing economy." Said Cannon:

"This is the most ridiculous proposition that was ever concocted in order to camouflage a reduction below the minimum amount needed" for food, fuel and other relief.

Despite Cannon's blast, and a floor warning by Representative George H. Mahon (D., Tex.) that the "best interests of the United States" are at stake, no amendment was proposed yesterday to restore the cuts, either in the full House Appropriations Committee or on the House floor.

In addition to stop gap aid pruning, the appropriations group slashed the Army's request for Government and relief in occupied areas from 490 million dollars to 230 millions. Members insisted this cut may be merely a "deferment"—and that on "justification" the full Army request may be met.

Involved was (1) a 137-million-dollar reduction below the Army's call for 237 million dollars for food and relief in the British-occupied zone of Germany and (2) a 123-million-dollar cut under estimates for United States occupied areas in Germany, Japan and Korea.

Taber charged administrative costs in the British zone are "excessive." He said the 100 million dollars provided will be adequate until a "clear and definite agreement" can be reached between the two nations setting forth the "obligations and responsibilities" of each.

Cut Because of "Variables"

His committee report said funds for American-occupied zones were cut "because there are too many variables, such as harvests, etc." to justify the full amount asked. Taber said the amount provided will take care of the American zones through next June 30.

The appropriating committee than overrode the interim aid conference compromise to flatly require a minimum wheat carryover of 150 million bushels in this country, which could not be tapped for foreign aid. It did this by prohibiting expenditure of any money for wheat exports that would cut under the fixed carryover.

The House had approved a similar restriction, but interim relief conferees, and subsequently both Houses, as late as Monday, approved a modification giving the President discretionary say.

New, but more flexible, restrictions on exports of nitrates, nitrogen fertilizer and petroleum products were written into the aid money bill by the committee just before it was reported to the floor. These required the president to survey fertilizer and petroleum requirements here and abroad, and take stock of the volume required "to meet essential domestic needs" before these aid items could be shipped abroad.

Dirksen Loses Fight on Curbs

Representative Everett M. Dirksen (R., Ill.), who has repeatedly urged Congress to provide adequate relief without hampering restrictions, tried unsuccessfully in committee to remove the new fertilizer and petroleum curbs.

Immediately following the funds committee session, Dirksen went before the House Foreign Affairs Committee to outline the nature of the cuts. The Illinoisan will be hospitalized for a serious eye ailment today and can't participate in today's debate. He said he wanted House sponsors of the program to know of all the changes.

Representative John M. Vorys (R., Ohio), who helped steer the aid authorization through the House, later briefly challenged Taber's statement that the 88-million slash in effect would have gone for French and Italian debts and administrative expenses rather than relief supplies.

Vorys said both this and the last foreign relief bill were largely "balance of payments" measures—that the whole idea is to provide relief so France, Italy and Austria can use their dollar resources for other obligations.

Estimates Cut to Bedrock

Cannon told the House relief estimates in each case had been cut to bedrock before they were submitted to Congress and asserted:

"When we reduce the money for food in this bill, we are to that extent hamstringing the plan for European recovery."

He said no money was asked or provided to pay the debts of Italy or France, but conceded that by providing relief we help make it possible for both countries to meet Governmental costs and interest payments, on debts outstanding.

Cannon charged the course urged by Taber "will not save one penny" but will instead set a precedent in Europe for debt repudiation.

Taber told the House the committee arrived at the 66 million dollar slash for France by adding such items as the projected ten million dollar French contribution to the International monetary fund, a 17 million dollar French payment to Belgium and a 3 million dollar payment to Brazil on commercial accounts, and a 26 million dollar interest payment on the French foreign debt.

Basis of Italian Reduction

He said the 22 million dollar Italian cut was based among other considerations on Italy's plans to pay five million dollars in settlement of some war claims of United States nationals, make a seven-million-dollar partial repayment to the Export-Import Bank on a 1946 cotton loan, and make another four-million-dollar interest payment on a United States surplus property credit.

"In other words, instead of their obtaining a postponement of these obligations from their creditors," said Taber, "they are asking the people of the United States to pay the administrative expenses of France and Italy."

Hearings on the money phase of the aid program were made public along with the bill. These revealed that Undersecretary of State Robert A. Lovett told the committee to "face up" to the fact that "you will not get ny of this back."

Livesay En Route to Capital, Further Greek Aid Seen Aim

Athens, Greece, Dec. 17 (U.P.)—Maj. Gen. William G. Livesay, chief of the American Military Mission in Greece, left by air for Washington, reportedly to discuss plans for further United States aid to Greek troops fighting the guerillas.

Two American generals and six colonels, who arrived in Athens last week, visited Greek army headquarters at Volos. It was understood they would tour the fighting zones.

Troops, gendarmes, police and naval and air force units staged a surprise 3-hour maneuver in Athens. Tanks occupied positions near strategic buildings and scores of motorcycle police patrolled the streets. There was no explanation.

Dispatches from fighting areas said deep snow curtailed activity. A strong guerilla force was said to have attacked Nigrita, near Salonika last night but was thrown back.

Ten of 22 guerillas sentenced to death last week at Salonika were executed this morning, Athens newspapers reported.

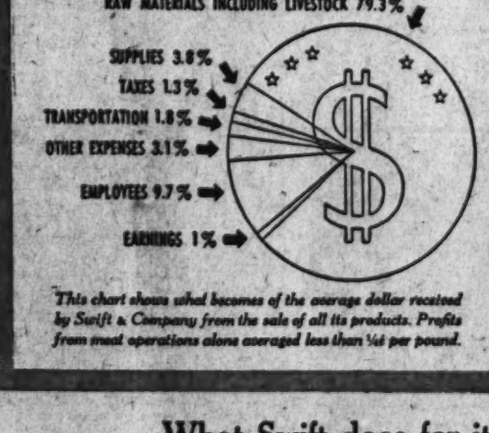
America's Best Bargain in Service

In 1947, Americans ate 156 pounds of meat per person—the greatest per capita domestic consumption of meat in 38 years.

Reflecting increased consumption and increased prices for meat and other products it produces, Swift & Company's operation for the year resulted as follows:

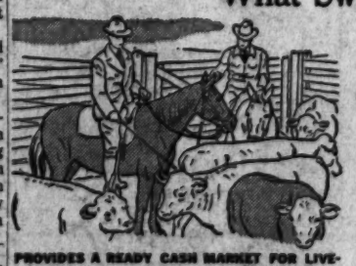
TOTAL SALES	$2,248,766,634
PAID FOR LIVESTOCK AND OTHER RAW MATERIALS	1,782,472,718
TRANSPORTATION, SUPPLIES, AND OTHER EXPENSES	214,886,770
PAID TO EMPLOYES	217,072,169
EARNINGS	22,334,977

Earnings of $22,334,977, after reserve of $12,000,000 for high-cost additions to fixed assets, averaged 1c per dollar of sales.



This chart shows what becomes of the average dollar received by Swift & Company from the sale of all its products. Profits from meat operations alone averaged less than ¼¢ per pound.

What Swift does for its profit on the products bearing its name . . .



PROVIDES A READY CASH MARKET FOR LIVESTOCK that farmers and ranchers raise. Most people can't go to farms to buy meat—neither can dealers. Firms like Swift are indispensable for buying meat animals, processing them, and distributing the meat where needed.

SWIFT GRADES, PROCESSES, BRANDS AND HANDLES THE MEAT IT BUYS—and has done this job of dismembling so efficiently that it has been able to market its products successfully in this extremely competitive business for over 62 years.

EFFICIENT USE OF BY-PRODUCTS REDUCES COST OF MEAT. Hides, biologicals for medicine and other by-products are saved, processed and sold in various forms. Income from this source does much to decrease Swift's costs, benefiting both producers and consumers.

SWIFT INVESTS IN RESEARCH, ENDOWS FELLOWSHIPS IN UNIVERSITIES, to find new uses, new markets for farmers' and livestock producers' products. Exercises constant laboratory control over Swift's branded products to make sure they are the finest of their kind.

MARTHA LOGAN KITCHENS REPRESENT THE HOMEMAKER'S INTERESTS AT SWIFT & COMPANY. These nation-wide kitchens test foods under home conditions, making sure that all foods bearing the Swift name give satisfaction and greatest value per dollar possible.

SWIFT TRANSPORTS THE MEAT IT PRODUCES in refrigerated cars and trucks, and by other fast methods of transportation. It uses these vehicles en route and delivers its meat to your town in perfect, good-to-the-last-bite condition summer or winter.

DELIVERS ITS PRODUCTS INTO THE REFRIGERATOR OF YOUR DEALER. In many cases Swift performs this service for dealers several times a week. It handles countless large and small orders efficiently, cleanly, as such highly perishable foods must be handled always.

THIS VAST, NATION-WIDE ORGANIZATION REQUIRES 73,000 EMPLOYES, who received wages and salaries during the last year amounting to over $217,000,000. This payroll is the largest item of expenditure after paying for livestock and other raw materials.

Mystery Veils Resignation of Schimmel, Center of Controvery While Senate Clerk

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

Mystery yesterday surrounded the sudden "resignation" of Herbert Schimmel, $10,000-a-year "expert," from the staff of the House Expenditures Subcommittee headed by Representative George Bender (R., Ohio).

Schimmel, who was the center of controversy 3½ years ago when he was a Senate clerk, is no longer on the Bender Subcommittee payroll, but versions of why he left vary considerably.

Openly angry when he was asked about Schimmel's leaving, Bender told The Washington Post:

"Mr. Schimmel resigned two weeks ago at his own volition. He rendered excellent service to the subcommittee. He did a fine job."

But other Republicans on the full committe, headed by representative Clare Hoffman (R., Mich.), told another story.

According to this version the Republican members of the full committee held a meeting last week and served notice on Bender that he must discharge Schimmel and two other members of his well-paid six-member subcommittee staff or face removal as subcommittee chairman himself.

In the Senate in August, 1944, Schimmel then clerk for the subcommittee headed by Representative Harley M. Kilgore (D., W. Va.), was disclosed to be in close contact with the CIO-Political Action Committee, no GOP favorite.

List of Names Up to Congress

prove a joint resolution." He then added:

"This may stop loose talk about insiders profiting by knowledge of Government purchasing plans."

The last statement, Anderson frankly declared, was aimed at Harold E. Stassen, candidate for Republican nomination for President.

Stassen, Anderson added, "has been engaging in the loosest kind of loose talk."

Because he is "so positive that Congress will wish to cooperate" with such a resolution, Anderson said, he has already asked the Commodity Exchange Authority to start compiling the list.

Anderson said the list "might include 14,000 names."

He added: "I think it will be a very interesting list."

The Agriculture chief suggested that the resolution be broad enough to permit the disclosure of all names of traders in commodities, including members of Congress as well as officials of the executive departments.

Within minutes the Republican leadership in Congress took up the challenge.

The House Republican Steering Committee decided to set up a special seven-man committee to investigate "speculation on the commodity exchanges."

Representative Andresen, reported favored for the chairmanship of the House investigating committee, had led off the House attack on market speculation earlier by introducing a resolution authorizing the Agriculture Committee to investigate dealings in both grain and commodity exchanges.

He said in a floor speech that heavy Government buying now dominates the market, and charged that people with inside information on when and what the Government will buy "can make millions."

Andresen demanded the resignation of Edwin W. Pauley, special assistant to Secretary of the Army Royall. He charged Pauley with "violating a trust" and expressed hope that the former treasurer of the Democratic National Committee would "resign at once."

Earlier Senator Homer Ferguson (R., Mich.) declared that he would formally ask the Senate Appropriations Committee to subpena lists of all persons dealing in more than 200,000 bushels of grain if Anderson stands pat on refusal to reveal them.

With his refusal Anderson inclosed an opinion by W. Carroll Hunter, solicitor for the Agriculture Department. This opinion stated that the law prohibits Anderson from disclosing "data and information which would separately disclose the business transactions of any person and trade secrets or names of customers."

Anderson released copies of his letter at a news conference sparked by heated comments on recent demands for the list.

He began by reading a recent statement by Stassen that three members of the Cabinet, Anderson, Secretary of Commerce Harriman and Attorney General Clark, had copies of the list.

"Such a list," he said, "is not before one member, nor three."

He added that the Attorney General's office has a copy, but declared "My latest information is that Mr. Clark has not gone over it."

He declared that if the rest of Mr. Stassen's information is "as inaccurate as that, he didn't get much of a pattern."

Anderson declared that whenever any report came to him of officials or employes of his department "dabbling in the market" he "asked the Commodity Exchange Authority to run in down."

"I have yet to find the first name," he added. He said the result was a "happy one," because "I wasn't the slightest doubtful about any of them."

Although declaring that he hated "to interfere with the private business of anyone," Anderson asserted he would be happy to see the list published to satisfy "those who think there's something sinister" in his refusal to divulge the lists.

"You will note that on two occasions two different Secretaries of Agriculture, in response to Senate resolutions, have declined to furnish information similar to that now being requested by your Senate Committee, Anderson wrote Bridges.

"In the first instance, Secretary William M. Jardine in 1929 refused to furnish the information to the Senate. This was during a Republican Administration.

"In the second instance, Secretary Henry A. Wallace in 1933 refused to furnish such information to the Senate. This was during a Democratic Administration.

"While I, also, have no alternative except to deny your present request for the names of individuals trading in the commodity futures markets, I assure you I shall be glad to furnish the information if the present legal barriers are removed.

"I believe this can be done immediately and without the delay incident to amending the existing statute.

"To help you get the information you seek I suggest that the Congress put your request in the form of a joint resolution, which I am informed would have the force and effect of law."

Anderson also challenged statements that the purchasing of grain by Agriculture officials had been poorly done.

"I have asked Congress several times," he said, "to compare the efficiency record of our $5000-a-year boys with the $30,000-a-year buyers for large milling interests.

"They have been in competition with the shrewdest kind of traders. If Mr. Stassen would specify his charges it would be very helpful."

Rankin Attacks Eugene Meyer In House Talk

By The Associated Press

Representative Rankin (D., Miss.) suggested yesterday a congressional investigation of the activities of Eugene Meyer, chairman of the board of The Washington Post, when he was head of the Federal Reserve System.

He made the proposal in a speech to the House after Representative Andresen (R., Minn.) had mentioned the current Senate Committee inquiry into the commodity market transactions of Edwin W. Pauley.

Rankin said the Republicans "seem to have forgotten that when Eugene Meyer was head of the Federal Reserve System he speculated through a stooge on the Exchange and made himself rich; while squeezing the currency and wrecking the Hoover Administration.

"I am told that he could not pay his grocery bills at the close of the First World War; but when he got through with the Federal Reserve System the Hoover Administration was wrecked beyond recovery, and Mr. Meyer was able to buy The Washington Post to defend himself with.

"It is now being used, and has been used all the time, to stir up race trouble throughout the Southern States."

Meyer was appointed governor of the Federal Reserve Board by President Hoover on September 16, 1930, and resigned May 10, 1933.

Archbishop of Canterbury Rebukes 'Red Dean' Disassociates Church From His 'Utterances'

London, Dec. 16 (NYHT).—The Archbishop of Canterbury, the Most Rev. Geoffrey Fisher, issued a statement today dissociating the Church of England and himself from "recent actions and utterances" of the Dean of Canterbury, the Very Rev. Hewlet Johnson.

Dr. Johnson, nicknamed the "Red Dean" by the British press for his pro-Russian opinions, replied he was a Socialist "and proud to be one and shall carry on in my own way."

Dr. Johnson, a member of the editorial board of the Daily Worker, was rebuked once before by his archbishop. He was told in 1937 to stop bringing politics into the church.

The Archbishop of Canterbury said: "Recent actions and utterances of the Dean of Canterbury have given rise to widespread misunderstandings and misconceptions liable to affect the relations of the Church of England with foreign churches or countries.

DR. ——

"The dean's office and jurisdiction in this country does not extend beyond the confines of the cathedral body of which he is head. Outside those limits he speaks and acts only for himself. The Archbishop of Canterbury has neither responsibility for what the dean may say or do nor power to control it."

Thousands of Test Tube Babies In U. S. Now, Doctor Writes

Chicago, Dec. 16 (U.P.).—A prominent obstetrician said today there now are thousands of "test tube babies" throughout the Nation and a clear-cut court ruling should be given on their legitimacy.

Dr. Stuart Abel of Northwestern University writing in a medical journal, said:

"Artificial insemination is a modern procedure and it is time society took a modern stand on the problem, even though it may define it as illegal."

He warned against "assembly line procedure." The doctor, he said, should have the complete responsibility of selecting the donor, who should be mature, so that his character and reliability are assured.

He believes that a married man with at least two children would best qualify and advised each donor be restricted to a limited number of cases because of the possibility of intermarriage.

Abel said a survey in 1941 of 30,000 physicians showed nearly 10,000 pregnancies through artificial insemination.

The donor fee has been established at $25 the first month, $10 the second and third months, and a total of $45 for nine specimens if nine are needed, he said.

Normally, three specimens a month are used.

The use of specimens from more than one donor or the use of a donor pool "would increase the anonimity of the procedure and perhaps warrants a trial," Abel said.

Churchill Left Buddha as Aid In Smiling

London, Dec. 16 (U.P.).—A black Buddha from a Burmese temple, bequeathed to Winston Churchill to "help him keep smiling," was one of the mementoes of the late Gen. Si Ian Hamilton's half century of soldiering on three continents distributed today by Hamilton's will.

Other bequests included the dagger of an Afghan holy man whom Hamilton killed in a duel in 1879, and a lock of hair from the ill-fated head of Mary, Queen of Scots.

Hamilton, who was blamed for the disastrous Dardanelles campaign of World War I, died October 12. He was 94.

Churchill planned the Dardanelles expedition and Hamilton led it. Historians now say the blame should have gone to officers who withheld support from Hamilton's forces.

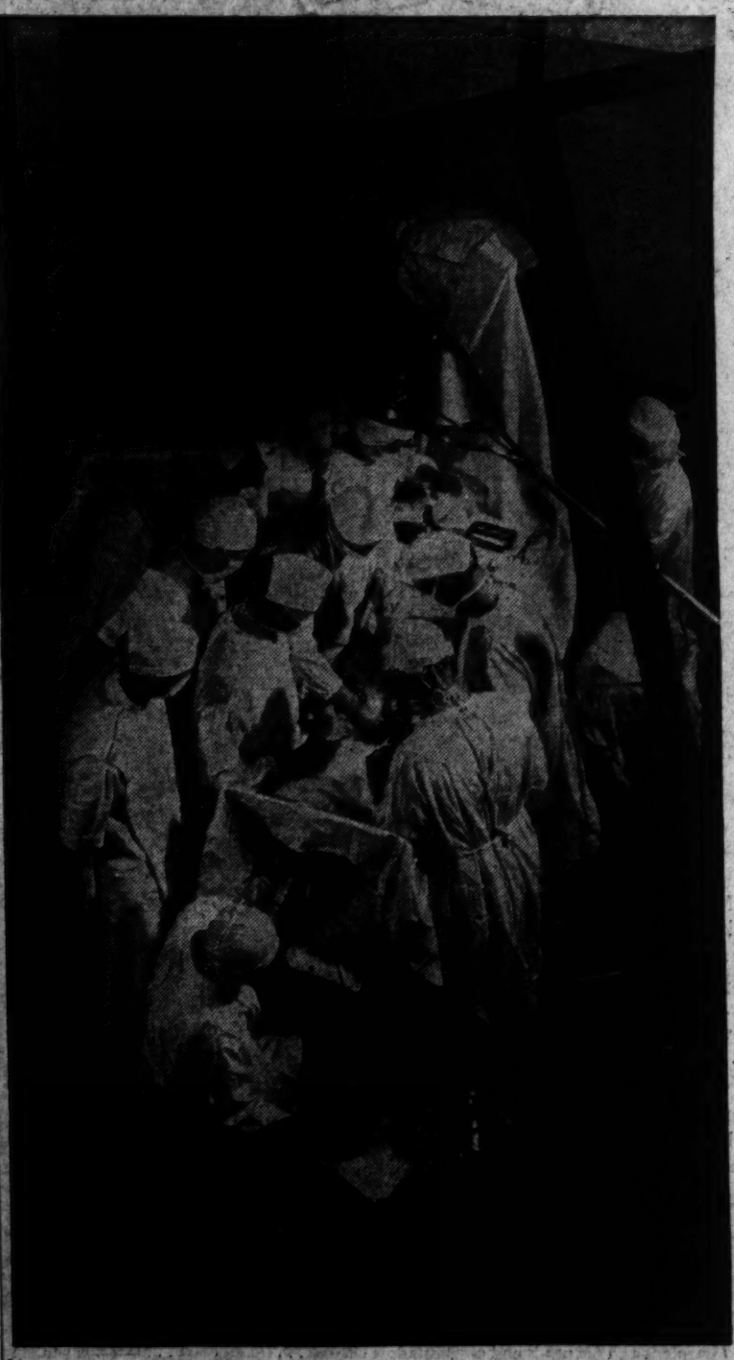
Chicago and Northern Illinois...

Future Medical Capital of the World



Already known throughout the world for its schools of medicine, institutes of scientific research, and large, well-staffed hospitals, the Chicago and Northern Illinois area will continue to attract important men of medicine from the world over.

Today, the area is the site of four medical and three dental schools of highest standing. Practical training is carried on in the 174 hospitals, and 27 sanitariums and infirmaries containing 71,349 beds. Here, also, are the homes of a dozen national and international organizations in medicine and related fields. The territory is now the world center for medical information ... more than forty medical and allied journals are published here.

Within the next few years, Chicago and Northern Illinois is destined to rank above all the great medical centers in history. Three tremendous expansion programs are far beyond the planning stage with most of the land for the buildings already purchased. Public and private sources have pledged additional funds for the establishment of new medical facilities, hospitals and laboratories to cover many acres of land and to cost hundreds of millions of dollars.

In the Medical Center District project, the University of Illinois and Loyola University, the State Department of Public Welfare and the Veterans' Administration will erect a community of new buildings for the study of aviation medicine, cancer and diseases of the aged. In another of these vast programs, Northwestern University plans ten new buildings, including an Institute for Medical Research in such fields as heart ailments, cancer and high blood pressure. Other buildings in this group will enlarge the facilities for special medical studies, hospital care and the nursing school. As part of this project the Veterans' Administration will erect a hospital, and Mercy Hospital will install a one thousand bed hospital unit and a research center.

At the University of Chicago still another of these expansion programs is under way. Four new clinic buildings and four buildings for atomic research, including the Institute of Radiobiology and Bio-physics, will be added. Extensive investigation will be conducted into the new possibilities in medicine, particularly in cancer, opened by the development of atomic research. Throughout all of Chicago and Northern Illinois many other groups have announced plans totaling more than 200 million dollars for hospital facilities.

Students and doctors seeking opportunities for research, advanced study, and actual training under foremost physicians and surgeons will turn to the many hospitals and schools here. As the land is being cleared in multi-million dollar programs, and as the finest hospital and laboratory equipment in the world pours in, future world leadership in the field of medicine is assured for Chicago and Northern Illinois.

This is one of a series of advertisements on the industrial, agricultural and residential advantages of Chicago and Northern Illinois.

Senate Defers Confirmation of Top Officers To Learn Why Some Were Passed Over

The Senate Armed Services Committee yesterday postponed action until next year on a long list of top-level promotions in the Army, Navy, Air Force and Marine Corps.

Chairman Chan Gurney (R., S. Dak.) said the unanimous action to sidetrack the nominations was taken to permit the group to make a thorough study of the operation of the new promotion law early in the regular session.

"There is nothing presently against any name on the list," he stated.

Senator Edward V. Robertson (R., Wyo.) said that several members felt that a number of outstanding officers had been passed over in the recent selection of more than 200 Army officers for permanent general officer rank, and wanted more time to look into the matter.

He said there was no suggestion that confirmation be delayed until the recent investigations growing out of the General Meyers' case are completed.

The Senate group did approve all nominations to ranks below brigadier general and rear admiral. The entire list of some 1760 officers was confirmed by the Senate later in the day. At the same time, Chairman Gurney obtained Senate consent to keeping the high-ranking nominations before the group, so they will not die upon adjournment of the special session.

15 Die in Tanker Collision

Senate Confirms NLRB Posts

Abe Murdock | J. Copeland Gray | Robert N. Denham | Cyrus S. Ching

David A. Morse | John T. Kmetz | Raymond M. Foley | Franklin D. Richards

With a minimum of argument, the Senate yesterday confirmed President Truman's two new appointees to the National Labor Relations Board and its general counsel, Robert N. Denham.

The two members are Abe Murdock, former Democratic Senator from Utah, and J. Copeland Gray, labor relations councilor of New York. They and Denham have been serving since the summer as interim appointees.

Senator Watkins (R., Utah), who defeated Murdock for the Senate seat, told his colleagues he did not think the three men "measure up" to their jobs, but added that he would not fight confirmation. Senator Ball (R., Minn.) said that he had been "mistaken" in earlier opposition to Murdock. He declared that Murdock was doing a "fair and impartial job" and was one of the strongest members of the NLRB.

The confirmation was accomplished by voice vote. Also by voice vote, the Senate approved the nominations of:

Cyrus S. Ching of New York to be Federal Mediation and Conciliation director.

David A. Morse of New Jersey as Undersecretary of Labor.

John T. Z. Kmetz of Pennsylvania as Assistant Secretary of Labor.

Oscar R. Ewing of New York to be Federal Security Administrator.

Raymond M. Foley of Michigan to be Housing and Home Finance Administrator.

Franklin D. Richards of Utah as Federal Housing Commissioner.

Defense Row Flares Openly

prepare themselves for their security missions. The Department of the Army has a program existent and hundreds of officers in all echelons are earnestly endeavoring to carry it forward within limitations of authorized appropriations."

General Evans and Col. William H. Neblett, president of the Reserve Officers Association, called in reporters Monday night and said leaders of the group were ready to tell congressional committees that:

1. Pentagon leaders are "giving us anything but the kind of security organization" the Nation needs.

2. Voluntary recruiting has "failed" and the Regular Army is dropping steadily in strength.

3. The Reserve is not "organized, trained or equipped to do anything." Only "one Reserve officer in five has been assigned to T. O. organization" and only one Reserve enlisted man in 24 has been contacted about being assigned.

4. After 2½ years the National Guard has only about one-third of the officers and men established as goal. Its recruiting program—though "about $1,500,000 has been spent in advertising so far"—is "certain to fail."

5. All of the Reserve components should be brought together into one ready and efficient Reserve force.

Hitting back at the Reserve Association charges, General Eddy said the ROA spokesman "chooses to ignore" certain facts about the situation, and cited the following:

A top-level committee headed by then Assistant Secretary of War Gordon Gray is now reviewing the entire reserve problem, charged with recommending a program to speed up its organization and training.

The existence of a special standing committee in the Department of the Army, headed by a Reserve officer, which is "constantly being engaged in organizational problems."

The recent appointment of a reservist to be Army executive for Reserve affairs.

Eddy said the Army will give a "sincere welcome" to the recommendations of "responsible spokesmen" of any organization. He added that "it would be interesting to see the plans and supporting data of this officer who describes as worthless the joint efforts of the responsible agencies of the military establishment."

General Evans told reporters that the Reserve Officers of the Naval Services and the Marine Reserve Officers Association were "about to affiliate" with the ROA.

"What this country amounts to depends on what happens to its homes."... That's why the life insurance companies and their agents are bringing you this series of messages from the nation's foremost authorities, to help you plan for happiness in the handling of your family money. (This is message No: 27.)

The REAL culprit was never tried!

"Son, we'll have to punish you for this!!!"

More and more children are heading for a life of crime . . . needlessly! As this authoritative article shows, there's a lot you can do to prevent it...

by DAVID W. ARMSTRONG
Executive Director
Boys' Clubs of America

David W. Armstrong

A BOY IN COURT is a disturbing sight, but 108,000 youngsters were arrested last year. According to the F.B.I., more burglaries were committed by 16-year-olds than by adults 35 to 39!

Shocking facts! Sometimes the blame must be laid to the neglect or carelessness of parents. Often they and the children are losers in the battle against poor environment or lack of money.

Just the other day I was asked for advice by the judge of a juvenile court. He had three boys before him awaiting sentence for holding up a grocery store. One of them, whom we will call Chuck Connor, had a good record before this misstep. The judge wondered if he could be safely paroled.

I told the judge I thought so . . . if I could talk to Chuck's parents.

Without knowing it, Mr. and Mrs. Connor had been guilty of what is by far the largest cause of juvenile delinquency: lack of parental guidance and interest. Chuck had been allowed to drop out of all activities which would have kept him busy and interested—and away from gangs and street corners. His parents gave familiar reasons: lack of time to think of his problems; no money for his hobbies.

I told them what I tell all parents: children must be encouraged to take part in any wholesome outlet for their energies. The church, playgrounds, youth-serving organizations . . . there are many ways of filling the dangerous vacuum of idleness where delinquency breeds.

Extra problems for parents

Today's difficult times make extra problems for parents . . . and make it more important than ever that they plan help for their children. If you are very busy you must plan time to spend on them. And if a dollar here and there is needed . . . for camping equipment, a model airplane, a ball bat, a stamp album . . . they should be provided for in the family financial plan. Set aside money for these as you would money for your children's food—in fact, they are food, for the heart and spirit.

Bad management of the family money (and the unhappy homes which result) often gives young people a sense of insecurity, drives them to street life. The best time to do something about juvenile delinquency is before it starts.

It isn't hard when you plan together!

How to PLAN for Family Happiness

• Budgeting for your children's hobbies is only part of sound money planning. You'll be more likely to have enough money when you need it, if you'll follow these rules:

FOR TODAY... The first thing, for most families, is to take care of the larger fixed items such as rent, taxes, insurance, mortgage and installment payments, etc.

So start by adding up all your fixed items for the year, divide by 52, and set aside that amount weekly.

Also, every family should have a "rainy day" fund equal to at least four weeks' income. Set aside a little every week until you have that much. Then, you'll know how much you can spend for food, clothing, heat, light, amusements, and so forth.

FOR TOMORROW... We live in a changing world. Family needs and circumstances change . . . living costs . . . taxes. If you have not had your life insurance program reviewed lately, the chances are 2 to 1 that it should be brought up to date.

There are so many ways in which you can use your life insurance, that you should have the life insurance you now own checked to see if it is suited to your needs. This is a service that comes with your life insurance.

The person best equipped to help you with this is the well-trained life insurance agent. Get in touch with your agent, or write your life insurance company. INSTITUTE OF LIFE INSURANCE, 60 East 42nd Street, New York 17, N. Y.

Wife Freed On Death of Mother-in-Law

It took a District Court jury only 15 minutes yesterday to acquit Mrs. Irma Trego, 36, of manslaughter charges stemming from the death of her 74-year-old mother-in-law.

Prosecutor Arthur McLaughlin had charged the older woman had died as a result of a beating at the hands of Mrs. Trego.

The mother-in-law, Mrs. Annie Trego, died in Gallinger Hospital last June of an infection, which it was charged, was brought on by the alleged beating. She was originally admitted for hip injuries.

On the witness stand, Mrs. Trego denied striking the older woman. Her attorney, Charles E. Ford stressed the fact that two months elapsed between the time the mother-in-law was hospitalized and the date of her death. He drew admissions from Gallinger physicians that the hip injuries could have been caused by an accidental fall.

The Government contended that Mrs. Trego attacked the older woman following a domestic argument with her husband at the home shared by the three and the Tregos' two children at 2235 Prout st. se. last April 19.

Court Revokes License of Bondsman

License of a District Court bondsman yesterday was revoked on the grounds that he had lied in an affidavit denying that he had ever been charged with an offense involving "moral turpitude."

At the same time, Associate Justice David A. Pine held out a ray of hope to the bondsman, John W. Carter, 48, of 1233 Girard st. nw., by promising that Carter's application would be held on the active list until it is determined whether or not he has been living a "moral" life.

Carter, who was admitted as a bondsman in District Court last November, had denied that he had ever been charged or convicted of an offense involving "moral turpitude."

A later investigation showed that he had been arrested a number of times on gaming charges and once for violation of of the Stolen Property Act. and never convicted.

Most of the charges occurred 15 or more years ago. He last was charged eight years ago with violation of the United States Employment Compensatoin Act. Since then his record has been clear.

Worldwide Bill Of Rights Voted

Geneva, Switzerland, Dec. 16 (U.P.).—The United Nations Commission on Human Rights today adopted a world bill of racial, religious and political rights, unprecedented in history, "to promote human rights and fundamental freedoms for all."

The Soviet Union and the three Soviet satellites, Yugoslavia, White Russia and the Ukraine, abstained from voting.

The vote among the 18 member nations was 13 for the bill and none against. Chile was absent.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, chairman, voted for the United States. Others approving included Britain, France, India, Lebanon and Belgium.

Even more important will be the vote on a convention, incorporating the declaration and binding on the signatories.

Can't Taste Smell? Get Dictionary

Rochester, N. Y., Dec. 16. (U.P.)—What makes a hamburger smell the way it does and why do people sniff roses? You'll soon be able to look it up in an "odor dictionary," the American Chemical Society has revealed.

Ernest D. Crocker told a meeting of the Rochester section of the ACS that chemists had identified more than 500 pleasing aromas and catalogued them in the first odor dictionary, to be published soon.

There are only four basic odors, Crocker said—fragrance, as of flowers; acidity, as of vinegar; burntness, as of tar; and caprylicness, the distinctive odor of animals when they are wet.

Crocker pointed out that smelling isn't done by the nose at all but by the brain. He said smell impressions were carried to the brain by the olfactory nerve from the detection point situated in the upper part of the nasal cavity.

"We don't know how aromatized air is able to stimulate the nerve to carry its message to the brain," Crocker said, "and even guesses about it are not very convincing."

But regardless of theories, Crocker is all in favor of the sense of smell.

"Proper appreciation of odor is an important thing in enjoyable living," he said. "Let us not look down our noses at odors, but sniff them up instead."

Pact Made to Buy Fish

The State Department announced yesterday that the United States and Britain have reached a tentative agreement with Iceland to purchase up to 70,000 tons of fish for the combined occupation zones in Germany. The fish will be shipped to the American and British zones for consumption next year.

Gen. MacLean on Way Here With Program for Displaced

By Seymour Freidin

Trieste, Dec. 16.—Maj. Gen Fitzroy H. R. MacLean, head of a British liaison mission to Yugoslavia, will discuss soon with the American State Department a plan for setting up a world-wide shipping pool for large-scale overseas resettlement of displaced persons in Germany, Austria and Italy.

General MacLean, who left Trieste yesterday for Great Britain on his way to the United States, was said to be especially eager to resolve as soon as possible the displaced persons problem in Austria—a difficult internal and external political question. He is expected to arrive at Washington on January 3.

It was understood here that General MacLean will propose that the United States, Great Britain and other nations, including those in the Western Hemisphere and in the Pacific area, provide sufficient shipping in a common pool for the next two years to handle the resettlement abroad of those displaced persons for whom commitments have been made.

U. S. Reverses Self on 1 Vote for Each ITO Nation

Havana, Cuba, Dec. 16 (U.P.)—The United States, in a last-minute about-face, announced its support yesterday of one vote for each country in the forthcoming International Trade Organization whose charter is being threshed out here.

The United States reversal, Delegate Leroy D. Stinebower, pointed out to an organization committee meeting, represents a return to the original United States position first made public in 1945.

The United States move was interpreted as clearing the way for quick acceptance of the one vote principle. An informal poll of delegates earlier found a heavy majority of countries in favor of the single vote, and the United States among the minority which wanted weighted voting—in which a certain quota of votes is arbitrarily assigned to the bigger nations.

Comet's Tail Believed 75 Million Miles Long

Chicago, Dec. 16 (AP).—Astronomers at McDonald Observatory, Fort Davis, Tex., reported today they had observed for the first time in the Northern Hemisphere the comet first seen flashing across Southern Hemisphere skies last week.

Its tail measured one degree. Astronomers have estimated this tail to be up to 75 million miles long.

Liver Cooks Chef's Goose

Paris, Dec. 16.—Alfred Hanauer, an Alsatian trapeze artist, appeared today to have cooked his goose at the American Embassy.

With two convictions for swindling on his record, Hanauer was charged in a Paris court with impersonating an embassy official and mulcting a high-priced provision merchant out of $1500 worth of pate de foie gras.

Police said the Alsatian donned an American Army uniform, ordered nearly 400 pounds of the goose liver delicacy for a mythical embassy Christmas banquet, and drove the food and the store proprietor down to the embassy. There, according to the charge, he unloaded the goods in the lobby, told the merchant to wait in an anteroom and hoisted the comestibles out a side door.

Four Paris restaurant proprietors were also tried with him on charges of buying the purloined pate at black market prices.

Home Seeks Zoning Change

Ladies of the Louise Home, 1500 Massachusetts ave nw., think they have found a new place to live. But it will be up to the Board of Zoning Adjustment to decide whether they may buy it.

The board will hold a hearing today at 9:30 a. m. in the District Building to consider zoning changes which would permit the Louise Home to purchase the mansion of the late Dwight F. Davis, former Secretary of War, at 2145 Decatur pl. nw.

The Louise Home was set up in 1871 by a $375,000 endowment of W. W. Corcoran to provide living quarters for "gentlewomen reduced by misfortune."

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Ex-Major Loses Divorce Action

GEORGE J. JILLSON
His counter suit dismissed

Mother Wins Divorce, Son

they could learn to love and cherish. The court thinks they are entitled to live together and to be brought up together so that brother and sister will not only be names but conditions of reality."

Gives Custody to Mother

And then finally, "The plaintiff is the innocent person . . . she is the person to have the care and custody of the children."

You could almost hear those in the courtroom let out their breath. Kathryn Jillson sat stock still for a moment, then her chin quivered with emotion. She dashed out of one courtroom door and into another and gathered her child in her arms.

George Jillson, the father who had come back from Japan in September for the trial, stood there with his son, stolid and without visible emotion. And the boy started screaming, "Daddy, daddy, don't leave me."

Mrs. Jillson looked at the man who is no longer her husband and asked him if he would like to go with his son and with her. He indicated he would come along later, probably to quiet the boy.

And Mrs. Jillson almost ran down the hall, carrying the boy in her arms. He was yelling, "Daddy, I want my daddy."

Father to Appeal Verdict

He was still sobbing as his mother ran with him, still in her arms, down the courthouse steps, talking in almost a sob in her joy and relief.

And those who watched the touching scene remembered Mrs. Jillson's statement, just before the trial had ended.

Her attorney had asked her if she still wanted George.

"I want both my children."

"Do you think you can get acquainted with the boy?"

"He's my child and I'm his mother. I don't know why not."

Late yesterday, John J. O'Brien, attorney for former Army Major Jillson said, "It is apparent that an appeal will be taken in this case."

Damaged Refinery Partly in Operation

Baltimore, Dec. 16 (AP).—E. M. Callis, president of the Petrol Terminal Corp., announced today that partial operation of its Texas City refinery, damaged in the nitrate blast which rocked the city, has been started to help overcome the critical shortage of fuel oil.

Petrol purchased the Texas City refinery from the War Assets Administration in September. The plant, which Callis said is capable of processing 20,000 barrels of oil a day, required extensive repair of blast damage and deterioriation.

Alexandria C. of C. Elects

Joseph Phillips, an Alexandria automobile dealer, has been elected president of the board of directors of Alexandria Chamber of Commerce for 1948.

Other officers elected at a meeting of the board Monday were: R. H. Bogle, vice president; D. C. Book, business manager; and Mrs. Lillian Elmore, secretary-treasurer.

New members elected to the board for three-year terms were: Howard Richards, R. H. Bogle, C. C. Brown, Kenneth Aitcheson and T. J. Gore.

Phillips is president of the Alexandria Rotary Club and a former presidest of the Alexandria Retail Merchants Association.

The board also: (1) agreed to contribute its share of Alexandria's $450 quota to a campaign for the proposed Memorial (Monticello) Highway from Fairfax County to Charlottesville; and (2) appointed a committee to study the proposed new business license tax, under which all businesses would be taxed on gross receipts.

Churchgoers' Lact of Self Sacrifice Deplored

Civil Service Commissioner Arthur B. Fleming last night pleaded for correction of "a current easy attitude of churchgoers."

Addressing the annual meeting of the Metropolitan Washington Christian Church Council—comprising 21 Disciples of Christ Churches, Fleming declared solution of today's problems "can come only through application of Christ's principles," and added:

"We must project ourselves into life's unenforceable obligations. If we are to be true followers of Jesus Christ we must set goals for ourselves which will mean genuine sacrifice."

Fleming, president of the Washington Federation of Churches, was introduced by the Rev. William J. Lineback, director of work for the Metropolitan Washington Christian Church Council.

Mayor O. W. Youngblood of Takoma Park, a layman of Park View Christian Church, was elected a trustee of the Disciples organization. James L. Harrison of Minnesota Avenue Christian Church, Minnesota ave. and C st. se., scene of last night's session, was re-elected council president.

Other officers chosen were Donovan Campbell, first vice president; Mrs. O. B. Atwood, general secretary of Disciples' woman's work in this area, second vice president; Henry Lee Spencer, president of the Disciples Youth Fellowship, third vice president; Mrs. Elton H. Brown, secretary; Joseph A. Scott, treasurer. Mr. Lineback presented his annual report after Flemming's address. The meeting opened with a dinner.

How to help a boy become a man

Many American leaders attribute their adult success to the lessons they learned as carrier boys for some newspaper.

They learned that success depends on service: American customers expect to get what they pay for.

They learned that 75% may be a passing grade in school but one missed paper on a route of 100 subscribers means an annoyed customer and very likely a complaint to the office.

They learned that a contract must be kept—when the customer agrees to take the paper the boy agrees to deliver it every day, and neither weather, sleepiness, nor any other excuse should interrupt that contracted service.

They learned how to talk to people—how to speak up with self-assurance when seeking new customers, how to handle non-payers politely but firmly, how to think fast and talk to the point when trying to make a sale.

They learned self-reliance, to stand on their own two feet and not be eternally dependent on parents for pocket money or even for clothes and college funds.

They learned, in short, to grow up as men in the proud American tradition of self-discipline and self-reliance.

Part Of The Loaf

Chairman Taft and the Joint Economic Committee have partly rescued the House of Representatives from the untenable position into which it maneuvered itself on Monday. The House had given the impression that its concern was about 10 per cent for the control of inflation and 90 per cent for use of the inflation dilemma for political purposes. The people were watching to see what Congress would do about dollar butter, 90-cent eggs, 22-cent milk, 17-cent bread and outlandish prices for meat. What they heard was chiefly wrangling as to who is responsible for inflation and what party will be able to put in the best claim upon the consumers' allegiance in 1948. In the end all action was blocked. That performance put a terrific pressure upon the Joint Economic Committee to take a constructive line. It has only partly succeeded, but at least there is now a new opportunity to make a start toward inflation control.

The Taft Committee makes no pretense that its bill now before the Senate is a complete anti-inflation measure. If it is to be enacted before Friday, when it is assumed the extra session will end, it can be nothing more than a stopgap. But the bill does include the extension of transportation and export controls (with an additional provision to prevent export price gouging), and an extension of the present curb on the use of grain by distillers. These measures we applaud. Relaxation of the antitrust laws to permit voluntary control over scarce materials on the initiative of industrial groups is added, though it is of very questionable value. And a companion bill would curb installment credit.

At best this is a partial answer to the public clamor for effective inflation-control legislation. But it is a better approach than the House leadership offered apparently in the hope that it would be killed by Democratic votes and thus relieve the Republican majority of the burden of doing anything at all to halt runaway prices. Unfortunately, the Senate bill does nothing to cope with the plethora of money, to arrest the skyrocketing prices of food, or to extend rent control. We think action in all of these fields will be imperative in the regular session of Congress.

Good management in the public interest would bring about conferences, mutual concessions and final agreement on the part of the President and congressional leaders on an effective anti-inflation program. The people have precious little interest in whether the Democrats or the Republicans can present the best claims to championship of anti-inflation measures in the 1948 campaign. They want to see climbing price curves turned downward next week or next month. And no such result can be contemplated unless the political jockeying for position on both sides is abandoned in favor of a sincere meeting of minds upon effective remedies. Surely both sides ought to be able to see that politicking with this vital economic issue can bring only discredit and reproach upon the entire Government.

Food Or Liquor

The incomprehensibly elaborate formula for restricting grain consumption by liquor manufacturers, which Secretary Anderson has said he will offer at tomorrow's meeting of the Cabinet Food Committee, seems to us defective on three counts. First, it would permit the consumption by distillers of 2½ million bushels of grain a month—an unconscionable amount while there are human beings hungering for bread. Second, it would distribute this excessive allocation among the distillers in such a way as seriously to disadvantage the smaller producers. And, finally, there is no reason at all to believe that the big whisky makers will accede to even so lax a form of self-restraint unless Congress moves toward enactment of compulsory restrictions of far greater severity. Already, as John Ball reported in The Washington Post Tuesday, one of the largest distillers, Schenley, has served notice that it will not cooperate with the food committee in formulating a program to restrict production in any way when the current voluntary shutdown comes to an end on Christmas Day.

Representative Walter declared last week that "two of the largest distillers are buying grain in preparation for unlimited production of whisky at the expiration of the voluntary shutdown . . . Reckless waste of grain and skyrocketing prices are now in order. Competition will force the rest of the industry to follow these two companies with the result that upward of 10 million bushels of grain per month will be used. This is totally unnecessary because the whisky industry has adequate stocks on hand to supply consumer needs for some time to come."

Left to its own devices, in other words, the distilling industry may, within a single month, wipe out all the saving of its two-month suspension; in point of fact, much of the saving was wiped out before it ever began through reckless consumption of grain in the weeks immediately before the shutdown went into effect. There is no remedy for such irresponsibility save the kind of legislation Mr. Walter has proposed—a simple bill authorizing the President to allocate grain to users other than the users of grain on the farm on which the grain is raised. It is encouraging to note that the Senate Banking and Currency Committee has appended the essence of this proposal to the Taft bill. Armed with such power, the President ought to close the distilleries completely for the duration of the famine emergency—or, as during the war, permit their operation for a few days a month at most, a fairer formula than the one broached by Secretary Anderson. Whisky, after all, is a luxury.

Now There Are Two Worlds

Wendell Willkie's One World came officially to an end when adjournment was voted at the London meeting of the Council of Foreign Ministers. But the herald had been sounded as long ago as the few months between the Yalta Conference and the death of Roosevelt. Roosevelt in his last illness felt that cooperation with the world had been ruled out by the hierarchs of the Kremlin. Mr. Byrnes in his book, Speaking Frankly, tells of the message that Mr. Churchill got from Roosevelt an hour before he died. It advised the Prime Minister to minimize the general Soviet problem [of noncooperation] as much as possible, adding "we must be firm, however, and our course thus far is correct." Mr. Byrnes added "patience" to the formula of firmness, and his policy has been maintained by Secretary Marshall, who has been a model of patience. But no further purpose could be served by talking when all the world knew what Roosevelt felt, namely, that noncooperation had become Soviet policy; and, what was even more important, that noncooperation was obviously being used as cover for sabotaging reconstruction in Europe.

The studies of what Europe can do and of what America can do in putting Europe on its feet have been undermined by the progress of Soviet sabotage. A new setting faces the Marshall Planners—a setting that has been produced by Soviet wreckers at work. It is a study of contrasts. On the one hand, there are the officials in the Administration perfecting their blueprints and talking them over with legislators in Congress, and, on the other, there are Soviet-directed saboteurs tearing up the foundations for the proposed edifice. Both the officials and the legislators have been watching the destruction with a kind of fatal fascination. Some of the latter in Congress, as we have already noted, seem to be in favor of throwing over the entire undertaking, on the ground that the job already has been made hopeless. That is, of course, the counsel of defeatism, which is alien to the American character, and one which, in the light of what we now know of Moscow's aims, is also self-destructive.

To our view the immediate result of the breakup in London should be an effort to transform Bizonia in Germany into Trizonia. That would bring in the French zone. Over Trizonia a German Authority under Allied control should be set up, and this entity should be made the seventeenth participant in the Sixteen Nation Marshall Committee in Paris. A separate peace treaty with Germany is something to be avoided. Some day, when Europe has been restored to its feet, and when Soviet Russia's aggressive hopes have been dashed, there may be a return to the mechanism of the Council of Foreign Ministers. It was an experiment noble in motive, being intended to prepare the ground for the peace treaties. Mr. Byrnes was the author of the procedure. In his book he tells how as a young member of Congress he learned a lesson of how peace should not be negotiated from watching the Versailles Conference. In Paris there were endless bickerings when the peace conference was thrown open. Then, when the major powers sought agreement among themselves, the other powers were compelled to accept their findings without discussion. Accordingly, Mr. Byrnes hit upon the device of a council of the major powers to prepare drafts for the world of nations to discuss. The device seemed to be the more promising because of the success of a similar procedure initiated by Secretary Hull in preparing the way for the United Nations.

But, says Mr. Byrnes, the theory, good as it was, was faulty in one assumption. It assumed "that at the end of hostilities an era of peace would be so deeply desired by those nations that had fought the war in unity that the inevitable differences of opinion could be resolved without serious difficulty." The fact has been demonstrated by the experience of Mr. Byrnes and now by that of Mr. Marshall that the Soviet Union does not want peace by agreement. It wants to perpetuate weakness and chaos on the expectation that the economy of the United States will break down and the world will have to accept a Soviet hegemony. It is now the American duty to reconstruct western Europe and stabilize the American economy so as to make our world healthy and unassailable. The task calls, of course, for unity at home. But it also calls for all the wisdom of which this great Nation is capable. Moscow, in shattering the hope of one world, has committed us for good or ill to the policy of the balance of power, tempered by our membership and leadership in the United Nations—which is to say, the policy of "containing" Soviet aggression without counteraggression and certainly without hysteria. This is the kind of world that England led for a century after the Napoleonic wars.

Joseph Henry

In 1797—the same year that Franz Schubert was born in Vienna and Heinrich Heine in Duesseldorf—there was born at Albany N. Y., one of America's truly great men of science. The day happened to be December 17, 150 years ago. The man was Joseph Henry. Since his time, science has "come up in the world," but because Henry helped to lay the foundation for that phenomenal progress we owe him today a modest homage.

Joseph Henry was, as the astronomer Simon Newcomb wrote, "the first American after Franklin to reach high eminence as an original investigator in physical science." His first experiments were conducted at Albany Academy, where he was professor of mathematics. Here he developed the principles of the electromagnet and invented the first machine by which electromagnetism was applied as a motive force. Here also he built the first electromagnetic telegraph, "in which signals were transmitted by exciting an electromagnet at a distance, whereby bells were struck in succession." Later, at Princeton, he developed the principle of electrical self-induction; and in 1893, in recognition of this, the name henry was officially given to the standard unit of inductive resistance. Being a modest man and interested in science quite apart from its "palpable utility," Henry did not always publish his research promptly, nor did he take out patents on his inventions that might have made him a fortune. Consequently, today he must share with his contemporaries, Michael Faraday and Samuel F. B. Morse, the honors for some of his discoveries.

Perhaps Henry's greatest contribution was the part he played as the "architect of organized science" in America. In 1846, at the age of 49 and at the peak of a brilliant scientific career, he left Princeton to become the first secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, which had just been established under the will of the Englishman James Smithson. It was Henry who first organized the work of the institution and laid down the principles under which it was to operate in its program dedicated to "the increase and diffusion of knowledge among men."

Henry's work was important because it was pioneering. Whereas today there are scores of richly endowed research institutions and science foundations of a national scope, a hundred years ago one could count them on the fingers of one hand. Till then there had been in our Republic nothing like the Smithsonian Institution, whose purposes seemed to echo George Washington's injunction to "promote, then, as an object of primary importance, institutions for the general diffusion of knowledge." It was a new idea for our people. Henry was treading new ground, and the soundness of his work is attested by the fact that the institution he built has weathered the storms of a century and is still doing fundamental and important work in science and education, though now outnumbered and perhaps overshadowed by richer and more streamlined scientific institutions.

New Look In Venezuela

The exemplary election in Venezuela on Sunday is an indication of the encouraging trend toward stable constitutional government in several Latin-American countries. Mexico, Brazil and Chile have led the way in enhancing respect for popular government. It is particularly fitting that the newest growth of democracy should occur in Venezuela, birthplace of Simon Bolivar, especially since the iron control of Gomez and other dictators long prevented that country from realizing the freedom for which Bolivar fought. Today, incidentally, is the 117th anniversary of Bolivar's death.

The change is largely the result of the policies followed by the Betancourt government since the revolutionary junta seized power in 1945. Some persons saw in the pro-labor sympathies of the Betancourt regime an indication that it was Communist-inspired. The best answer is in the record. Aided by oil revenues, the government promoted many internal reforms to raise the standard of living and overcome illiteracy—measures which in themselves are antidotes to communism. The culmination was in the extension of suffrage to the masses hitherto disfranchised. Under the new constitution written by the constituent assembly chosen last year in a similarly fair election, all Venezuelan citizens over 18 are entitled to vote, and the ballot is secret. This accounts for the fact that in Sunday's election more than one million persons went to the polls out of a total population of slightly more than four million.

The election of Senor Romulo Gallegos as successor to President Betancourt marks, as the latter observed, "the return of full sovereignty to the people." What has happened in Venezuela is an example of the development of popular government that can occur elsewhere in Latin America providing dictatorial regimes are not shored up with outside help in blind resistance to change.

THE ORCHARD

Here in the time of harvest I have come
To seek the apple red and white
That hangs upon the autumn tree.
Still seems to linger on the air
The April hum of bee; the song of birds,

The loosened blossoms in ephemeral flight.
But now the globes of fruit are full and sweet;
Pale spring, the curve of summer,
Fire-red, frost-white are found
Where the rich branch leans down at last
To touch the apples to the ground.

'Diplomatic Boondoggling'

It was kind of you to invite me to reply to Mr. Bullitt's letter of December 15. His letter suggests that there are some personal differences between us, one of them being that Mr. Bullitt has never admitted that he was ever mistaken.

On the particular point which has aroused his ire—whether his proposal for China is "diplomatic boondoggling," I wish you would reprint your editorial of October 18 in which you said that "the notion that we could put the subcontinent of China on its feet with a billion dollars or so and a flock of American advisers is absurd."

I agree that Mr. Bullitt's proposal is absurd. We can measure its absurdity by recalling that in six months we have already spent 350 million dollars in Greece, and then noting that Mr. Bullitt says that 450 million dollars a year for the next three years is enough for China. That, he says, is the "price of preventing Stalin from taking over China and organizing its resources and manpower for war against us."

Despite all our personal differences, I am, however, grateful to Mr. Bullitt for reprinting statements of mine which show that, perhaps even earlier than he did, I appreciated the importance of China in the scheme of things. All that I would add to those statements now is that China is much too big a problem to be dealt with by the cheap and easy Bullitt proposal. WALTER LIPPMANN.

Help For The Navajos

In the past few months the Navajo Indians have received justified if unprecedented publicity. This group of more than 60,000 American citizens is the victim of muddled handling of a very difficult problem. There is little to be gained, however, in beholding the mote in our brother's eye. The Government, as the ultimate "guardian" of these people, naturally receives the heaviest attack, but traders, missionaries, educators, anthropologists, as well as Government administrators, have all failed in the problem of making it possible for the Navajo to subsist. In the last analysis, moreover, it is the American people at large who are responsible for the destitution, misery, and ignorance of this large group of citizens.

The irony of the situation is patent when we consider that the Navajos have long been one of the most popular attractions to American tourism. Such naive amusement at quaint costumes, beautiful silver and bizarre rugs, without a commensurate serious interest in the social condition of these people, is an unfortunate commentary on American citizenship.

The irony is perhaps enhanced when we remember that 3600 Navajos served in the armed forces during the war, but cannot benefit from the GI bill because of lack of elementary education, cannot arrange loans because of lack of security, and cannot vote because of technicalities in the constitutions of Arizona and New Mexico. (See "They Were Good Enough for the Army," by Oliver Lafarge in the November Harper's.)

The urgency of the situation this winter has resulted in a measure passed by Congress, with the backing of President Truman. This bill will provide two million dollars for emergency relief. It is not an appropriation for a fiscal year, or a budget for an extended program, but a means of forestalling starvation all over the reservation. Our responsibility for pushing this relief measure seems hardly debatable. It will not guarantee permanent security for the Navajo, but it will prevent the grim immediate realization of our traditional romantic phrase, "the vanishing Indian." D. V. KIRK.

Copernicus And Galileo

I am a devotee of Mr. Richard Coe's column and respect his critical faculties in matters pertaining to theater. However, I was very much surprised to note, in his December 10 review of the play "Galileo," that he did not chide Mr. Brecht (who fathered the script) for the biographical inaccuracies in his text.

It was Copernicus (1473-1543) who, 100 years before the invention of the telescope, discovered the solar system, known the world over as the Copernican system.

It was Galileo (1564-1642) who, in his work on solar spots in the year 1611 advocated the "heretical" Copernican system and was, in consequence, denounced as a propounder of heretical views.

Copernicus, a Polish canon of the Roman Catholic Church, spent half of his lifetime studying the firmament and completed his findings in the year 1530 but withheld the publication of his work until 1543 because of the stand taken by the church at that time. Such a revolutionary conception as that of the earth's minor role in the stage of the universe was by no means met with immediate acceptance. Copernicus was ridiculed in his lifetime; his fame is posthumous. Modern science, especially technical science, was founded on his thoughts and calculations. His work made possible the discoveries of his great followers, Galileo, Kepler and Newton, whose achievements promoted and enhanced the triumph of the Copernican system.

At any rate, it was Copernicus who "stopped the sun and set the earth in motion" but Galileo who, apparently, suffered the consequences.

Communist Address

I have sent the following open telegram to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower because, in my opinion, it is essential that the public know whether or not General Eisenhower is in sympathy with and condones the action of Columbia University in permitting the legislative director of the Communist Party to speak.

The open letter is as follows:

"This is an open telegram on a subject of vital importance to the American public. This morning's (December 16) New York Times carries an article on Page 35 stating that Arnold Johnson, legislative director of the Communist Party, will be allowed to speak at Columbia University at a forthcoming meeting of the Marxist Study group. Mr. Johnson was barred from making a similar address at City College on the ground that he represented an organization regarded as subversive by the Federal Government.

"In view of the fact that you are president-elect of Columbia University and also that your name is being given prominent mention as a possible presidential candidate, it is desirable that you publicly state your position regarding this matter. I realize that you have not encouraged the use of your name as a presidential candidate. Nevertheless, there is considerable public opinion in favor of your candidacy and some possibility that you may be drafted. Under the circumstances I believe the American public is entitled to know your views on the above subject."

Simon Bolivar's Anniversary

In all the countries of South America as well as the United States, where 10 cities are named for the liberator, today is celebrated the 117th anniversary of the death of Simon Bolivar. Bolivar was the George Washington of South America. If today our sister American republics are free from wars among themselves, if today this continent is independent of any sovereign ties with any other, if today the New World is virtually united in the determination "to redress the balance of the Old World"—then much of the credit must be given to these two great men.

Both of them were outstanding soldiers and inspired artificers of nationhood. Both had sublime faith that through their works a whole continent would find a new destiny. The oft-quoted phrase about Simon Bolivar, which first came from the lips of a modest village priest, celebrates with perennial beauty the fame of Bolivar: "His glory will spread and increase down the centuries, as shadows lengthen with the setting sun."

The struggle for American independence started eight years before Bolivar was born in Caracas, Venezuela. But it was not concluded until about 50 years later, December 9, 1824, when Gen. Jose de Sucre, favorite aide of Gen. Simon Bolivar at the Battle of Ayacucho, brought the fight to a victorious end. In no other Latin-American hero have statesmanship and military genius been combined in such a rare degree as in the great liberator. As monuments of his military skill there are the Republics of Bolivia, Colombia, Ecuador, Panama, Peru and Venezuela, the six nations he liberated from Spain. As a memorial to his extraordinary political insight we have but to contemplate Pan Americanism.

Most of us, however, are more familiar with Bolivar, the invincible warrior, than with Bolivar, the internationalist of prophetic vision. Few realize that he was the spiritual father of Pan Americanism. Yet Bolivar is the author of the famous phrase, "America is our country." More than ever before in the history of inter-American relations this phrase is a "must" to be remembered.

Over a century ago Bolivar saw clearly the essential similarity of interests of the 21 American republics. It followed that American statesmanship should work for unity of action, and for this reason he called the famous congress that met in Panama in 1826. Bolivar's hopes of creating a league of American nations at that memorable meeting failed, but he had laid the foundations for Pan-American cooperation and solidarity.

During the following century the great purposes which he had in mind moved slowly but now have become realities. It is time that north of the Rio Grande we joined with South America in keeping the anniversaries of Simon Bolivar, as well as those of his great colleagues in the noble cause of freedom: General San Martin of Argentina, General O'Higgins of Chile and Gen. Francisco Miranda, the Venezuelan apostle of South American independence.

Combating Foreign Gossip

By Malvina Lindsay

Backbiting The U. S.

MANY AMERICANS back from Europe are disturbed over the recurring pattern of questions they met in their conversations with average men and women. These included:

"Why does the United States want war?" (It used to be "Does the United States want war?")

"What are American women doing to prevent war?"

"How many lynchings do you have a month?"

"Why in a rich country like yours do people have to sleep in streets and alleys for lack of houses?"

"Why are American women workers exploited and paid less than men?"

The way in which these ideas of Americans have permeated back-fence gossip shows how well detractors of Uncle Sam are doing their work. An American visitor to Yugoslavia who talked to women leaders and workers was impressed by their great pride in their new economic rights. "The fact that our government gives women a place proves it is a true democracy," they told her pointedly.

They seemed surprised to hear American women workers were not oppressed. They were even more surprised on asking the inevitable anxious question about American women's efforts to stop war to learn of the widespread movement in this country for world cooperation.

IN FRANCE whisperings about United States housing, women workers, racial discrimination and warmongering have spread among housewives and working girls. One story going the rounds is that women workers are paid 30 per cent less than men. Still another is that no homes are being built, only big, commercial structures.

Similar tales are bandied throughout Europe. Bigger and wilder ones may be expected as American aid gets under way. How to reach the average European in combating them is a problem. The type of person who believes and passes on all that he hears is particularly dangerous—whether in Europe or America. He seldom reads much, generally doesn't listen to shortwave broadcasts. He doesn't understand American freedom of speech and judges national attitude by the irresponsible remarks and writings of American jingoes—which someway always get to him. With the American information program abroad greatly curtailed and most of its native workers dropped, this country officially has little contact with average Europeans.

American women particularly need to find a way to get two ideas across to Europe—first, that European women don't have a corner on economic rights, and, second, that women here are not trying to make war, rather are giving strong support to the United Nations and other forms of international cooperation.

WOMEN'S activities in these lines seldom are considered news by commercial news agencies that serve Europe. Releases concerning them, which once were furnished foreign newspapers by United States Information Offices, have been largely cut out. Many American libraries abroad have been closed. Documentary films and visual exhibits have been curtailed. The military government in Germany found that radio dramas of American life presented on American-operated local radios attracted many listeners. But it also lacks funds and trained personnel for this sort of thing.

If Congress votes funds to expand the foreign information program and if more foreign students and teachers can be brought to this country to study, more average Europeans may be reached with a true picture of American life. But Americans can take some direct measures themselves. Organizations, including labor unions, can establish wider and more personal contacts with like-minded groups in Europe and through these conduct information programs.

Individuals who send food and clothing to Europe can give more effort to correspondence with those they help. Instead of merely exhibiting publicly their letters of gratitude, they can cultivate foreign friendships by letter and try to explain American life to those to whom they write. For to Europeans the personal testimony of friends in this country is the most convincing of all so-called propaganda.

Social Work Attack

Strange things are taking place in the United States! In Baltimore the Commission on Governmental Efficiency and Economy has just declared that social worker psychology must be purged from welfare work.

I remember the painful upward struggles of social workers of 25 years ago when first steps were taken to change the horrifying "Lady Bountiful" methods of dispensing "charity." Social workers then were aware that the rampant individualism of our capitalist society doomed many weak individuals to crushing defeat in the struggle for survival.

Social workers were then among the advanced sections of our society who sought to establish some humane method of dealing with such problems. Today we find sinister forces at work which hope to wipe out all the progressive gains that have been made in the welfare system. Turn social work back to the businessmen! Such is the demand in Baltimore.

Yesterday the attack on social work was in New York. Where will the lightning strike next?

Matter Of Fact

The Difficult Partnership II

LONDON.—There is a strong tendency, in the American Administration, in the Congress and among our people, to take the British for granted. No doubt there will also be a tendency to take the French and Italians for granted, now that the Communists have been vanquished. This is plain folly.

If the interim-aid bill had not been about to pass Congress, both French and Italian governments would have been dangerously anemic and uncertain in their response to the Communist challenge. Neither in Rome nor Paris could the present disturbances have ended well. In a different way, despite the weaknesses of the British Communist Party, the same rule applies here in Britain. If most Englishmen were not counting on the regular congressional session to pass the European Recovery Program, Britain would now be desperately searching for a new foreign policy.

"Of course, every informed man realizes that if we throw ourselves into the arms of the Soviet Union, we must end in the status of Czechoslovakia," one member of the government bleakly remarked to this reporter. "But it's also true that we can't conceivably feed our people, keep our industry going and meet our expensive overseas commitments without a broad, constructive American effort to put the Western world on its feet again. If you weren't very generously and wisely making that effort, we should be forced—by bankruptcy if for no other reason—to try a new policy of making a deal with the Soviets."

THIS MAN was certainly exaggerating considerably. There is not much need to fear an actively pro-Soviet British policy. Yet the results will be grave if the European recovery bill is gutted or rejected by Congress. Britain will certainly turn against the United States, and Britain will immediately divest herself of all the world burdens—such as the burden of the German occupation—which she is now bearing in common with us. The Soviets have their eye on this possibility, as the signing of a temporary Anglo-Soviet trade agreement plainly suggests.

One of the negotiators has tellingly described Britain's attempts, now crowned with success, to open trade with the Soviet world. They have been, he said, "like the trade between two hostile savage tribes. One tribe leaves arrowheads at the trading stone and goes away. The other inspects the arrowheads, leaves the price in grain and goes away. Then the arrowhead makers come the next day and take the grain; and after that the grain growers creep up to get their arrowheads."

In short, at present, these dealings are for mutual convenience only. Yet the fact that the Anglo-Soviet agreement has been signed makes the outcome all the more certain if Congress gives the European Recovery Program the Taft-Wherry-Taber treatment. In that event, we can be sure that the present Anglo-American partnership will be irreparably breached.

Furthermore, even if we do what the British regard as our share of the joint job, there is another problem to be considered. Behind the petty limitations, mentioned in a previous report, the Anglo-American relationship conceals a very curious psychological problem.

VERY BRIEFLY, the great Winston Churchill's greatest single feat of political virtuosity was the way he dealt with our Government. Consistently, from the time of the Battle of Britain, he made things easy for American leaders in every way that he reasonably could. American officials became accustomed to this treatment. The same treatment was not offered them, however, by the postwar Labor government, which was too obsessed with its own gigantic and terrible problems to try to make things easy for anyone else. Therefore, the American officials reacted rather in the way a pampered convalescent might react if his nurse, instead of bringing up his breakfast tray, suddenly embarked on a long, horrible recital about her own aching back.

Then, too, Churchill was never troubled by the inequality between the British and American wartime contributions. He haggled like a marketwoman, as was his duty, to force us to contribute in proportion to our population and resources. It bothered him no more to take money from us than it bothered a great eighteenth century landlord to raise a loan on his property. In this respect, also, the Labor government is different. Most of them are men brought up with a deep respect for the value of money, and a fear of financial entanglement, as poor people are. Churchill had not the slightest fear that lend-lease would infringe his independence. Bevin, on the contrary, is obsessed with the idea that we may rudely try to call the whole tune, because we pay the piper.

This obscure but important emotion is capable, in itself, of producing serious and harmful divergences of Anglo-American policy. In short, the Anglo-American partnership wants some very careful rethinking, if it is to become, as it obviously must become, the central factor in the West's resistance to Soviet aggression.

Indonesia Reports Dutch Troop Threat

Batavia, Java, Dec. 16 (AP).—Premier Amir Sjarioeddin of the Indonesian republic, asserted today that Dutch troops are concentrating on Java perimeters "in sufficient numbers to possibly threaten the republican capital of Jogjakarta." A Dutch spokesman denied it.

Off The Record

By Ed Reed

"Must be a pillow—he couldn't have a waistline like that with today's food prices!"

Lilienthal Sees Atomic Energy Increasing Farm Production

Atomic energy "well may help solve one of the most vexing problems of humanity—how to keep food production in pace with the growth of the world's population."

So declared Chairman David E. Lilienthal of the Atomic Energy Commission to the American Farm Bureau Federation at Chicago yesterday.

Lilienthal said nuclear scientists of his organization are using by-products from the Oak Ridge plant "to unlock new knowledge of plant growth" and thus "magnify" farm production.

The atomic energy chairman warned farmers against the "Myth of the Atom Bomb"—that "atomic energy is useful only in a bomb, a weapon—and nothing else."

Instead, he said, plant research with radioactive isotopes offers "one of the glorious promises of atomic science."

"The plant scientist can by means of these tagged atoms trace the course of the elements in soil solutions through plant tissues," he said, "and in a way never before possible chart the changes that occur in matter in the process of plant life and growth.

"In your behalf the researcher can gain new and important knowledge of how plants convert the sun's energy into life energy on this planet. Who can say where this will lead in results beneficial to mankind?"

He said agricultural research with isotopes is going on all over the country.

"Studies aimed at control of the insects so costly to you will be aided by radioisotope technique," Lilienthal said. "Plant disease can be observed in a new way. The whole range of science affecting farm activities in the field are now open."

Edward A. O'Neal, president of the federation, also spoke. He said: "We have at our command scientific helps and advanced technologies which, if properly used, are certain to increase vastly the productivity of all enterprises, including agriculture.

"But we will never reach those heights unless we advance as rapidly in social and human relations and in our sense of moral values as we do in our technologies."

He recommended that the 5000 delegates support the United Nations, maintenance of consumer purchasing power, the Marshall Plan for Europe, further development of farm cooperatives concentration of soil conservation under one agency, and modification of the parity price formula.

The federation now numbers 1,275,180 farm families, Secretary-Treasurer Wilfred Shaw reported. That is an increase of 13 per cent over last year.

A message from President Truman declaring that agricultural production "must be measured in terms of its great contribution to democracy, freedom and peace," was read.

The President called on farmers to continue a "vigorous grain conservation effort." "Much of the required assistance to Europe can come from nowhere but the American farm," Mr. Truman said.

The convention will close its session with election of officers tomorrow. It was generally expected that Allan B. Kline of Des Moines, Iowa, will be chosen to succeed O'Neal, who had headed the federation for 16 years.

Economic Advisers

By Ernest Lindley

Time To Speak Out

IN ALL the current controversy over inflation and means of controlling it there is one important body which has not been heard directly. That is the Council of Economic Advisers, the board of three economists created by act of Congress to analyze the national economy and recommend methods of keeping it in a sound condition. The members are: Edwin G. Nourse, chairman; Leon Keyserling and John D. Clark. They form a balanced group.

Lindley

About October 1, the Council of Economic Advisers submitted a report to the President which has never been made public. It is understood to have warned that inflationary pressures had reached a point where firm action to check and relieve them was necessary and to have recommended some definite measures.

Proof that the Council of Economic Advisers takes a very serious view of the inflation problem was contained in its special report, The Impact of Foreign Aid Upon the Domestic Economy, submitted to the President on October 28. This was published. The council had not been asked, however, to frame, in this report, a definite program for dealing with inflation. It indicated some of the measures which it deemed necessary, but did not go into details.

Congress, meanwhile, has been receiving conflicting advice on how to deal with inflation. It has the President's program, which has not yet been fully elaborated in all particulars. It has received advice with a different emphasis from Marriner S. Eccles, Federal Reserve Board chairman. Mr. Eccles and Secretary of the Treasury Snyder disagree on a very important point: how to check the expansion of bank credit. And there has been sharp disagreement on this same point among the witnesses and advisers heard by the congressional committees directly concerned with inflation control.

IN SUCH a situation, it would seem appropriate to call on the Council of Economic Advisers for their advice. It is understood that, despite their differing backgrounds, the members of the council are not far apart in their views as to what is needed. There is reason to think, also, that these views would not be entirely pleasing either to the Republican majority or to the Administration. This probably explains, at least in part, why they have not been called upon to testify, to draft and make public a specific program, or to express opinions on the various alternatives proposed by others.

Two other objections to hearing the views of the council have been made. The first is one of principle: that the council is supposed to advise the President and that it is up to him to transmit its recommendations to Congress, revising them as he chooses. The annual economic report submitted to Congress under the Employment Act of 1946 is the President's, not the council's.

The second objection comes from within the council itself. It arises from the fear that the council would lose prestige and influence if it entered into a controversy which is political as well as economic. This could readily happen. But it is difficult to imagine any important economic controversy requiring congressional decision which can be separated from politics.

THE COUNCIL, in two paragraphs of its October 28 report on the impact of foreign aid, revealed how gravely it regards the possibility of a bad inflation:

"The relative shortages of specific commodities require export controls, allocations for domestic use, discouragement of misuse or excessive use, efficient transportation and distribution and the curbing of speculation and hoarding of goods.

"The general inflationary threat resulting from the combined impact of foreign and domestic demand requires the continuance of tax revenues at present levels, maximum economy in Government expenditures, stimulation of saving and the enlargement and aggressive use of measures to control dangerous expansion of credit."

The council went on to say that "remedial and preventive measures available to us are adequate if we have the courage to use them."

Two members of the council are understood to feel that the inflation problem is now at such a critical point that the council should speak out. Chairman Nourse is said to feel that the council should "play it safe" politically.

Neither the Administration nor a majority of Congress might like what the members of the council would say, if called upon for their views on specific measures. But the general public and the national interest might well benefit if those views were fearlessly stated.

The Gallup Poll

Democrats Have Slight Lead In New York Outlook for '48

By George Gallup
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

Princeton, N. J., Dec. 16.—New York State, whose 47 electoral votes make it the top prize in presidential elections, appears today in the Democratic column, but only by a slight margin.

New York State voters polled by the Institute on the question of how they might vote if a presidential election were held today show about the same division of sentiment as in the 1944 presidential election, when the State went to Mr. Roosevelt. Fifty-three per cent, expressing an opinion, say they would vote Democratic today, 47 per cent Republican.

Earlier reports by the Institute on two other major States—Pennsylvania and Ohio—showed them also in the Democratic column, but by very slim margins.

If a presidential election were held today, which party would you vote for—the Democratic or the Republican?

	Dem.	Rep.
New York	53%	47%
Pennsylvania	51	49
Ohio	51	49

However, New York cannot be considered as "in the bag" for the Democrats, because the unknown quantity is what the powerful minority parties centered in New York City—the American Labor Party and the Liberal Party—will do next year. ALP and Liberal Party support of Roosevelt helped him to carry the State in 1944 by a margin of 52½ per cent, and in 1940 by an even narrower margin of 52 per cent.

Importance of support by the ALP to Roosevelt in these two campaigns can be seen in the following tabulation of New York State votes:

Democratic	39.4%
ALP vote for Roosevelt	7.9
Liberal party vote for Roosevelt	5.2
Roosevelt total	52.5
Republican	47.5
	100.0
1940
Democratic vote	45.2%
ALP vote for Roosevelt	6.6
Roosevelt total	51.8
Republican vote	48.2
	100.0

If the ALP were to support an independent candidate — the name of Henry A. Wallace has often been suggested—such a candidate undoubtedly would draw far more heavily from the Democratic rank than from the Republican. This might cause enough of a split in the Democratic vote to give the State to the GOP. Republican Party leaders are, of course, hopeful that this will happen.

Truman Agrees to Address $100-a-Plate Democrat Dinner

President Truman yesterday agreed to speak at the $100-a-plate Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner at the Mayflower February 19. His speech will be broadcast to other Democratic gatherings all over the country.

Wilson W. Wyatt, general chairman in charge of the Jefferson-Jackson Day money-raising rally, called on Mr. Truman and obtained his promise to make the principal speech.

Senator J. Howard McGrath of Rhode Island, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, yesterday announced the appointment of Senator Francis J. Myers (D., Pa.) as chairman of the Democratic Convention Committee of Philadelphia, and the appointment of Mayor David Lawrence of Pittsburgh as co-chairman. They will be in charge of arrangements for the '48 national convention, which opens in Philadelphia July 11.

In Rochester, N. Y., Henry A. Wallace said he knew nothing of a report that John L. Lewis might be a candidate for vice president on a third party ticket headed by Wallace, but described the United Mine Workers chief as "a forceful figure."

Wallace has said no decision has been made on entering a third party in the 1948 presidential race.

Judge Promises To Jail Gamblers

Jail sentences instead of fines will be imposed on convicted gamblers in Prince Georges County Court, Judge Charles C. Marbury warned yesterday.

As the judge was delivering his edict against commercial gambling, two more defendants were arrested a few blocks from the courthouse at Upper Marlboro, Md.

The judge gave his warning as he sentenced seven who pleaded guilty to gaming law violations. Charges against five others were stated, or in effect, postponed indefinitely on recommendation of State's Attorney A. Gwynn Bowie.

Judge John B. Gray, jr., sat with Judge Marbury and concurred in the sentences.

Only one of the group was sentenced to jail. James Davis, 42, of North Brentwood, Md., was sentenced to six months in the Maryland House of Correction.

In the six other cases, the judge imposed fines which must be paid and the imposed suspended sentences in the House of Correction which will not have to be served unless the defendants are arrested again.

The six were:

James J. Gilhooley, 40, 2025 I st. nw. $300 fine, 6 months suspended sentence; Salvatore J. Mancuso, 29, 1211 10th st. nw., $300 and 6 months suspended; Leo R. Walters, 26, 2011 Columbia rd. nw., $200 fine, 6 months suspended; James B. Baker, 27, 2703 Arundel rd., Mount Rainier, Md., $500 fine and one year suspended; James R. Robey, 45, 821 Maryland ave. ne., $300 fine and one year suspended in each of two cases; James H. Moore, 38, 2812 Buena Vista Terrace se., $200 fine and 6 months suspended on each of two cases.

Cases were stetted for the following:

Hugh J. Crowley, 48, of 5468 15th pl., Michigan Park Hills, operator of Crowley's Tavern, 4308 Rhode Island ave., Brentwood, Md., where two persons were arrested for taking bets in a basement room; Sam Brown, 37, of Miami Beach, Fla., and the Hamilton Hotel, one of those arrested at Crowley's; James K. Ryan, 41, 9031 48th pl., Berwyn, Md., former Colmar Manor town policeman, in whose home two operators were arrested; George E. Simon, 38, of 3821 17th st. ne., and James F. Hassett, jr., 21, 323 V st. ne.

Three other gambling cases are scheduled for today. They are:

Meyer D. Laski, 47, 4668 Chelsea ave., Suitland Manor, and Emil W. Tarlan, 42, 4668 Homer ave., Suitland, both arrested December 1 on charges of accepting race horse bets and numbers, and Hoyt F. Cooley, 34, no fixed address, arrested November 29 on charges of possession of numbers slips by Marlboro police.

The two arrested yesterday were George J. Wyvill, 19, of Upper Marlboro, Md., and Glenn E. Elliott, 51, of 2115 Pennsylvania ave. nw., former Marlboro barber, charged with operating a lottery by County Policemen Emmet Gray and Corpl. Roland Sweltzer.

'Husband of 55' Admits Swindling Widow

St. Paul, Dec. 16 (U.P.).—John Hurley, a 44-year-old "love merchant," who boasted that he had 55 wives and then took poison, pleaded guilty from his hospital bed today to having swindled a widow of $9000.

Judge Dennis Donovan deferred sentence pending an investigation of Hurley's record.

Citizens Denied Funds to Fight Bur Fare Hike

A requested $3360 allocation to the Prince Georges County Civic Federation to hire counsel to fight higher fares was denied yesterday by Prince Georges Commissioners.

The commissioners said Waldo G. Burnside, counsel to the board of commissioners, had ruled that they have no legal authority to make such an allocation.

The request was made by the board by Louis A. Day, chairman of the Civic Federation's public utilities committee and a member of the Prince Georges County Joint Transportation Committee. He said the funds would be used by the federation to retain counsel for one year to oppose proposed fare increases by Capital Transit Co.

Day told the commissioners loss of special reduced fares for school children, as proposed, would necessitate purchase of additional school buses by the county.

The commissioners heard a report that the Marlboro office of the Prince Georges County Veterans' Service provided 80 services to 45 veterans during November and 89 services to 50 veterans who were provided in October.

the ONE MILLIONTH BENDIX WASHER GOLD PLATED

A SYMBOL OF THE AMERICAN WOMEN'S FAVORITE AUTOMATIC WASHER

THEY KNOW THE BENDIX SAVES TIME AND WORK!

Just put your clothes in the Bendix, set the dial, add soap . . . and you're through! All by itself the Bendix washes, rinses three times and damp drys the clothes . . . cleans itself, then shuts off automatically! You don't even have to be there.

THEY KNOW THE BENDIX SAVES HOT WATER!

The thriftiest way to get clothes cleanest is to tumble them, hundreds of times, in and out of a small amount of hot suds . . . and rinse them thoroughly. That's how the Bendix works.

THEY KNOW THE BENDIX SAVES CLOTHES!

The Bendix "Tumble-Action" is gentle action . . . safe with the daintiest fabrics. No agitator wear and tear . . . no rubbing, scrubbing and twisting.

THEY KNOW THE BENDIX SAVES SOAP!

The average Bendix owner spends about $1 a month less on soap than she would with an ordinary washer. That's because the Bendix gets a whole load of clothes sparkling clean on just a few tablespoons of soap.

IS IT REALLY AS GOOD AS ALL THAT?

Among the first million Bendix owners is one who lives near you. So don't take our word for it . . . have a chat with her, just to make sure the Bendix is the best buy for you. She'll tell all . . . as you know.

Mack Named Head of D. C. Appraisers

By S. Oliver Goodman

Curt Mack, veteran of 27 years in the real estate business and now with the Federal Housing Administration, was elected president of the Washington Chapter of Society of Residential Appraisers at the annual meeting last night in the Burlington Hotel. He succeeded R. Latimer Barkley.

Mack

Others elected were: Carl Smuck, vice president, and R. Lee Baxter, secretary-treasurer.

Mack, a native of St. Louis, has been a realtor since 1920. When he left the Missouri metropolis, he was vice president of Lawyers Title Co., there. He came to Washington in 1938 as director of appraisals for the FHA. In 1940 he was elevated to assistant commissioner in charge of underwriting and holds that position at present.

Principal speaker was J. A. Livingston, business columnist of The Washington Post, who declared that the biggest single factor in the 1948 business outlook is the fact that it's an election year. "Neither the Democrats nor the Republicans will take the political risk of pricking the current inflation bubble and causing a recession." He added that a business setback next year would be a benefit in the long run. "It might avert a third round of wage increases, followed by a spurt in prices, which would be followed in turn by a wave of inventory speculation."

Also elected were the following members of the local appraisers governing board: Julian Scott James D. Skinner, Lansing Balk and Allan Elliott.

PEPCO RULING: The National Association of Securities Dealers, Inc., has ruled that all "when distributed" contracts in Potomac Electric Power Co. common stock, $10 par value, shall be settled on Friday, December 26. All contracts on and after Monday, December 22, shall be "regular way" unless otherwise specified.

EXTRA DIVIDEND: Directors of American Security & Trust Co. declared an extra dividend of 2½ per cent, or $2.50 a share, in addition to the usual quarterly of 3½ per cent on capital stock. This will make total dividends of $13.50 a share for this year, compared with $11.50 in 1946. President Daniel W. Bell also reported that directors had voted a Christmas bonus to employes "more generous than given in recent years." In addition, he said, the board authorized an increase of $1000 in the amount of insurance given to all employes."

VOLUME SOARS: Business volume of Manufacturers Credit Co., Washington commercial bankers, totaled $3,412,402 for the first 11 months this year, President Charles Delmar reported yesterday. This was an increase of 82.5 per cent over the $1,870,148 for the full year of 1946, he added. Directors declared the regular quarterly dividend on the 6 per cent preferred stock, payable December 31 to stock of record December 23.

PLAN DISCUSSED: Unanswered questions in the Marshall Plan were discussed last night before the Controllers Institute of Washington by Ferdinand Kuhn, jr., of The Washington Post. The whole European recovery program could be crippled, he said, by clumsy administration of the plan or by tying too many strings to the European nations' use of their recovery funds. He outlined alternative methods of management and supervision at home and abroad. The meeting at the Carlton Hotel was under the direction of Henry Herzog, institute president.

WHO'S WHO TODAY: W. & J. Sloane has appointed J. F. Lynch assistant treasurer and E. F. Buehler auditor of the New York store . . . Hilton Hotels Corp. has elected Col. Henry Crown as vice president and member of the executive committee; J. R. Herndon, jr., vice president and treasurer; Herbert E. Holt, assistant treasurer . . . George W. Hand, assistant to president of Chicago & Northwestern Railway, will retire January 1 after more than 44 years of rail service.

ODD LOTS: American Telephone & Telegraph Co., in a report to Federal Communications Commission, announced that net income of $118,334,141 in first 10 months was $22,448,300 less than that for the same 1946 period . . . Gulf, Mobile & Ohio Railroad for first time in its history declared a common stock dividend; 50 cents a share . . . National Board of Fire Underwriters estimated that United State fire losses for first 11 months reached $624,274,000, exceeding any previous annual loss and was 24 per cent above the like 1946 period . . . Pennroad Corp. acquired 348,556 shares of its own common stock during 1947 to reduce outstanding shares to 5,156,529 . . . Commercial and industrial failures in week ended December 11 rose to 87, highest in any week since May . . . Charles Pfizer & Co., Inc., has leased Government plant at Terre Haute, Ind., for production of antibiotics such as penicillin and streptomyoin .

DIVIDENDS: Directors of Prince Georges Bank & Trust Co. declared an extra dividend of 5 per cent, or 50 cents a share, payable January 2 to stock of record December 20. This makes a total of $1.50 a share in dividends for this year . . . Norfolk & Western Railroad voted a quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share on preferred stock, payable February 10, to stock of record January 14

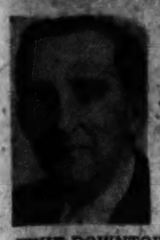
Christmas Package



A Fast Wrap-up Of Yule Flicks

By Richard L. Coe

THE DOWNTOWN THEATERS are well set for the holiday season. There will be some unusual opening days, one or two bills may prove good enough to shift plans by holding over, and it's conceivable, too, that Susie Bracegirdle's vehicle may fizzle out earlier than expected.

At any rate, here, in tenderly alphabetical order, are the holiday plans of the downtown showcases:

CAPITOL: "Wyoming," which presumably will find William Elliott and Vera Ralston out in the State whose motto is "Let Arms Yield to the Gown," opens a six-day run tomorrow with the Stroud Twins headlining the stage bill. Christmas Eve, a Wednesday, Mickey Rooney, the new, non-Hardy Rooney, will arrive in "Killer McCoy," with John Boles and Pansy the Horse on stage. The 31st brings Joan Crawford in "Daisy Kenyon," with Smith and Dale headlining the stage bill. There'll be a special midnight show New Year's Eve.

COLUMBIA: "Golden Earrings" takes over today after a week's stay at the Capitol. Wednesday, the 24th, "Thunder in the Valley" arrives. This is Robert Bassler's Technicolor version of "Bob, Son of Battle," with Lon McCallister, Peggy Ann Garner and Edmund Gwenn. "Green Dolphin Street" will arrive the 31st, also including a midnight show New Year's Eve.

EARLE: See "Warner"!—which is one way of paying graceful tribute to a change of name 1947 has brought and also of pleasing a publicity department which seems to read this column.

GAYETY: Manager Bernie Ferber is rejoicing over a week's visit from comic Dusty Fletcher, the "Open the Door, Richard" man. Dusty used to play the Gayety a lot before that song hit the jackpot; his regular salary was $150 a week. Fletcher-inflation has set in, and beginning Friday he'll be getting $1500 for his seven-day stint.

HIPPODROME: With "Green for Danger" in its last three days, another British film is set to follow—"Hungry Hill," adapted from Daphne du Maurier's novel, takes over Saturday, with Margaret Lockwood in the lead. The story's about a mid-Victorian feud between two Irish families.

KEITH'S: Robert Montgomery's "Ride the Pink Horse" arrives this morning, but no matter how good it turns out to be it'll stay one week only. On the 24th "Tycoon" arrives as one of RKO-Radio's more ambitious offerings. In this Technicolor melodrama John Wayne plays an American engineer in South America, Laraine Day the daughter of his boss, Cedric Hardwicke. A midnight show is scheduled New Year's Eve.

LITTLE: Christmas spirit takes over this morning with "Miracle on 34th Street," that merry comedy of last summer about the rivalry between Macy's and Gimbel's. Maureen O'Hara, Edmund Gwenn and John Payne are the stars. Christmas Eve comes "The Great Mr. Handel," the British biography about the composer who was a Regency favorite. Portions of "The Messiah," naturally, occupy a good deal of the sound track.

METROPOLITAN: Those Technicolored British royal wedding pictures come over from the Warner with "It Had to Be You," beginning tomorrow. Christmas Day brings William Elliott, one of the small fry favorites from "Wyoming," as "The Fabulous Texan," with Andy Devine and John Carroll. New Year's Eve the Met has a special trick up its sleeve, reserving that time for the opening of "The Upturned Glass," the James Mason film which will take over officially on the 1st.

NATIONAL: Bobby Clark, Marjorie Gateson and June Knight wind up their two weeks of hilarity in "Sweethearts" Saturday night. Monday Charlotte Greenwood—and the guild subscribers—take over for a fortnight in John van Druten's nostalgic "I Remember Mama." On January 5, "Carousel," the Rodgers-Hammerstein musical, opens a three-week run.

PALACE: Bob Hope sticks around for an added six days in "Where There's Life." On the morning of the 24th, Metro's big Technicolored musical for the Christmas trade, "Good News," arrives with June Allyson, Peter Lawford and Joan McCracken in the leads of the old musical comedy stage hit. Yes, there'll be a midnight show Christmas Eve.

PIX: Two double bills split the pre-Christmas week, with "The Brighton Strangler" and "The Curse of the Cat People" taking over Friday to run through Sunday night. Monday through Wednesday: "Unholy Love," "Reckless Girls" and "Youth Runs Wild." Christmas Day begins an "All-Laugh Show," highlighted by "Bringing Up Father," with Joe Yule (Mickey Rooney's dad) and Rene Riano as the comic strip team.

TRANS-LUX: Beginning tomorrow, the newsreel house joins the Metropolitan in offering J. Arthur Rank's Technicolor album of the Princess Elizabeth wedding. Christmas week, the theater is hoping to present a two-reel special on "Football Highlights of 1947." It's still tentative, but highly probable, say they.

WARNER: "I Love Trouble," with the accent on melodrama, arrives tomorrow, with Franchot Tone and Janet Blair in the top spots. Christmas Day brings Joyce Reynolds and Robert Hutton in "Always Together," as well as a special two-reel short, "A Voice Is Born," in which the Hungarian tenor, Miklos Gafni, tells his own remarkable story. On the 31st, Warner's holiday musical arrives—"My Wild Irish Rose," with Dennis Morgan as singer Chauncey Olcott.

TODAY: Youngsters of the Walter B. Patterson School offer their pageant, "The Spirit of Christmas," including 50 bushels of food for European war orphans, this morning at 9:30 and tomorrow night at 7:30 . . . Vincent Lopez drops into town today, signing disc albums at Hecht's main store this morning at 11 and at the Silver Spring store this afternoon at 4 . . . And don't forget that "sneak preview" tonight at the Capitol right after the last showing of "Pirates of Monterey."

SANTA'S TARGET: With Kris Kringle—Edmund Gwenn—as the Santa who brings peace to Macy's and Gimbel's as well as romance to these two—Maureen O'Hara and John Payne return this morning in "Miracle on 34th Street" at the Little

Tariff Cuts Start Jan. 1 on Truman Order

By the United Press

President Truman yesterday ordered into effect January 1 some of the tariff cuts granted by the United States at the Geneva World Trade Conference last summer. He acted after exchanging sharp letters on the subject with Representative Harold Knutson (R., Minn.), chairman of the tariff-writing House Ways and Means Committee.

The President's proclamation gave provisional approval of United States concessions which primarily benefit seven nations which also have agreed to make their tariff cuts effective January 1. The other 15 nations which took part in drafting the greatest single tariff revision ever negotiated have not yet ratified the treaty.

Made Public by Knutson

Just before the President acted, Knutson had made public the exchange of letters in which he asked Mr. Truman about "persistent rumors from reliable sources . . . that you will sign all of the concessions listed . . . in the (trade) agreement regardless of how many nations will have actually formally accepted the agreement."

Mr. Truman's reply, dated December 11, concluded:

"When the Trade Agreements Act is ready to be approved and implemented you will be informed officially through channels which will have no foundation through rumors," the presidential letter said.

The Trade Agreements Act permits the President to cut United States tariffs as much as 50 per cent in return for trade concessions granted by other countries. The statute will expire next June 12 unless it is extended by Congress.

Knutson, in whose committee an extension bill would have to originate, said in his letter to the President that he had not yet decided whether the act should be extended.

Nations Affected

"Nations affected by yesterday's executive order are Australia, Canada, France, the United Kingdom, the Netherlands and Luxembourg. The last three nations are joined in a customs union and are treated as a single unit ("benelux").

Miss Tolson Performs Easily Music of French Classical Era

By Paul Hume

(Reprinted from yesterday's final edition)

Margaret Tolson opened her Phillips Gallery piano recital last night with a witty commentary on the weather outside. "Le bavelot flottant" by Couperin, in its preoccupation with simple harmonic devices of the seventeenth century, ornamented in a hundred ways, reminded one but happily of the gentle inclemency of the evening.

Continuing in early French vein, we passed the Mysterious Barricades, also of Couperin, to reach Ramean's variations on the simpletons of Sologne. In these, simplicity itself became an art, and music made immortal foolishness which would otherwise have died without notice.

In all these things, Miss Tolson showed herself at home (no small order) in music of France's greatest classical period. Passing to the Prelude, Chorale, and Fugue of Cesar Franck, the same authority of style held, in a reading marked by fine deliberation in tempos, and lyricism where appropriate. These are qualities without which Franck loses all vitality and meaning. Nothing, however, can alleviate some of those pages where the diminished seventh reigns supreme.

Margaret Tolson has firmly established her command over modern works. A stern, impassioned Passacaglia of Walter Piston was made both luminous and exciting, but excitement grew in two fine excerpts from a suite of Bela Bartok. These were surpassed, in writing by the same composer's two dirges, in which a nobility of expression akin to that of the last piano concerto was constantly evident.

Two etudes from Robert Casadesus divided themselves into opposing camps. The first was a technical tour de force, delivered with ease, and awakening our interest in the pianist-composer. The second, played equally well, seemed to be a matter of insistence on the rhythmic and harmonic vocabulary of Edvard Grieg. We couldn't have been more surprised.

Finest playing of the evening was held until the end, when the unhappy torment of Charles Tomlinson Griffes' sonata was poured out in an eloquent account.

The music is no less surprising than when it was first heard. Its mechanics are understood today, as perhaps they were even then, but the meaning behind the music is something which still eludes us. It is beautiful, muh as statues of Niobeare beauiful. Our wonder is at the profundity of the grief expressed through so mobile an art as music. Our gratitude belongs to the artist of the evening for having let us hear once more so rare a work.

Mary Haworth's Mail

To Her Great Dismay, Man's Second Bride Finds on Homecoming That His Disparaging References to First Wife Were Unfounded

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I was in France with my parents when the war came, and as my father wouldn't leave, mother and I stayed, too. While there I met and fell in love with an American boy who told me he loved me also.

Finally he asked me to marry him. I said yes and then he told me about a previous marriage to an older woman whom he'd never loved. He said he didn't know why he had married her. Later he got a divorce and we were married in France.

Now we are back in his home town and he is so changed I hardly know him. One evening while out walking we passed another couple and Rob became so upset he couldn't speak to me during the balance of our walk.

When we got home I asked him to explain. He said the girl was his first wife and the man a friend of theirs. Then he flew into a rage against the man, calling him vile names and saying that Delia (his wife) was throwing herself away on him.

Home Town Cool Toward Newcomer

THE GIRL we passed was certainly not "an older woman." She was small, looked young and I'd call her pretty. I was very upset by the difference between his description and my impression of her, but when I questioned him on the point he refused to talk.

Finally, after days of this silence, I went to his pastor, who has known Rob and Delia for years. He didn't want to discuss them, but at my insistence he gave me the picture, and although I had asked for it, I was hurt by what I heard and I suppose I said some mean things about her.

He told me how Delia had worked and saved for the day when Rob would come home; how she often stopped by to talk to him, and how heartsick she was when Rob wrote asking for a divorce. Now I know why people here are so cool to me. They all like Delia and I haven't a chance of making friends.

I love Rob very much and don't want to lose him; but I can't stand much more of this. Could we be happy if we moved to another town? He is an only child and close to his mother, who insists that we remain here. Otherwise, she says, it would look as if we were running away. I might add that she never liked Delia, but she does like me, I know. She is always doing nice things for me. Please advise me what to do.

P. L.

New Wife Has One Advantage

DEAR P. L.: As it happens, you've married a weakling, a confirmed mama's boy, who never will be much of a man or help-meet in relation to any woman. You can't build character into him at this late date, any more than Delia could.

However, you have an advantage with Rob that Delia lacked. His mother likes you, whereas she doesn't and never did like Delia, and probably contributed much to their break-up. As matters stand, doubtless she is disposed, for various personal reasons, to champion your cause in the community during the settling-in period; and also back you in relation to Rob, in case he shows signs of still carrying the torch for Delia.

Thus if you love him very much and don't want to lose him, even after taking his measure shorn of make believe, it seems advisable to go along with his mother's theory that she knows best, at least for a year or two,—until such time as the homecoming storm has been weathered, or Rob has been given ample opportunity to get oriented to his change of bride.

During this testing period, stand your ground with patience, fortitude and poise, insofar as busybody gossip and snubs are concerned; and don't keep Rob on the defensive about his deficiencies of character. If you love him, study 1 Corinthians 13, and concern yourself with trying to become a living example of its wondrous teachings, in relation to him,—and possibly your "faith with works" in that respect may bring the marriage to safe harbor.

Santa's Jolly Pack Is Play Tested Now

TINY tots can learn the principles of washing and ironing from the toy set pictured above. This plaything is recommended for little girls between the ages of 4 and 8. It was shown at the American Toy Institute preview.

By Peggy Preston

SANTA, figuring you're never too old to learn new tricks, went into a huddle with the child psychologists before filling his pack this year.

At first, the old gentleman was hard put to it trying to please the educators. But he finally learned all the angles and now his bag is fairly bulging with the right toys for the right child.

This is the gist of what they (the psychologists) told St. Nick:

"Look before you leap when you start filling Johnny's stocking. You jolly well better watch what red fire engine you put under whose tree. If the wrong boy gets it, the lad may end up with a nasty psychosis!"

Was Santa's face red? Well, not for long, because they further explained: "You must consider the child's age, personality, character, talents, health and future. A too-intricate construction set, for instance, can cause a child to forsake a promising career as an engineer."

Foolish Toys—They're Hard to Find

THE toy manufacturers, who this year have prepared a 250-million-dollar pack, really gave Santa a helping hand. They've fixed it so that it's downright difficult to find a foolish toy for a child.

Several of the leading child psychologists in the country comprise the advisory board for toy manufacturers in New York. They grade toys as to suitability to age groups; their purpose—social, active, creative or dramatic play. Toys with educational value get top honors. The experts are partial to toys that develop finger dexterity, muscular control and mental alertness.

Remember, Playthings Are Teachers

ONE thing to remember when you go shopping is that a child actually works with toys and learns from them. A tiny ironing board and iron, for instance, can teach a little girl the principles of laundering, give her new respect for her own clean clothes. Sewing games can give her an idea of why she should be careful not to tear her new dress.

A new star in the doll parade is Dydee, who blows big plastic bubbles from a bubble pipe when her tummy is pressed. Her accessories include ingredients for a bubble bath. Children will delight in bathing Dydee, thereby learning not to resent their own baths.

Instructive games are good for 4 to 6-year-olds who can neither read nor count. A visit to Mother Goose is one of the new board games that caters to the preschool youngster. There's only one playing piece and moves are made on "steps" that run through a colorful garden which is populated with famous nursery rhyme characters.

A thrill for young construction engineers is a bulldozer that does an efficient job of ground leveling and a mixer that can really make concrete. Prefabricated building sets make it easy to solve the housing shortage in the playroom, and teach boys the rudiments of architecture.

THIS type of construction fun is for boys from 9 years of age and up. This year toys are graded not only as to suitability to age groups, but also as to purpose—active, creative, or social play

A VISIT with Mother Goose is a new game designed for four to six-year-old youngsters who can't read or count. The little girl above is moving "step by step" through Mother Goose's garden while her older sister reads instructions from colorful nursery rhyme cards

Kentucky Society Plans Cotillion

The Kentucky State Society will stage its annual Junior Cotillion Christmas dance Friday, 10 p. m. to 1 a. m., in the Shoreham Hotel. Miss Betsy Goodloe Porter, daughter of former OPA Administrator and Mrs. Paul A. Porter, is general chairman of the cotillion committee.

Ask Anne — Your Questions On Homemaking

I have heard about a novel new shopping service for mothers who shop downtown with baby. It involves the rental of strollers at a downtown location, relieving mothers of the need to carry baby from store to store. It is supposed to be near 7th st. I would appreciate finding out more about this service, and I am sure other mothers like myself will be very interested in hearing about it, too. They don't seem to be listed in the phone book. B. B.

I am familiar with at least two parking lots in the downtown area offering the service you mention. One is on 8th st. and the other on 10th st. The charge is 25 cents for the first hour and 10 cents for each succeeding hour. If you leave a car at the parking lot there is no deposit. If no car is left, there is a $5 deposit for the stroller.

Several months ago I bought some Army surplus Wac garments—cotton gabardine and wool. All smelled strongly of formaldehyde. Laundering the cotton, and prolonged airing of the wool has removed the odor, but my hands break out in a painful rash whenever I try to sew on them. Have you any suggestions? G. W.

I would have no additional suggestions for removing the formaldehyde other than laundering and airing them again. Perhaps if the woolen garments were dry-cleaned it would help to remove it. If these treatments do not make it possible for you to work on them without your hands developing a rash, I'm afraid you had better give up the idea of using them, for your skin seems to be unusually sensitive to the disinfectant.

Will you please tell me what to do with the hem of a black crepe dress? I want to let the hem down and it has been pressed and looks very shiny on the back of the hem. Can you tell me how to get that shine off? B. S.

There is a possibility that you have altered the rayon with the heat of the iron so that the shine

The Right Utensil

When you put rolls, tarts, etc., into the oven to heat just a little bit, don't take a chance and put them in on a china plate on which they happen to be at the time. Remove them to a pie plate and avoid that china plate becoming brown or cracked. It takes only a minute.

Chased Brass

It will always have a whitened appearance if chased brass is cleaned with powder. Wash the article in soap and water and then dry. Then rub the brass with a freshly cut lemon. Rinse and dry with a chamois. No cleansing powder will be necessary.

cannot be entirely removed. However, sponging it with a cloth moistened in vinegar and pressing while it is moist, with a cloth over the hem, may help. Also, iron the material over a pad. A piece of bath towel covered with a smooth-surfaced cloth makes a good pad.

Is there a recommended method for sewing on plastic material? If you try to hold the material down with pins, the pinholes remain, and even then the material slips and slides horribly in the sewing machine.
M. B.

Plastics will not slip so badly in the sewing machine if you clip the edges together with paper clips. If this doesn't hold it tightly enough, baste the pieces together, keeping the basting stitches on the very edge so the holes will be in the seam edge on the wrong side. In cutting plastics, hold the patterns and plastic down with paper weights and mark perforations with chalk or pencil. Set the machine to eight or nine stitches an inch and use mercerized thread for stitching.

Where in Washington can I have occasional pillows dry cleaned? None of the sources to which I have turned would bother with anything smaller than the large upholstered pillows of a living-room suite.
M. G. D.

Several firms in Washington clean sofa pillows of various sizes during slack seasons. They clean only the outside, not the feathers or other stuffing. One firm that is now accepting such work may be reached by telephoning Shepherd 2330.

What is the best method of getting gum or tar off a piece of wool carpeting? A. B.

Scrape off as much as possible with a dull knife. Then sponge with a grease solvent (such as carbon tetrachloride), using a brushing motion so that you do not rub the stain into the carpet. If the gum you mention is by any chance chewing gum, rub it first with a piece of ice until it gathers into a ball. Sponge away any remaining traces with the carbon tetrachloride.

Can you tell me where I might be able to obtain about six gross of aluminum beads with which I can make necklaces and bracelets? L. O'B.

Such beads are apparently quite hard to find this year, a check of wholesale jewelry companies and several local hobby shops reveals. One wholesaler suggests that they might be obtained through the New York Bead Co., in New York City. Consult a Manhattan telephone directory for the address of this firm.

Some hair dye splashed on a white cotton dress. What is the best way to remove the stain?
L. K. L.

Since hair dyes usually contain silver nitrate, follow the procedure for removing stains made by that chemical. First, moisten the spot with iodine, which will change the color. Rinse with clear water and apply a solution of photographic hypo of any strength.

Helpful Hints for the Homemaker's Notebook

Clean the tiled hearth with a cloth dampened with turpentine and dry with a clean cloth. Washing tiles with soap and water is apt to split the enamel and spoil the glaze.

Unless window draperies hang very even and straight much of their beauty is lost. If they seem uneven to you, place tiny dress weights in the hems. It will straighten them right out with very little trouble.

If the draperies look faded and shabby now they are hung, why not give them a dip in a dye bath of a deeper shade and have practically new draperies? Wash them first to remove the dirt and then follow directions of any reliable dye.

This is a traditional event with Jandel. It's the opportunity every smart woman waits for . . . to save considerably on the finest quality Mink. This year is no exception . . . Although wholesale prices on fine furs have sharply risen, we are maintaining our policy of offering reductions on fine Mink. Every coat, jacket, cape jacket or stole in this sale is tagged with its style number, the former price, and the reduced price, clearly indicating the savings you realize. For you, gentlemen, who want to surprise her with a Mink for Christmas, this is your opportunity. In view of rising costs, this event is the most significant of our entire career as manufacturers and retailers of fine furs.

Make Yourself a Star In Holiday Fashions

HOW to fool your public into thinking you have scads of clothes? Skirts and some extra pretty blouses can be the answer, and if you can whip them up yourself, why, "more's the better."

The ballerina skirts pictured here are relatively easy to make and they are designed to make two do the work of four because they can be switched about with tailored or fussy blouses to suit various occasions.

In fact they may be interchanged to look like many outfits. What's that they may be interchanged to look like many outfits. What's more, you can wear blouses with slacks, suits and other skirts throughout the year; over shorts and pedal-pushers in the summer. Skirts can be worn with sweaters, halters, etc. for a constant change.

So, if you are handy with a needle and hankering after the title of "well dressed," your best bet this year is an investment in a pattern and a few yards of bright materials. P. P.

Ideal for Travel

SHEER WOOL is the ideal fabric for a travel wardrobe. Light and easy to keep in good condition, it is equally at ease North or South, East or West.

When you step on a train or plane this year take a coat or cape that will do double duty of sheer lightweight wool; a printed dress with an extra skirt to match the basic wrap and the top of the printed dress becomes a blouse, the dress skirt hidden by the wool skirt. When destination is reached off comes the top skirt and the complete printed dress is intact ready for cocktail and an informal dinner.

In an air-weight traveling case put an evening gown of sheer wool (no wrinkles, no pressing) printed gaily; a featherweight wool dressing gown again needs no pressing and a little jersey playsuit completes the necessary weekend wardrobe.

Fashion Shows Feature Clothes At Little Cost

Clothes for the college girl and a collection of inexpensive spring styles were featured in local fashion shows yesterday.

The Greenbrier Garden at Julius Garfinckel & Co. was the scene of the show at which members of a class in costume design at George Washington University were honor guests. Clothing shown included recommended items for a college girl's wardrobe. Sweater and skirt outfits and blouse and skirt combinations were offered for classroom wear; silks and prints as typical "date" clothes, and youthful evening gowns for formal wear.

Lansburgh's staged a series of three showings of McKettrick frocks at 11 a. m., 2 and 3:30 p. m. Miss Sheila Hawkins, stylist for the dress firm, was commentator for the shows, which stressed garments priced at around $14.95.

Included were advance spring prints, rayon crepes and gabardines in pastel shades and a few cottons. Also shown were a group of maternity dresses.

English Union Makes Plans for Forum Sessions

Washington Branch of the English Speaking Union yesterday laid the groundwork for a forum on Anglo-American relations and current affairs. Dr. Paul Douglas, president of American University, is cooperating in the project to establish open forum sessions between students and men in public life. Pros and cons of the new forum were threshed out at business meeting and tea held in the union's new headquarters at the United Nations Club.

During the business session Charles S. Dewey was reelected president of the local English Speaking Union.

Lyttleton Fox, whose wife is the former Diana Brand, daughter of Lord Brand who headed the British wartime treasury delegation here, was named executive vice president.

From the town's distinguished roster of names came the selection of vice presidents, among whom are the Rt. Rev. Angus Dun, Bishop of the Washington Cathedral; Robert Lincoln O'Brien, Maj. Gen. J. L. Chamberlin (ret.), Lynch Luquer, Walter R. Tuckerman, Keith Merrill and Philip Marshall Brown.

Board of Governors of the union increased its membership from 15 to 20.

Two board members whose terms expired this month and who were re-elected are Mrs. George P. Scriven and Leander McCormick Goodhart. Three memberships which fell vacant during the past year were filled by the election to the board of Senator J. William Fulbright of Arkansas, Lyttleton Fox, and Edwin B. Shaw of the Riggs National Bank, who was also re-elected treasurer of the union.

Mrs. Alan Judson, who served with the British Information Service during the war, is the recently appointed executive secretary replacing Mrs. James W. Boyer, jr. Mrs. Judson's husband is First Secretary of the British Embassy.

Baby Girls Receive Cups at Fort Myer

Two baby girls gurgled and chuckled yesterday when they were presented silver cups by the Daughters of the United States Army. Four months old Elden Sanders, daughter of Master Sergt. and Mrs. Elden L. Sanders, holds the distinction of being the first girl baby born at Fort Myer Station Hospital. And Carol Elizabeth Cooke, daughter of Maj. and Mrs. Thomas R. Cooke, jr., first opened her eyes October 17, 1947, thus winning the honor of first born since the Army daughters initiated its project to provide help when unusual needs arise and to recruit nurses aides.

Mrs. Lesley Ashburner, daughter of the late Col. John D. Miley, who is chairman of the hospital project, presided at the cup ceremony held in Fort Myer's new maternity ward.

At present the Army daughters have nine nurses aides working at the hospital but more are urgently needed.

Sharing Christmas

Gen. Keyes Asks for Food For GI Santa Clauses To Distribute in Austria

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

ON THE homestretch toward a securely happy American Christmas, Lieut. Gen. Geoffrey Keyes, high commissioner and commander of 10,000 plus soldiers in Austria, has issued an appeal. He is asking Americans to share their holiday plenty with his troops by sending food packages for distribution—not consumption—by our GIs. The packages are in Austria already, warehoused by CARE (Cooperative American Relief for Europe) and their release for distribution by our own boys is effected by cable.

The CARE packages, as everyone knows, cost $10 but tiny contributions add up and are gratefully received. You can send checks earmarked "General Keyes Austrian Christmas Fund, Washington, D. C.," or, if you care to be more precise, to 1344 Connecticut ave.

General Keyes' appeal, though not official, is approved by the War Department. Details are handled voluntarily by a group of Pentagon officers. The arduous typing and letter writing has been done nights by four Pentagon typists who have donated four to five extra office work hours. General Keyes writes that the Austrian families in the United States occupation zone (best-off in all Austria) average less than one American-sized meal a day. Former Empress Zita of Austria-Hungary, at the Woman's Democratic Club Monday, said adults had averaged a 40 to 50 pound weight loss, only 17 per cent of 'teen-age children had gained—6 out of 10 babies died at birth—so you can imagine. The general's GI's and officers are spreading what cheer they can, but their means are limited and they are terribly depressed. So give a boost to a GI by enabling him to give a lift to an Austrian under our care!

Non-Exclusive Model

AT Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Air and Mrs. John Nicholas Brown's recent dinner, both Senora de Belt, the wife of the Cuban Ambassador, and Mrs. Brien McMahon, wife of the Connecticut Senator, wore the same frock, a ballerina-length black lace over turquois taffeta. Both wore black slippers, carried tiny satin evening bags. The senora is short, slim, dark; Mrs. McM. is tall, slim, fair—so they sat together on a sofa all evening—kidded each other—while a couple of strangers present, puzzled, asked if they were sisters.

Game For the Anteaters

THE Capital's sturdier, more adventurous gourmets are marking time, watery-mouthed, until January, when the Anteaters Association convenes. The Anteaters Association is a luncheon club which, despite its piquant name, doesn't eat ants. Instead, its recherche members specialize in downing every imaginable (and some quite unimaginable!) kind of game.

They meet at the Washington Zoo restaurant under the kindly aegis of the Zoo's director, Dr. William Mann. The club roster hits 250, and is as interesting cross-section of Capital society — politicians diplomats, less exotic careerists, both male and female. The menu's main dish ranges through such succulent quadrupeds as buffalo, elk, deer, bear and lighter biped snacks of quail, pheasant, partridge, duck. Each dish is appropriately prepared, delicious and quite in keeping with our food conservation program

Out of necessity this department once downed stewed camel; in the interests of literature once polished off a fricaseed raccoon. The former was somewhat upsetting, the latter gastronomically pleasing, and both experiences provided us with spritely dinner conversation for a full season—so we are all in favor of the Anteaters Association. And, incidentally, star political columnist Joseph Alsop, a true perfectionist of the table, tells us there is nothing more delicate than beaver tails stewed in champagne!

DINING AROUND TOWN. Bob Lovett is the Capital's most sought-after dinner partner, not, ladies claim, because he is Undersecretary of State but because of his nicely turned wit . . . Dignified Clarence Hewes, who is always called by his frivolous nickname "Buzzy," hosts the most perfect dinners in town. He always asks 18, no more, no less, guests. The other night "Buzzy" partied sedately for former Presidential candidate, Kansas' Alf Landon.

Juniors Entertain At Dancing Party

One of the most popular dance series in town is the United Nations Club junior dance. Held monthly at the clubhouse on 19th st., its list was literally swamped with guests for the holiday dance held last evening.

Mrs. Grayson Headley, chairman of the dance committee, is assisted by Mrs. Leslie Douglas, Miss Helen Devereux, Mrs. Marcus Devereux, Miss Beverly Farrington, Miss Anne Gillespie, Mrs. Lawrence Jacobson and others.

Among those at last night's successful affair were Mr. and Mrs. George West, jr., Mr. and Mrs. George Clarke, jr., Miss Jane Lingo, Miss Suzanne Hume, Capt. and Mrs. Alan Dun, Miss Ruth Bielaski, Allen Jones, Bowdoin Craighill, Miss Mary McLaughlin, Miss Mary Calvert and Marvin Braverman.

Vassar Club Names Show Committees

Mrs. Neville Miller, president of the Washington Vassar Club, has announced appointment of committee chairmen for the benefit fashion show scheduled for January 30 at Statler Hotel.

They include Mrs. David E. Austen, general chairman; Miss Lottie Manross, secretary; Mrs. Gerhard Gesell, treasurer; Mrs. Lee D. Butler, scholarship committee; Mrs. J. J. O'Hare and Mrs. W. Woodruff Meek, tickets; Mrs. John Sherman, ticket booth; Mrs. John D. Stewart, Mrs. John Lemp and Miss Gertrude Prisley, publicity; Mrs. Kenneth Todd Young, jr., and Mrs. John L. Sullivan, patronesses; Mrs. Kurtz M. Hanson, Mrs. Leonard Block and Mrs. Harding F. Bancroft, invitations.

Also assisting with arrangements will be Miss Louise Gould, Mrs. Sturgis Warner, Mrs. George Rado, Mrs. Hollis Seavey, Mrs. Wallace M. Yater, Mrs. Benjamin Colby, Mrs. C. G. Pendill, Miss Jane Simpson and Miss Betty Allen.

Grooming Reminders

If the orange stick is blunted and not such a successful manicuring tool, run it through the pencil sharpener. It will work like new.

Many women are inclined to have oily backs and care must be taken that this oil is not transferred to their dresses, causing stains and unpleasant odors. It would be well to use an astringent after bathing and then a dust of talcum powder as a preventive. Dresses must be washed or cleaned more often if one suffers from this type of skin.

Milady will find a black slip under the dark blue or black dress will give a smarter appearance to her costume than when a white or flesh-colored slip is worn. The light slip so often gives the dark material a shiny appearance, and sometimes takes away the beauty of the dark costume.

It is nice to have blue muslin shoe bags in which to pack away the white buckskin or kid shoes over the months. Then they will not be that ugly yellow when you take them out next spring.

LUXURIA LENGTHENS YOUR LOVELIEST HOURS

When Dieting Gets Tough, Step Up the Proteins

By Ida Jean Kain

THE LAST 20 or so pounds of excess weight are always the toughest to pry off. Not that it's more difficult to turn down fattening foods. That part is easier, for by then you have the upper hand on appetite.

No, the trouble is from inside. Nature is economizing. And that is exactly what has happened with today's reducer, an unusually courageous young woman from Michigan who has kept the calories under control for a long time. First, her part of the story . . . then I'll take over with dietary suggestions.

"A year ago last October I started on a low-calorie diet, eating some of everything, but still not taking more than 900 to 1000 calories a day. I did weigh 233 pounds and now weigh 166 pounds. But since last July, on the same diet, I have not lost.

"What I want to know is why after reducing that much do I not reduce any more. I follow exactly the same diet and exercise program. Can you explain why I do not lose? I am 22 years old and in excellent health. The doctor advises that I take off another 20 pounds which will be right for my height of 5 feet, 6 inches, large frame. I used to wear a size 42. I now wear a 16, sometimes an 18, so I am not what you'd call fat. Please tell me what to do now . . ."

Scientific Reason

There is a scientific reason why our reducer has not lost for several months, although following the same program. On a prolonged restricted diet nature cooperates and uses less food; the body adjusts itself to run with greater economy of energy. In other words, the calorie deficit between the number eaten and the number used is far less, so that on the same diet little if any weight is lost. Such thrift on Nature's part is a protective measure—in fact, a life-saving measure for people who must subsist on semistarvation rations. Nevertheless, for the reducer this lowering of the metabolism with the consequent standstill in weight loss is highly discouraging. This does not occur with short periods of dieting and usually not until considerable weight has been lost—in this case 67 pounds.

To step up the metabolism, step up the protein. On the same number of calories but with more of them in protein our reducer can start using excess fat for part of the energy needs, and lose it.

HIGH PROTEIN PATTERN

Breakfast: One egg, plus second egg white; thin slice of toast, fruit, clear coffee.

Lunch: Generous serving of baked or broiled fish, or noncream-style cottage cheese or American cheese, plus skim milk in hot soup or a beverage, a raw vegetable, such as cole slaw or a green salad and a low-caloric fruit for dessert.

Dinner: Lean meat, half pound, plus two low-calorie vegetables, one green leafy, one yellow—no butter, a second glass of skim milk or buttermilk and fresh fruit for dessert. A third glass of skim milk or buttermilk can be added during the day.

(The phone rings in our sports department, and Bill Ahlberg answers.)

"Is Shirley Povich there?"

"No, he's not."

"He's not, eh? Well maybe you can tell me the date of the last football game between Notre Dame and Yale. This is Walter Winchell."

"Oh, sure. And this is Lowell Thomas."

"Seriously—this is Walter Winchell at the Shoreham."

"Look, mister. Winchell is in New York, and we're trying to put out a newspaper. We don't have time for games, so let's just stick to your question. I'll turn you over to somebody who may be able to help you . . . Hey, Seigel—here's a guy who thinks he's Walter Winchell. He has a football question."

(As Siegel takes over the conversation, Ahlberg picks up another phone and calls the Shoreham.)

"This is The Washington Post. Is Walter Winchell of New York registered with you?"

"Why, yes, he is. He's calling your paper right now from the desk."

"He is? Er . . . um . . . ah . . . thank you. Goodby . . . pst . . . hey Siegel . . . pst . . . it really IS Winchell."

Eventually, Siegel informed radio's dot-and-dash man that Yale whipped Notre Dame, 28 to 0, back in 1914. And Winchell used the information on his Sunday night broadcast.

When I asked Ahlberg how he had failed to recognize one of the best-known voices in America, he replied:

"How should I have known the guy was really Winchell? He was talking nice and slow, and there wasn't any telegraph key clacking in the background."

HOW'S THAT AGAIN?

"Why don't you come down the chimney, Santa?"

Dewey Campaign Kick-Off

By Drew Pearson

Representative Eugene Cox of Georgia had the audacity during a recent trip to Germany to place himself squarely on record against the United States Army's denazification program.

Rep. Cox

Back when the Battle of the Bulge was still fresh in people's minds, no one would believe that three years later a United States Congressman would be touring Germany, preaching that the Nazis were the best of the Germans after all.

However, Georgia's patriot of the soapbox, traveling through Germany with a congressional subcommittee, was so critical of the denazification program that it embarrassed his colleagues. Even in front of German officials, Gene did not hesitate to criticize the Army's policy of kicking out Nazi Germans and replacing them with democratic Germans.

"It seems to me," Cox told congressional colleagues, "that the good Germans were the Nazis who were loyal to the government which the United States recognized at that time (the Hitler government), not those who were disloyal."

Dewey's Campaign Launched

G. O. P. Representative Frederic R. Coudert of New York certainly had his tongue in his cheek when he glibly told reporters that the big dinner he threw for Gov. Tom Dewey was nothing more than a "friendly" testimonial, with no accent on politics.

Here is what actually happened. First the guest list—about 100 Republican House members and one Senator, Irving Ives of New York—was carefully culled from among members of Congress who are either friendly to Dewey's presidential campaign or "on the fence." Great majority of the banqueters were from Eastern and New England States.

Second, Senator Ives, a red-hot Dewey man, was one of the three speakers, the others being House G. O. P. Majority Leader Charles Halleck of Indiana and Dewey himself. House Speaker Joe Martin, though present, did not speak. Coudert acted as toastmaster.

Ives, who was put in the Senate by Dewey and has turned out to be an A-1 choice, made it clear that he was out to win support for Governor Tom. He also drove some hammer blows for party solidarity in the coming campaign—solidarity which, he left no doubt, could be attained by backing the guest of honor.

"A political race is like a horse race," Ives asserted at one point in his rousing address. "You can't win without unanimity."

The New York Senator let his listeners guess that Dewey was unquestionably the "right horse" for 1948.

Dewey, when called upon to speak, also stressed the "unanimity" theme. He illustrated it by telling about his meetings with G. O. P. leaders in the New York Legislature every Sunday night when the Legislature is in session.

"We make unanimity a religion," Dewey declared. "If there is one dissenter among us on an important issue facing the Legislature—and we don't always agree—we postpone action for another week and then try to get together the following Sunday."

Dewey Slaps Marshall

With this as an opener, the New York Governor proceeded to get in some hot licks against the Administration's handling of foreign aid—particularly the omission of China from the 597 million dollars interim-relief bill now before Congress.

Citing China's "history of friendship" with the United States, Dewey declared that it was inconceivable that China should be left out of the aid plan unless you considered the "incompetency" of the officials directing the aid program. While he did not mention Secretary of State Marshall by name, his jabs obviously were aimed at Marshall.

Dewey explained that his remarks did not necessarily mean that he supported the Chiang Kai-shek nationalist government, but rather the "Chinese people."

"I have a deep and abiding faith in them (the Chinese people)," he asserted. "If we think in terms of a united world, it can't be done without China."

Capital Chaff

Of late, United States Army's Walter Reed Hospital has been doing a fine job developing artificial limbs. But after repeated invitations, the doctors are still unable to persuade Secretary of the Army Kenneth Royall to visit its prosthetic development laboratory.

Former Senator Hale of Maine, staunch Republican, tells friends that the only way the Republicans can win is with Eisenhower.

The reason some veterans were slow in getting their Veterans Administration checks when colleges opened was that Government checks can not be forwarded from one address to another. This is a long-standing postoffice rule. However, the Veterans Administration acted quickly to cut down the number of veterans not receiving their checks. On October 31, the number was 207,807. On November 10, the "unchecked" vets had dropped to 10,230.

When Edward Mansur, jr., of Jefferson City, Mo., was about to try out for reading clerk of the Senate, Senator Kem of Missouri advised him: "Bellow as you have never bellowed before." Mansur did, and got the job.

District Postmaster May Get No. 2 Job In Department

BITS OF GOSSIP—

That Vincent Burke, the postmaster of this city, may be appointed to the No. 2 job in the Post Office Department—the position of First Assistant Postmaster General. Burke is a long-time personal friend of Jesse Donaldson, the new Postmaster General. Both are career men who have worked their way to the top of the Post Office structure. But if the Administration decides the job is to go to a political appointee, a good bet for it will be James Mead, former Senator from New York.

That Edwin Pauley submitted his resignation as Democratic National Committeeman from California before a Senate committee inquired into his commodity speculations. He has urged that Senator Downey (D., Calif.) be appointed to succeed him.

That Ray Foley, chief of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, has persuaded John Doubs of Boston, to be commissioner of Public Housing Administration. Now he must persuade the President to appoint him. Doubs is a former National Housing official. But a dark-horse possibility for the post is Richard Dyas, an official of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, who handles housing financial problems for that agency.

That Senator Taft, the GOP leader, has given some thought to a pay raise for Federal workers. He's said to have arrived at no definite conclusion on the matter.

That the President is reported to be determined to speed up the work of Veterans Administration's insurance offices. He's said to have told Carl R. Gray, the new VA boss, to make the work of that office his first order of inquiry. Gray will take office on January 1.

That insiders predict a shake-up of RFC board members when their terms expire next month. Henry T. Bodman, the GOP member from Detroit, may not be reappointed.

That a friendly controversy within the Civil Service's Loyalty Review Board may delay publication of its rules and regulations to govern the handling of the cases of Federal workers who are accused of disloyalty.

That the Senate Civil Service Committee may seek the views of business leaders on a pay raise for Federal workers. Representatives of the United States Chamber of Commerce, National Association of Manufacturers and similar groups are slated to be heard at the public hearing to begin next month.

That the new figures of the Bureau of Labor Statistics on the cost of living in this city will be a powerful argument to raise the salaries of Federal workers. (See story on the BLS on page 1).

INQUIRY: Senator Downey (D., Calif.) yesterday urged an inquiry of the Reclamation Bureau's propaganda and publicity activities. His resolution was referred to the Senate Committee on Executive Expenditures.

VA: An attack was made yesterday on the Civil Service program to find jobs for laid-off career workers. Harold W. Breining, VA's insurance chief, told the House Veterans Committee that the program was a "great, great handicap" to good service. He explained that some of his offices had lost upward of 50 per cent of their trained personnel and that their jobs were being taken by inexperienced career employes.

Breining estimated that about 3000 additional employes would be needed to pay insurance dividends to GI policy-holders. However, it hasn't been decided when the dividends will be paid.

LOYALTY: In this column Monday I revealed that Paul M. Hebert, whom I identified as a New Orleans attorney, would be appointed to the Civil Service loyalty review board. I'm now told that the new appointee is dean of the law school at Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge.

AWARD: George M. Beck has been awarded the distinguished civilian service award by Navy Secretary Sullivan. He's a tool engineer in Naval Gun Factory's production engineering branch. Beck received the Navy's highest civilian award for his outstanding work during the war.

NOTES: Arthur A. Riemer is the new chief of Fish and Wildlife's Division of Lands . . . Interior has loaned Albert L. Wathen to U. N.'s Food and Agriculture Organization. Wathen will be an irrigation consultant to Egypt and nearby countries . . . The Army has exams open for a score of skilled and unskilled jobs in its activities here. Get details in Room 2E-1030 in the Pentagon . . . Bill Armstrong of the Ambassador Swimming Pool is giving a special rate to members of Government recreation groups . . . Federal workers may secure annual and sick leave record cards for their own use at Lacy's electrical appliance stores. The cards are free for the asking.

CIVIL SERVICE: Thomas D. Dunn is the new deputy director of Civil Service's fourth regional office here . . . Only 1650 people here applied for the recent exam for elevator operators. Applicants will be graded on their experience and background.

World Fliers Welcomed Home by Families and Officials, With $11 in Pockets, Pile of Gas Bills and Foreign Job Offers

The Washington Post

HOMING FLIERS—At Washington National Airport, where they were officially welcomed yesterday, Flivver Fliers George Truman (left) and Cliff Evans are greeted by their wives. Mrs. Evans (right) brought along daughters, Diane, 4, and Gail, 14 months. The fliers arrived in the small planes in which they circled the globe

Cliff Evans and George Truman came home to Washington yesterday in the two rugged little airplanes that took them around the world.

With a band playing and military planes flying overhead, the flivver fliers set down their red and yellow Piper Supercruisers at National Airport at 2:16 p. m.

From then on, it was one continuous round of official and unofficial welcomes, until late last night.

Evans, in his "City of Washington," and Truman, in the "City of the Angels," made the flight here from Teterboro, N. J., where last Wednesday they ended a 25,162-mile bouncing-around-the-globe in 123 days. They decided at the last moment yesterday morning to fly here, when Monday night's bad weather cleared.

The fliers, who had been through some of the world's worst flying weather, agreed the windy trip to Washington was "the worst" of the entire flight.

Evans, 27, lives now at 1416 N. Abingdon st., Arlington, but is a fourth-generation Washingtonian. Truman is 39 and, although he named his plane after his native Los Angeles, his home is at 4804 V st., in nearby Maryland.

They were met at the airport by their wives, Evans' two daughters, Diane, 4½, and Gail, 11 months, a host of relatives, William T. Piper, president of the Piper Aircraft Corp.; officials of the Board of Trade, Army, Navy, Marine and Civil Air Patrol and several hundred spectators.

Evans and Truman told reporters the trip had cost them about $550 each for gasoline and about $500 or $600 each in other expenses. Evans displayed $11.48 that he had left. Truman said he had about the same.

What had they proved by their flight? Truman said he hoped they had shown the "durability and feasibility of light planes."

They said the airplanes, now painted with the flags of the 23 countries they visited, had given them no mechanical trouble. They were stock airplanes, they said, but fitted with several new instruments and for testing. As a reward, the airplanes now belong to Truman and Evans, who said their only worry was the many unpaid gasoline bills they left in their wake around the world.

The "modern Magellans" said they have no immediate job plans, despite several offers from foreign countries. They have written a series of magazine articles, are scheduling a lecture tour and may write a book. Before they took off on the trip, both were flight instructors at nearby Congressional Airport.

Piper, who manufactures the tiny airplanes, credited the pilots, rather than their aircraft, for the success of the flight.

After a motorcade trip to Washington from the airport, Evans and Truman were officially welcomed in ceremonies on the District Building steps. District Commissioner John Russell Young told the fliers "The people of Washington are proud of you." Board of Trade President John A. Reilly presented them with testimonial scrolls. Certificates of merit were awarded by Welch Pogue, chairman of the board of the American Aeronautics Association. Col. Robert L. Scott of the Civil Air Patrol, presented them with CAP wings and honorary memberships.

Then, following a reception given by the Washington Association of Flying Clubs at the Willard Hotel, the pilots were honor guests at a dinner and meeting of the Board of Trade at the Statler Hotel.

Prowler Pays Second Visit To Garfield

Lanky Man Escorted To Door by Student Pretended to Have Lost Way in Hospital

A tall and lanky prowler, chased out of Garfield Hospital's Nurses Home by two student nurses little more than a week ago, paid a return visit Monday night.

This time he was shown courteously to the door by another student nurse after he told her he was lost and looking for the personnel office.

Police said he had looted three student nurses' rooms of jewelry. Victims were Mary Catherine Dodson, who missed a ring and bracelet; Betty Trollinger, who missed a ring and miniature football on a chain, and Della Novich, who reported a ring and fountain pen gone.

The intruder was surprised in the hall about 7 p. m. by Mary Yocom, who was unaware of the thefts and showed him to the door, police said.

He also stole a topcoat and a suit coat from the X-ray room. They were the property of Dr. Carl H. Wallman, resident physician, police said.

Description Tallies

Miss Yocum's description of the prowler matched that given December 6 when students nurses Linda Thomas and LaVonne Edmondson chased a burglar from the Nurses' Home.

All three girls described him as being a slender Negro, about 25 years old, 6 feet tall.

Thieves yesterday took $600 worth of wedding presents from a honeymooning couple's car—parked four blocks from police headquarters.

The looters, however, left behind the top layer of a wedding cake with its miniature models of bride and bridegroom.

Victims were Mariam, 21, and William A. Weaver, jr., 24, of 4411½ Tennesee ave. ne., married Saturday in the bride's home town, Tunnel, N. Y.

They registered Monday at the Dodge Hotel, 20 E st. nw., and parked their car nearby. Yesterday at 8:30 a. m. they discovered their loss—radio, lamp, silverware, line, clothes, the bride's wedding gown and trousseau.

Another Newlywed Loses

Another newlywed loser to thieves was Harold N. Benton of 124 3d st. ne. He reported two rings valued at $70 which had been made smaller for his recent bride, were stolen from his coat hanging on a hook at the Capitol Optics Co. fifth floor office at 514 10th st. nw.

Grace Johnson, 28, of 2032 15th st. nw., told police two thugs, one of whom aimed a gun at her, forced her to hand over $75 from the cash register of Towles Tourist Home, 1342 Vermont ave. nw., where she is night clerk.

Two men throttled, pummeled and robbed him of $9 in the 1100 block of 9th st. nw., Gordon Huddleston, 41, of 1250 11th st. se. reported.

Hunter Lee Brown, 35, of Winchester, Va., complained that a "friendly" couple he had met in a bar disappeared with $170 and a $15 wrist watch.

Nathan Robin of 3517 A st. se., reported theft of a $300 electric calculator and $40 in cash from the Official Cleaners, 3736 Minnesota ave. ne.

Clothes, a camera and radio valued at $130 were stolen from a car parked on N. Capitol st. near Massachusetts ave., Helen E. Broyles, 1703 C st. se., told police.

Fifty-four cartons of cigarettes worth $75 were taken by thieves from a Safeway Store in the New Center Market, 5th and K sts. nw., Harold W. Cave, manager, said. Cigars and cigarettes valued at $110 were reported by Charles B. Elgin of 1721 Bay st. se., as stolen from his car parked in the 700 block of S st. ne. At least a dozen other thefts were reported to police.

Son Missing, Socialite Blames Mate

MRS. MARSYL CHARRINGTON
Gets a clew

The 6-year-old son of Mrs. Robert Montgomerie-Charrigton has been missing from her Warrenton, Va., home since Monday, she revealed yesterday.

The Washington-Warrenton-Newport socialite charged the boy, Robin, was "abducted" by her estranged husband, an Englishman, and may have been taken to New York enroute to England.

Mrs. Charrington said she had received a telephone call from NeTw York, from a friend of her husband's. The caller, whom she identified only as "Melly," told her he had just received a telephone message from Montgomerie-Charrington saying "Robin is well." Mrs. Charrington said "Melly" had promised to call again in a few days.

Mrs. Charrington is the former Marsyl Stokes. She and her husband separated six months ago and since that time, the mother said, have remained in disagreement over the upbringing of their child.

Had 'Word of Honor'

Mrs. Charrington said she had allowed the husband to see the boy on his word of honor that he wouldn't take Robin away. The Englishman had been visiting friends and relatives in Warrenton for the last eight days.

On Monday afternoon, she said, she suggested that the father and son cut holly in the country while she shopped. On her return a few hours later they were gone, she said.

Police were alerted, an attempt to get a writ of habeas corpus executed failed, and no more was heard by her of the whereabouts of the father and son, Mrs. Charrington said.

Mrs. Charrington said her husband threatened a month ago to take the child. She said her husband wanted the child raised in England but she insisted that her son spend his winters in this country.

Agreed on Boy's Custody

"We had agreed when we separated," she said, "that Robin spend his summers on his father's place in England and the rest of the time here, where we can feed him properly. That was the arrangement we were to have until Robin goes to Eton, at the age of 12."

The father has the necessary papers to take Robin to England, Mrs. Charrington said, obtained for Robin's English summer holiday.

She described her son as 3 feet, 10 inches tall, with medium fair hair crew cut, blue eyes and black eyelashes. She said he wore a camel-hair coat and hood and grey blue overalls.

"He looks very English with his pink cheeks," she said.

Warrenton police said there was no action they could take.

GHI to Pay $70,000 Loss Of Hospitals In D. C. Area

Alexandria, Arlington Institutions Quit Blue Cross Plan

Group Hospitalization, Inc., yesterday announced it would distribute $70,000 to eight Greater Washington hospitals for losses sustained in caring for its subscribers during the first eight months of 1947.

At about the same time, Alexandria and Arlington Hospital announced their withdrawal from Virginia Hospital Service Association (Blue Cross) because of that organization's "refusal to raise benefit payments sufficient to meet rising hospitalization costs."

Both of the Virginia hospitals accept patients subscribing to GHI, which never joined the Nation-wide Blue Cross plan, but cooperates with it on a reciprocity basis only.

Another GHI settlement will be made early in 1948 after hospital costs for the final four months of 1947 have been calculated, Himes said.

GHI Enrolls 335,000

In 1948, he said, present payments will be continued pending institution of a system of uniform accounting. Costs determined from this system will be used as a basis for negotiating new agreements with the hospitals, with terms retroactive to January 1, he said.

At present, 335,000 persons in Greater Washington are enrolled in the 13-year-old GHI plan.

In Virginia, Karl York, administrator of Arlington Hospital, said his institution had lost $5800 on Blue Cross patients in the 10 months ended October 31.

Cost Survey Made

Joseph H. Himes, GHI president, said yesterday the supplemental payments give financial evidence of his organization's desire to pay its own way in the 16 nonprofit hospitals of the area with which it has agreements.

The figure was decided upon as the result of a cost survey covering the period, which showed that when seven hospitals lost no money on GHI patients, while eight incurred the $70,000 loss. The sixteenth — Georgetown University Hospital—was not included in the survey because a former structure was discontinued and a new one opened operations only a short time before the audit was made.

Himes declined to identify the eight hospitals which incurred the loss. Both Arlington and Alexandria Hospitals, however, were among the 15 surveyed, he admitted.

Alexandria Loss $8529

Alexandria Hospital lost $8529.22 over the same period, according to figures released yesterday by D. C. Book, chairman of the board of directors. "In the future these patients will be treated on a straight cost basis only," Book said.

Book also said, in anticipation of a meeting with a city council committee next Monday, "unless the city assumes its full responsibility to the hospital, the board of directors will recommend that the hospital accept only private cases."

Committees from council and the hospital board will discuss the thorny problem of rates to be paid by the city in 1948 for welfare patients. The 1947 contract was signed only three weeks ago.

PUC Rejects More Shopping Area Buses

Granting Requests Would Hurt Service Elsewhere, It Holds

Requests for additional bus service in the downtown shopping area were turned down yesterday by the Public Utilities Commission.

Representatives of three department stores and seven citizens associations had asked for a return to prewar service, which would have provided more buses in the shopping district.

At an informal public hearing October 27, Capital Transit Company officials testified, however, that extension of downtown routes of the Chillum, Connecticut ave., Petworth and 16th st bus lines would necessarily decrease the service elsewhere in the city.

"In view of the record," PUC said, "the commission concludes that granting the present requests for extensions of certain bus lines would result in deterioration of service on other bus and streetcar lines."

"The commission has before it numerous other requests for extensions of service, all of which must be decided upon the basis of necessity rather than slight additional convenience," PUC added.

Attorney Sues 2 Policemen, Hotel, Alleging False Arrest

Pvt. Norman Richardson — Named in civil suit

Detective Walter Grove

Maurice Pearce — Brings action

By Sam Stavisky
Post Reporter

A Justice Department attorney yesterday asked a District Court jury for $35,000 damages, alleging he had been falsely arrested by two policemen and the management of the Hotel Statler.

The plaintiff, Maurice C. Pearce, 44, of 2403 Observatory pl. nw., attached to the Justice Department lands division, was his own first witness in the trial that opened before a jury of nine men and three women in Associate Justice Jennings Bailey's court.

The defendants are two Third Precinct policemen, Detective Walter E. Grove, 35, of 1425 Thirty-third st. nw., seven years on the force, and Private Norman L. Richardson, 28, of 831 South Irving st., Arlington, five years in the department, and the hotel.

The civil suit is a result of an incident in the wee hours of Sunday, February 3, 1946.

Pearce was arrested in a seventh-floor room of the hotel at the complaint of John F. Reardon, an assistant manager, and charged with being disorderly. The Justice Department attorney also was charged with being drunk on the complaint of Private Richardson.

Pearce testified that he was forcibly removed from the room by the police, and booked at 3:45 a. m., at the Third Precinct station.

The police, Pearce asserted, refused to permit him to contact an attorney; to have a doctor examine him, and to release him on bail. Collateral for the two charges totals $15. Pearce testified there was $143 in his wallet.

Pearce said he was then placed in a cell, five feet wide, seven feet long, and seven feet high.

He was not permitted to contact council until after 8:30 a. m. Pearce testified, and was not released until 10:45 a. m. when his attorney posted collateral.

In its opening statement to the jury, the defense said it would develop through testimony of witnesses that Pearce had disturbed the peace; that he cursed and laid his hands on the police; that he was a "mean type of drunk"; and that it was the policemen's duty to arrest him at the time.

The hotel room was registered in the name of Robert Falkner, of Henderson, N. C., a friend of Pearce.

Pearce said that Faulkner asked him to reserve the room so he could attend a banquet and dance.

After the dance, about 2:30 a. m. Sunday, Pearce visited Falkner's room with a number of friends. On the latter occasion, Pearce said under cross-examination, there were as many as 13 persons in the single-guest room. But at no time, Pearce insisted, was there revelry, noise or cursing. He said that only about half of one bottle of whisky was consumed by all the guests.

As for himself, the plaintiff responded to questioning, he had five drinks from noon Saturday to 3:30 a. m. Sunday—when the arrest occurred—with a "heavy meal" in between.

Pearce, the first witness, was still undergoing cross-examination when the court recessed, to readjourn this morning at 10 a. m.

Donald S. Caruthers, Edward Foster and Berdon M. Bell represent Pearce.

The police defendants are being represented by two assistant corporation counsels, Edward A. Beard and Henry E. Wixon. Counsel for the Statler Hotel are Francis C. Brooke and Justin Edgerton.

Pearce was seriously injured.

Compromise Lifts Housing Project Rents

Bellevue Gardens Tenants to Pay $3 More Instead of $5

A compromise rent boost was reached yesterday under which tenants of the Bellevue Gardens housing development in Southwest Washington will pay $3 more instead of the $5 asked by owners.

In another move on Washington's rent scene, a rent control examiner recommended a 9.43 per cent increase for 70 units of the Wisteria Mansions apartments at 1101 Massachusetts ave. nw.

The Bellevue Gardens settlement still is subject to review by the Rent Control Administration, but attorneys for 150 tenants and the owners said the settlement was "agreeable." William E. Carey, jr., attorney for the owners, said the management is prepared to give tenants a nine months' lease beginning January 1 or stipulate that no increase in rent will be applied during the period.

Tenants, represented by Attorney Scott P. Crampton, had protested the $5 proposed increase.

Under the recommendation by Examiner James G. Tyson, rents on $42.50 per month apartments at Wisteria Mansions will go to $46.50; those now renting for $70 will go to $74.

The new rates will be effective December 28 unless the owner or tenants appeal.

Tyson said the increase will bring the owners about $4110 more annually. The owners had asked $7176 in rent boosts.

Bus Driver Files For Retrial After Under PUC Rule

A motion for a new trial for John A. Prezzi, 29-year-old Capital Transit bus driver convicted of negligent homicide last week, was filed in Municipal Court yesterday.

The sudden death of Judge Nathan Margold, who presided at the trial raised the question as to whether a new judge could be appointed to hear the motion.

R. Sidney Johnson, defense attorney, and Assistant United States Attorney Richard Roberts both said they would look up precedents in such a situation.

The motion for the new trial is based on eight charges, in five of which the defense counsel claims the late Judge Margold erred in his 75-minute instruction to the jury.

Prezzi's bus hit an automobile at 13th and Farragut sts. nw., killing 15-year-old Harriet Winslow, 15 E. Lenox st., Chevy Chase, Md., last February 15. She had been returning home from a prep-school dance with Charles L. Goodrich, 16, of 4344 Forest lane, nw. Goodrich, who was driving the auto,

Dorrier Named To County Board

Charlottesville, Dec. 16 (AP).—Charles R. Dorrier, Scottsville merchant, today was appointed by Judge L. F. Smith of Albermarle Circuit Court to fill the unexpired term of the late T. E. Bruce as a member of the Board of County Supervisors from the Scottsville district.

The term to which Dorrier was appointed expires January 1, 1948, but Bruce, shortly before his death, had been reelected to serve a four-year term starting at that time. A court official said an additional appointment would be made for the full term.

Dorrier is former chairman of the Albermarle County School Board, on which he had served for 20 years before he resigned in 1945.

The suits were filed against George N. Pappas, 25, of Two Farms dr., Meadowood, near Silver Spring, on behalf of Thomas R. Sipe, who was injured when he was struck by a car driven by Pappas on Colesville rd. in Hollywood Park, and the lad's father, Clyde R. Sipe, a chief pharmacist's mate at the Bethesda Naval Medical Center.

Attorneys Walter H. Moorman and J. M. Mathias asked $25,000 for the boy and $10,000 for his father, who contended he was subjected to "considerable" expense to provide care for his son. Thomas suffered a broken leg and lost several teeth in the accident.

Cab Rental Rates To Drivers Held Under PUCControl

The Public Utilities Commission has authority to regulate rental charges made by cab owners to cab drivers, PUC Counsel Lloyd B. Harrison told the commission yesterday.

Harrison's memorandum to PUC cited a Monday decision by the United States Court of Appeals here, which ruled in the Carlton L. Rice case that persons who rent cabs to drivers are "common carriers" subject to PUC jurisdiction.

"It follows, therefore," Harrison wrote, "that this commission has authority to regulate the rental charges made by owners of vehicles rented to drivers as taxicabs."

But he recommended no action be taken by PUC pending possible appeal to the Rice case in the Supreme Court.

Area News in Brief

Outlook Brighter For Evicted Woman

Horizons brightened yesterday for Mrs. Laura Fields, 60-year-old grandmother who was evicted from her home Friday and had nowhere to go.

Although she still had no permanent place to live, Mrs. Fields did have the assurance of the Board of Public Welfare that rent money will be made available for her. And she was determined to "get settled before Christmas."

Other things happened yesterday to cheer the elderly womam, who spent parts of three days on a vacant lot in the 4300 block Southern ave., se., guarding her household possessions.

For one thing, police moved her furniture and other household goods into a storehouse shortly before noon. Pvt. R. L. Eubank of the 11th precinct, said it would be kept for her "until she can find a place to put it."

In the afternoon, about 4 p. m., Mrs. Fields picked up a Welfare check for $23, her monthly allowance for food, clothing and incidentals. Donald Gray, Welfare's public assistance chief, said she would get rent money as soon as quarters are located.

"I'm thankful for everything," Mrs. Fields said.

The charge against Arthur R. Lafex, 26, of 724 3d st. nw., was nolled in Municipal Court when his wife, Peggy Lafex, 25, of 4008 14th st. st. nw., refused to prosecute.

Mrs. Lafex had complained to police that that her husband called on her at her home, grabbed a .38-calibre revolver from a bureau drawer and threatened her. She said he fired one shot into the front steps as he left.

Earlier in a jury trial, he testified he shot in self-defense when endangered by a broken bottle top wielded by Moore.

Motion Seeks To Suppress Data In Rakes Case

Richmond, Va., Dec. 16 (AP).—A motion was filed in Federal District Court today asking that various records of the financial transactions of Hugh N. Rakes, used by the Government in prosecuting the Fredericksburg Bank case, be returned to him and suppressed as evidence.

The motion, filed by Attorney J. B. Morgan, alleged that the papers were "unlawfully seized without a warrant and taken from the possession of Lillian C. Rakes, wife of Hugh Namon Rakes, by two agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation . . ."

Mrs. Rakes also joined in the motion, asking that the papers be suppressed as evidence against her or any other person in any criminal proceeding. The records were an important feature of the conviction of the two Rakes and seven other prominent defendants in the bank case trial last spring. Presumably they would be equally important in prosecution of the new trial granted to the defendants and scheduled to start next month.

Georgia Arson 'Confession' Is Repudiated

Atlanta, Dec. 16 (AP).—Isaiah Grimes, 27-year-old Negro farmer, has repudiated an officially reported confession that he burned two Negro churches and a Negro school at Loganville, Ga., his attorney said tonight.

Austin T. Walden, Atlanta Negro attorney representing Grimes, reported that his client had penned a note saying he signed the purported confession only because he was "afraid."

Solicitor General Marshall Pollock said he understood the prisoner told attorney's he was guilty and was "ready to suffer the consequences."

Pollock announced earlier that Grimes confessed the burnings to get revenge on two Negro lodges which met in the buildings Grimes was angry at the lodges, Pollock said, for giving an adopted daughter instead of his mother $180 of insurance on his step father's life.

Famed Captor Of 1910 Killer Dies in London

London, Dec. 16 (U.P.).—Walter Dew, retired chief inspector of Scotland Yard who won fame for his 3000 mile pursuit of one of England's most famous killers, Dr. Hawley Harvey Crippen, nearly 40 years ago, died today. He was 84.

Mild-mannered Dr. Crippen poisoned his wife in 1910 and buried her body under their house in London. He fled toward Canada aboard the liner Montrose with his mistress, Ethel Le Neve, who was disguised as a boy.

The captain of the Montrose saw through Miss Le Neve's disguise and sent Dew what was believed to be the first radio message ever used in a manhunt.

Dew boarded the liner Laurentic which crossed the Atlantic at full speed while the Montrose slowed down. The liners came abreast near the Canadian shore and Dew boarded the Montrose disguised as a pilot.

Dew then spoke the greeting which has become famous in criminology:

"Good morning, Dr. Crippen."

Dew was one of the last links with Scotland Yard's search for the infamous Jack the Ripper, nearly 60 years ago. But in this manhunt Dew was foiled, never having seen the elusive ripper who was sighted only once, by a patrolman who saw him racing away from the mutilated body of a woman, his green cloak flapping in the London fog.

Bingo Lovers Find a Way in West Virginia

Wheeling, W. Va., Dec. 16 (AP).—Love will find a way and city authorities were wondering today what they can do about church and club women who just love to play bingo.

Bingo and similar games were banned throughout Ohio County several weeks ago when an Attorney General's ruling pronounced them illegal. Church and club groups set up a howl and a city ordinance was enacted legalizing bingo as long as there is no payoff.

A city official said the women are now having a fine time with this game:

When a player goes "bingo," a red flag is awarded. After the session is over, a quiz master goes around and puts a question to each person who has received a red flag.

"What does pork come from?" he asked one woman.

"A pig."

"Give the lady $25," said the quiz master.

"On what Wheeling store does Santa Claus land in his helicopter?" the quiz man asked another red flag waver.

She gave the wrong answer.

"Give the lady $25 for trying hard," said the quiz master.

Mississippi Area Told to Prepare For Major Quake

Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 16 (U.P.).—Geologist N. F. Williams of the Arkansas Resources and Development Commission warned residents of the tri-State area of eastern Arkansas, west Tennessee and north Mississippi to prepare for a major earthquake after last night's mild tremor.

"One of these days the area is going to have a walloping big earthquake. The big ones usually hit in the same area about every century," he said.

Last night's tremor was preceded 137 years ago to the day by the most violent earthquake in modern Mississippi Valley ristory. That quake, in 1811, destroyed small towns, killed many people and caused the Mississippi River to run backward, creating Reelfoot Lake.

Judge Margold Dies at 48; Funeral Will Be Held Today

Municipal Court Judge Nathan Ross Margold, 48, died unexpectedy early yesterday at his home, 2964 Newark st. nw.

He succumbed to a heart condition, a victim of his own will to keep going, friends said.

Only the afternoon before, he left his bench because of illness but insisted on carrying on judicial work from a couch in his court chambers, even against advices of the lawyers he interviewed.

Dr. Joseph H. Cowan, physician neighbor, of 2922 Newark st. nw., was summoned to the Margold home. The judge, he said, was dead on his arrival yesterday at 1:45 a. m. The physician was summoned after fire department rescue workers had failed to revive the stricken jurist with a pulmotor.

Dr. A. Magruder MacDonald, District coroner, later signed a certificate of death due to natural causes, heart attack.

With Judge Margold at his death was his wife, Gertrude Wiener Margold, whom he married in 1927. They have one son, William F. Margold, 4.

Funeral Services Today

Funeral services will be held at 1 p. m. today at the Goldberg funeral home, 4217 9th st. nw. Burial will be in the George Washington Memorial Cemetery. Rabbi Solomon H. Metz will officiate.

The civil division of Municipal Court adjourned almost immediately yesterday morning out of respect to Judge Margold. The criminal division adjourned after hearings had been held only for those persons jailed Monday night.

Flags of the courthouse were ordered at half-staff yesterday by the clerk of the court, Walter Bramhall.

Judge Margold, who served on the Municipal Court bench for five years after nine years as solicitor for the Interior Department, was the storm center in 1943 of a bitter controversy which ended in his failure to secure Senate confirmation of his appointment to a higher court, the United States District Court for the District of Columbia.

It was his only setback in a law career that began with his graduation as head of his class at Harvard Law School in 1923.

Native of Romania

A native of Jassy, Romania, he emigrated with his parents to this country at the age of 2, and was educated in New York City schools, graduating from the College of the City of New York in 1919.

He was editor of the Harvard Law Review for three years during his study there, and upon graduation took a position of teaching criminal law and insurance law at Harvard University.

He later became an Assistant United States attorney for the Southern District of New York, with offices in New York City, was special counsel for the New York Transit Commission in that city's fight on a 5-cent fare, and for three years, until 1933, he was counsel for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Former Secretary Harold Ickes appointed Margold solicitor of the Interior Department in 1933. And it was Margold in the early days of the New Deal who was made chairman of the Petroleum Administrative Board and of the Labor Policy Board of the petroleum industry.

When the Municipal Court was reorganized in July, 1942, by the consolidation of Police and Municipal Courts, he was appointed to the reconstituted court.

The late President Roosevelt again sent his name to the Senate for confirmation, this time in January, 1945, for a judgeship in the District Court. Announcement of the appointment brought many protests, and many leading figures stepped forward to praise the abilities of the appointee.

Capabilities Attacked

A Senate committee held hearings on the jurist's qualifications. Those testifying against the judge charged him with making a profitable sideline out of marriages performed in his court during duty hours, and attacked his capabilities.

The District Bar Association was polled in secret, an unprecedented action on a presidential appointment, and members voted against the nomination, 804 to 200. Friends of the judge said the poll was unfair and showed evidence of anti-Semitic activities.

The Judge's character and abilities, however, were staunchly defended by his friends, including two Cabinet members, Ickes and the then Attorney General Francis Biddle, former Senator Albert B. (Happy) Chandler, and Col. Julius I. Peyser, former president of the District Bar Association, and countless others.

The Senate adjourned on August 1 without taking action on confirmation. The appointment was never renewed by the White House.

Said Associate Justice Brice Clagett, Municipal Court of Appeals, yesterday:

"Judge Margold had been a controversial figure. It was a fine thing, I believe, that he nevertheless threw himself so unselfishly into his work at the risk, as it now develops, of his life."

During World War I, Judge Margold was in the Student Army Training Corps and later joined the American Legion. He was also a member of the Harvard Club.

Honorary pallbearers selected yesterday by the District Bar Association to honor Judge Margold included: David L. Blanken, Arthur F. Carroll, T. Joseph Donohue, P. Bateman Ennis, and Charles Fahy.

Also, Irwin Geiger, Lawrence Koenigsberger, John L. Laskey, Jeff Litchenberg, Alvin L. Newmyer, Colonel Peyser, Sidney Sachs and Irving B. Yochelson.

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

THE EVIDENCE is that Mike Jacobs' Twentieth Century Sporting Club had Champion Joe Louis carefully wired for sound the other day when Louis, in a press interview, said he may make his next and last defense of his title against Light Heavyweight Champion Gus Lesnevich, not Jersey Joe Walcott.

POVICH

Apparently Louis was speaking not for Joe Louis, but for the promoters who are now entangled in Walcott's demand for a 30 per cent cut of the gate of a return match. Their object, of course, is to drag the name of Lesnevich into the negotiations and frighten Walcott into taking a smaller cut.

By this time it is established, though, that Jersey Joe doesn't scare easily. He didn't have a timid moment during the 15 rounds he was in the ring with Louis, and in his contract battle with Mike Jacobs' men he knows he has public opinion on his side; that any other opponent for Louis in a title bout would be ill-received as long as Walcott is available as a challenger.

IT WAS ONE of the few times that Joe Louis didn't click with the press, incidentally. The champion, who is famed for always saying the right thing, was lending himself to his employers as a bargaining instrument at a time when it was known to all that if Louis were to speak his own mind he would demand Walcott as his next opponent.

Louis has been proud of his reign as champion, and certainly his disgust with himself was obvious after the final bell against Walcott when he sought to leave the ring before the decision was announced. He knew he had fought a bad fight, and he wanted no more of that particular ring scene, and had to be brought back almost forcibly to hear the decision that retained the title for him.

For 10 years Louis has taken them as they came, knocked out all of his 24 challengers with the exception of Tommy Farr and Arturo Godoy. He was the first colored heavyweight champion in history to give another colored man a crack at his title, and he did it twice—in the cases of John Henry Lewis and Walcott. He was the most combative champion of history.

EVEN THOSE WHO would traduce Louis have nothing to go on. Unlike former champions, he never ducked any challenger. Dempsey for years carefully steered clear of Harry Wills when Wills loomed as a man who might take his title, and Gene Tunney in retiring undefeated chose fat, slow, Tom Heeney as his final opponent while avoiding Jack Sharkey, the No. 1 challenger.

Those who know Louis are certain he won't be satisfied to retire unless he has wiped out the blot of his dismal showing against Walcott. Even the fact that he kept the title by a weird decision of the judges, doesn't compensate him for the dreary night he had against Walcott, including the first and fourth-round episodes when Jersey Joe sent him kicking to the canvas for two and seven counts.

When Louis is ready to retire, it will be only after he has squared matters with Walcott and restored to proper position the crown that he now wears askew. He may say Lesnevich stacks up as the tougher opponent, but when he does he's only talking for the promoters, not for Joe Louis.

WHEN LOUIS speaks for himself he does all right. Before the promoters got to him after the fight, in his dressing room, Louis was forthright and honest enough, even to the point of deprecating himself. When somebody asked him if he thought he had been in there with a second-rater, as many had called Walcott before the fight, he said, "No, I was the second-rater in there," as he pointed to himself.

The fact is that Louis, like most everybody else, underrated the cagey Walcott before the fight and even refused until the last few days, to lend himself to the ballyhoo of the publicists. He scarcely made a prefight statement for the mills of the press agents, refusing to dignify Walcott as an important challenger.

But Walcott has suddenly become important to Louis. He's the only man who ever knocked the champion down twice. He's the only figure who stands between Louis and a clear-cut claim to dominance of his division. At this point, Louis doesn't want to beat any light heavyweight. He wants Walcott, and I think I can quote him.

Hoyas Snip Marine Win Streak at 9

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

Georgetown University's Hoyas, made to look sluggish during the first 8 minutes by a determined Quantico team, regained their luster in time and defeated the Marines, 61-56, last night before 911 spectators at Catholic University.

The victory was the fourth straight for the undefeated Hoyas, while the defeat was the third for the Marines, who had won nine straight games until last night.

Once again, it was big Andy Kostecka leading Georgetown's scoring parade. Although he scored only six points in the second half, his total for the evening was 21. That brought Kostecka's four-game t otal to 89 points.

Starring for Quantico was wiry little Sammy Jaskilka, who tallied 20.

The Hoyas were always ahead in the second half as their margin was never thinner than 4 points nor fatter than 10.

The splendid rebound retrieving of Georgetown's Ken Brown and the floor play of Ray Corley were the deciding factors in finally turning the tide in Georgetown's favor.

Marines Start Fast

The Marines, out to prove that their fine early season record was no fluke, outplayed the Hoyas for the first eight minutes. Sammy Jaskilka, former University of Connecticut ace, set the pace for quantico.

The first six times he shot, the ball swished through the nets and by the time the first eight minutes had elapsed, the 5 foot 8 inch speedster had tallied 13 points and the Marines were ahead, 15-12.

However, the Hoyas had the shooting of Andy Kostecka and Ray Corley to offset Jaskilka and with these two alternately hitting their marks the Hoyas zoomed to the lead.

Kostecka ran his point total to 15 by the 12 minute mark and the Hoyas took command, 33-21, when Georgetown Coach Elmer Ripley took out his first team.

Against the Hoyas second stringers, theMarines started to rally, and led by Cy Waldrop's one handed shots from the foul line, trailed by only 36-31 at intermission.

Maryland Wins 59-58 Thriller

Maryland's John Edwards missed a foul but converted the rebound into a two-pointer to give the Terrapins a 59-58 victory over Davidson in a hectic Southern Conference battle tonight at College Park, Md.

Edwards' field goal came with a minute and 20 seconds left and enabled the Terps' uphill battle to terminate successfully.

Mainly on the sharpshooting of slender Whit Cobb, who bagged seven of his nine field goals in the second half, the visitors from North Carolina stayed in front throughout most of the second half.

Maryland did take the lead at 51-50 after Bill Brown dropped two fouls but Mike Williams regained the lead with a basket and Bill Iverson bagged two. Edwards and Wanish retaliated for the Terps and set the stage for the winning goal.

Cobb's 18 points gave him high-scoring honors and Williams was runner-up with 14. For Maryland, Edwards and Wanish each had 16.

'Skin Brain Trust Entrains Tomorrow for Draft Meeting

By Bill Burnett
Post Reporter

In preparation for what they think is "the most important draft meeting in Redskin history," coaches of Washington's football pros yesterday held a long conference in which the playing ability of more than 100 collegiate gridmen was discussed.

Tomorrow night the coaching staff, minus George P. Marshall, entrains for Pittsburgh and the Friday player draft of the National Football League. Owner-coach Marshall is on his way to California.

Redskin coaches will have one purpose in mind Friday: Getting enough players to avoid another fourth-place finish in the eastern division.

At least the Redskins get first choice. Their luck in a draw for the bonus choice gave them the initial draw and it's no secret Harry Gilmer, Alabama's tripple-threater, will be "the boy."

Backfield Coach Wilbur Moore will watch Gilmer, and also Texas' Bobby Layne, in action in the Sugar Bowl game on New Year's Day and other Redskin scouts will "cover" every bowl game in search of talent.

Coach Edwards and Marshall will see the Rose Bowl game, where a couple of tackles, John Ferraro and John Hendron, both of Southern California are the interest.

End Coach Wayne Millner and Head Scout Herman Ball go to the Memphis Delta Bowl, where two other Redskin choices of previous years may be signed. Tackle Weldon Edwards performs for Texas Christian and Halfback Charley Conerly for Mississippi.

And at the Cotton Bowl in Dallas the Tribe observer will be Ki Aldrich, line coach whose attention will center around Sid Halliday, prize end of Southern Methodist.

Penn State Figures It Can Beat SMU in Cotton Bowl; Mustangs Say They're No One-Man Outfit

Methodists Insist Doak Walker Has Plenty of Help

Dallas ,Tex., Dec. 15 (U.P.).—Those screaming headlines that make the Southern Methodist University football team look like a one-man show might prove very misleading to the Penn State crew which plays the Methodists in the Cotton Bowl New Year's day.

For, despite the fact the Mustang's great all-American back, Doak Walker, led the Southwest Conference in individual scoring and in rushing, ranked seventh in pass receiving and ninth in both passing and punt returning, in conference games, SMU's smartly coached eleven specializes in team play.

Doak Walker

And, Walker is rated by Coach Madison (once known as "Moaning Matty") Bell as the best "team" man of the lot.

Naturally, a man with as many talents as Walker has been the key in SMU's march to victories over Santa Clara ,Missouri, Oklahoma A. and M., Rice, UCLA, Texas A. and M., Baylor and Arkansas and a thrilling 19-19 tie with Texas Christian.

But, defensively and offensively, the Mustangs operate as a unit and with a heady end, Dick Reinking, calling defensive signals they devise and switch to meet any sudden alteration in the opposition's attack. So far, that system has worked almost to prefection.

Carrying the brunt of the Methodist attack when Walker takes over as a blocker, a task he excels in almost as well as in handling the ball, will be Wingback Paul Page, and Fullback Dick McKissack, the conference's third ranking ground gainer who lost only 17 yards in 144 plunges at the opposing lines all season.

Bell occasionally tosses in Gil Johnson, a whip-armed sophomore passing artist who completed 12 of 14 passes in one game, or Frank Payne, a triple-threater who substitutes pass catching for punting as one of his threats, to vary the attack.

But Bell believes that one of the team's secrets of success is that it never tries to "pour it on" any foe. The Methodists seem con-

Lions Suffer 8-7 Setback

Nelson Podolsky's goal with less than three minutes to play gave the Indianapolis Capitols a 8-7 victory over Washington's Lions in a wild, high-scoring game before 1080 fans last night at Uline Arena.

Podolsky's shot past Goalie Gordie Bell followed last period scores by Washington's Johnny Carr-Harris and Frank Porteous and Indianapolis tallies by Cliff Simpson and Enio Schlisizzi that left the score even at 6-6. The lead had changed hands five times before the deciding goal was scored.

Washington saw a 5-3 lead disappear late in the second period as Pat Lundy and Eddie Brunetau of Indianapolis scored within 14 seconds of each other to even the count at 5-5.

Jack Portland's long shot and close scores by Ken Schults and Bob Walton had put the Lions ahead earlier in the period after the Capitols' Enio Scllsizzi had matched Portland's effort.

Each team had tallied in the opening stanza, Washington on goals by Joe Ciuman and Red Raney and Indianapolis on pointmakers by Lundy and Jerry Couture.

Strauss Says Walcott Gets 20%—or No Bout

By Gayle Talbot

New York, Dec. 16 (AP).—Sol Strauss, whose dander rises at the drop of a writ, declared with desk-thumping emphasis today that Jersey Joe Walcott either can fight Joe Louis again next June for 20 per cent of the net receipts or remain in Camden, N. J., with his memories.

Sol, acting head of te 20t Century Sporting Club, sounded very much as though he meant it. He is an irritated barrister. Additionally, he feels deeply hurt that Jersey Joe and his official family have turned on him after he gave them their big opportunity.

"Never-never-never;" he exploded when asked if there was any cance e would relent and grant Walcott te 30-30 sylit in te spoils e is demanding for a return bout wit te eavyweigt campion.

"Certainly," he conceded, "we had a written agreement that they would split 30-30 in a return fight in the event Walcott won the decision. Louis did, and he's still the champion and entitled to the champion's share."

Strauss said he had seen none of the Walcott crowd since the night of the fight 11 days ago, when he went to Jersey Joe's dressing room to congratulate him on his great showing.

"Should I go to them with my hat in my hand?" Sol shouted. "I say not. If Walcott wants to fight for the championship again he will have to come to me and accept my terms. He not only will have to take 20 per cent, but he will have to sign a contract to defend the title for the Twentieth Century Club in the event he wins.

"If he doesn't, I'm not just threatening when I sal there will be another man in the ring with Louis next June. Joe mentioned Gus Lesnevich. He's not the only one. There's Olle Tandberg and Ezzard Charles and Joe Baksi. Remember, I'm the one who gave Walcott his chance when everyone said I was crazy. One writer said I should be thrown in jail for charging $30. Now what do they say?"

Lambeau May Become Don Coach in '48

New York, Dec. 16 (AP).—Benjamin F. Lindheimer of the Los Angeles Dons, would neither confirm nor deny today that Earl L. (Curly) Lambeau, veteran coach of the Green Bay Packers of the rival National League, would coach the All-America Dons next year and stole the spotlight from the circuit's second annual draft of college talent.

Lindheimer, however, did say that four coaches were under consideration for the job Dud DeGroot gave up a month ago.

Lambeau, who is vice president, general manager and head coach of the Packers, said in Green Bay that he had not been approached by anyone regarding the 1948 season and that rumors "I will leave Green Bay are based on unfounded facts which could have originated in Green Bay."

The Los Angeles stockholder engaged in the verbal fencing with reporters after the draft meeting, in which Anthony (Skippy) Minisi of Pennsylvania's unbeaten team, was the first player chosen. He was picked by DeGroot, flown here to aid in the drafting of players for the orphaned Chicago Rockets.

The draft was secret but it was determined that Bobby Layne of Texas, was the No. 1 choice of the Baltimore Colts; Harry Gilmer of Alabama and Dan Edwards of Georgia were the first two choices of the Brooklyn Dodgers and that Lowell Tew, also of Alabama, was the top pick of the New York Yankees.

Los Angeles, San Francisco, Buffalo and Cleveland refused to reveal their selections.

CHICAGO ROCKETS—Tony (Skippy) Minisi, halfback, Pennsylania.

BALTIMORE COLTS—Robert Layne, quarterback, Texas; signed A. Wendell Williams, end, Rice, and James (Tubby) Madison, guard, Ohio Wesleyan.

BROOKLYN—Harry Gilmer, halfback, Alabama; Dan Edwards, end, Georgia.

NEW YORK YANKEES—Lowell Tew, fullback, Alabama; Otto Schnellbacher, end, Kansas; Peter Stout, fullback, Texas Christian; George (Barney) Poole, end, Mississippi; Jack Weisenburger, fullback, Michigan; Bob Herndon, tackle, Southern California; Rickard Ottoels, halfback, University of Washington; James McKissack, fullback, Southern Methodist; Joseph Magliolo, guard, Texas; Robert Ramsey, quarterback, Southern Methodist; Charles Wright, end, Texas A. and M.; Marion Shirley, tackle, Oklahoma City University; Thomas Landry, halfback, Texas; Carl Russ, fullback, Rice; Fred Enke, jr., halfback, Arizona; Robert Forbes, halfback, Florida; John Cunningham, end, California; Nicholas Cenovich, back, Wake Forest; Mike Zeleznak, halfback, Kansas State; John Panelli, fullback, Notre Dame; Earl (Jug) Girard, halfback, Wisconsin; Rip Collins, halfback, Louisiana State; Frank Nelson, halfback, Utah; William Clements, end, UCLA. Signed—Pete Layden, halfback, Texas.

Pauley Buys Into Rams

Edwin H. Pauley, special assistant to the Secretary of the Army, stated in Washington last night that he had purchased 37½ per cent ownership of the Los Angeles Rams of the National Football League.

In confirming reports that he had bought into the Los Angeles team, Pauley said, "I have long been a football fan and Los Angeles is my home town, you know. The purchase, of course, is subject to league approval."

Daniel Reeves, president of the Rams, admitted yesterday, according to the Associated Press, that negotiations with Pauley had been in progress.

In Los Angeles, Vincent X. Flaherty, sports writer of the Examiner, pointed out that the Rams have finished in the red for the past two seasons

Pendleton showed exceptional promise for such a young player last season, batting .318 and fielding well.

Aggie Coach Norton Resigns, But It Costs Alumni Plenty

College Station, Tex., Dec. 16 (AP).—The fight of the alumni of Texas A. and M. College to obtain a new football coach ended today in victory—but they had to Pay Homer Norton $20,000 to accomplish it.

The 50-year-old Norton, whose coaching regime at Centenary was marked by undefeated teams, and who had a national champion at A. and M. in 1939—but whose teams in recent years had run into bad times—stepped down by submitting his resignation to become effective September 1, 1948. He will remain at the college in an advisory capacity until that date.

Norton's contract had two years and 9½ months to go when he announced he was leaving his position at the college and that an arrangement "entirely satisfactory to me" had been made. He would not elaborate but he was paid a sum of money by a group of alumni from Houston before announcing his resignation.

Alumni had been conducting a campaign for about a week to raise sufficient funds to pay Norton for the two years remaining on his contract after September 1.

Speculation over who would succeed Norton included the names of Harry Stiteler, backfield coach of the Aggies; H. N. (Rusty) Russell, assistant coach at Southern Methodist University; J. V. (Siki) Sikes, assistant coach at Georgia; Bob Berry, coach at East Texas State; T. F. Wilson, coach at Sam Houston State, and Bob Neyland, head coach at Tennessee. Stiteler, Sikes, Berry and Wilson all are former A. and M. football players.

It was considered in most quarters that Stiteler, who was assistant coach at Rice Institute last year, had the inside track to the job.

Bullets Get New Crack at Caps Tonight

By Bill Ahlberg
Post Reporter

BALTIMORE'S Bullets are coming to town again tonight with a chip on their shoulders.

They meet the Washington Caps in a Basketball Association of America game at Uline Arena—but that's only part of the story.

Tonight's game is actually Operation No. 4 in a modern "Tale of Two Cities" and Baltimore is on the short end of a 3-0 count.

It started last year when the Caps were burning up the league and the Bullets were running over every American League team.

Baltimore started heckling.

But the Caps, committed to league play, couldn't get permission to play the Bullets.

The heckling continued with things like "Washington's afraid to play Baltimore."

Finally enough was enough. The Washington Bears, a local pro club, invited the Bullets over to still the cries of "We want to whip Washington."

That was operation No. 1 . . .

OPERATION NO. 2 took place on opening night this year, when Baltimore, now admitted to the Association of America, started the season against the Caps.

Those same hecklers were still at work.

"Washington could never beat Baltimore."

But the final score was: Washington, 65; Baltimore, 57.

The Bullets shook their heads, admitted something had gone wrong, and vowed revenge. They went on to nine straight victories after that first loss to the Caps and then came Operation No. 3.

It happened the other night in Baltimore.

Final score: Washington, 71; Baltimore, 69, in an overtime game.

All of which leads up to tonight.

THE BULLETS figure if spirit can do it, they'll chalk one up against Washington.

And they're bringing 1500 howling fans along to provide the cheering section.

The Caps are currently in the middle of a nice winning streak after a pretty dismal start. As it now stands the Caps have won six and lost seven. The Bullets, after those nine wins in a row, have dropped four in a row and sport a nine-won-five-lost record.

The Caps will introduce Sonny Hertzberg, former CCNY star, and last year with the New York Knickerbockers, to the fans tonight.

Sonny was a big factor in that overtime win over the Bullets, and the Caps think his addition is just what was needed.

But they still haven't forgotten that right at the top of that hill stands the Baltimore Bullets with that chip on their shoulders.

Red Auerbach, Cap coach, and Bob Feerick, team captain, told a gathering at a luncheon yesterday that the Caps are finally beginning to click and from here on in it will all be "down hill."

But they haven't forgotten that right at the top of that hill stands the Baltimore Bullets with that chip on their shoulders.

Dear Folks:

Jockey Jimmy Baird has gone into a tie with George Cardoza in the race for riding honors here. Baird stands fourth in the Nation for the number of winners, being 11 behind Ted Atkinson's 232. Ted, by the way, has gone into retirement for the remainder of the year. Willie Zimmerman, Baltimore trainer, reports that Miss Haste is in foal to Omission. The mare will race once more before going to the Colwill Farm at Glyndon, Md. Zimmerman refused a sizable sum for Miss Haste. In an effort to keep bad-legged and unruly horses off the track, 34 campaigners are barred for one reason or another. Jimmy Stewart, Maryland trainer, is en route to Ireland to visit his parents. He will return to Romney Royal Farm, near Elkton, Md., in time to ready his horses for Havre de Grace racing. The local Moose Club holds a turkey dinner Thursday night and everybody is working up an appetite. J. Tucker has sold Distant to R. Smith at private terms. The Jay Eyesters are California bound. Did my little piece about the good condition of the track here put the jinx on the oval? Good midweek show. See you on the rail.—BILL.

Winner Beats Off Rally by White Easter

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Charles Town, W. Va., Dec. 16.—Edward Denham's Royal Step, a son of the mud-running Stepenfetchit, found the oozy track to his liking today and won the Alibhai Purse, the feature of the Tuesday program. Three quarters of a length behind the 6-year-old came E. L. Poston's White Easter to be second and five lengths in advance of J. T. Harris' Blue April.

The race was marred by a mishap, Jockey Vernon Bush suffering a bruised left leg when his mount, M. Dodasovick's Weary Load, crashed into the inside fence in midstretch. The track was deep in mud and it was believed that the horse became blinded. Bush's leg appeared to hit the fence as he was catapulted into the infield.

Mindanao Early Threat

Royal Step took command under a drive going to the first turn but Mindanao, the favorite, kept beside him to the backstretch. Jockey Skeets Holland, aboard Royal Step, shook off the choice and continued to save ground. In the final drive White Easter and Blue April rallied with the former threatening to take it all in a few more jumps.

Weary Load had saved ground into the stretch and appeared almost sure to be a money factor when she swerved into the rail.

Royal Step paid a $17 mutuel and was clocked in 1:25 for the 6½ furlongs.

Holland's Second Victory

The victory was the second of the afternoon for Holland. He was aboard Miss Helen Bishop's Stormy Night in the fourth race and kept the 8-year-old going long enough to win at a $6 mutuel. J. Frederick's Wild Knight was second ahead of C. D. Corum's Mat Hampton. Stormy Night was clocked in 2:19 3/5 for the mile and a quarter.

The daily double returned a $48.80 mutuel. J. S. McCutcheon's Arg Blue won the second race, getting up in the final jump to defeat Mrs. L. E. Torreyson's Gradea, Arg Blue paid $16. The first event had gone to Dan Chamblin's Fast Talk, a $4.40 favorite.

Fox Will Get 2d Shot at Gus Lesnevich

Philadelphia, Dec. 16 (AP).—Gus Lesnevich, the veteran Cliffside, N. J., battler, will give young Billy Fox a second crack at his light heavyweight title in a March 5 bout at New York's Madison Square Garden, it was disclosed today.

The announcement, made here by Frank (Blinky) Palermo, Fox's manager, came as a distinct surprise, since Joe Louis had said last week that Lesnevich might be his next foe in a heavyweight championship bout in June.

A defeat for Lesnevich would all but eliminate him from the heavyweight picture, while a victory for Fox would hoist the hard-punching Philadelphia Negro well up among the ranks of contenders for the heavyweight title, which Louis said he will vacate after his next bout.

It will be Fox's first fight since he stopped Jake LaMotta in the fourth round of a scheduled 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden November 14.

LaMotta is under a suspension imposed by the New York Athletic Commission for concealing vital facts about his condition. The $23,000 purses of both Fox and LaMotta have been withheld by the commission.

Lesnevich knocked out the youhg Philadelphian in their previous title meeting last February 28.

State Spirit High for SMU center in the east, and Co-Captain Johnny Potsklan at end.

The remaining line positions are filled by Sam Tamburo at end, Negley Norton at tackle and Joe Drazenovich at guard. Another vital lineman is reserve end Ed Czekaj, place-kicking specialist who has booted a field goal and 32 out of 46 extra points.

Higgins' backfield, which has gained seven yards by running for every yard it has picked up by passing this year, is sparked by Elwood Petchel, a 145-pound scatback who also does the passing.

19 Touchdowns for Durkota

Jeff Durkota, a wingback, is the squad's leading scorer with 10 touchdowns, followed by Francis Rogel, sophomore fullback who has scored six times, and Wally Triplett who has 30 points. Larry Joe and Bobby Williams are two of the other backs used a great deal, while Charlie Drazenovich does the blocking and signal-calling.

At present, Higgins is working his team hard on pass defense, since passing is the phase of Southern Methodist attack with which he is most concerned.

"Frankly," Higgins adds, "I think the game is a toss-up. I think we can stop their running attack, and I hope we can run against them. All that worries me is their passing attack."

There's good cause for worry on that score. Both All-America Doak Walker and Gill Johnson, whip-armed sophomore, know what to do with a football when they get it. Johnson's passing is particularly good, while Walker made some of his best runs the past season when he was trapped behind the line on pass attempts.

tent to do just what is necessary to win and therefore haven't run up any big margins. They play the game close to the vest—a method that almost ruined them against TCU when they had to come from behind twice (the last time in the final 30 seconds) to pull the game from the fire.

Plenty of experience on the squad and a student support second to none are given big shares of the credit by Bell for the team's successful season, which he admits he thought was still a year away. The spirit which lifted the team from the ruck on the return of Walker to the fold after a year of Army play also invaded the Hilltop campus.

Much of the experience was packed into the SMU line where graduation will reduce the ranks from the Cotton Bowl line-up that will find Reinking and All-Conference Sid Halliday at the terminals; Joe Ethridge and All-Conference John Hamberger at tackles; Earl Cook, another All-Conference ace, and Brownie Lewis at guards, and Cecil Sutphin at center.

Bell, who coached SMU's only other Bowl sortie—a trip to the 1936 Rose Bowl for a 7-0 loss to Stanford, remembers that too much wining and dining took the fine edge off his team that year, so he's scheduled a rigorous training schedule for the team's home-bowl appearance.

Reinking was the only probable nonstarter around when the Methodists resumed workouts for the Cotton Bowl contest. A twisted knee suffered in the TCU game hadn't responded as well as hoped to treatments, but he likely will be ready.

He wasn't expected to take part in the rugged scrimmage sessions Bell has ordered until Christmas Eve, when a two-day holiday will be called in workouts.

Four Other Local Games

American U. Host to Terrors In Feature Court Clash Today

Five of the District's colleges see basketball action tonight, but there will be only one game in town.

American University entertains Western Maryland's Green Terrors in its Massachusetts ave. gym at 8:30. American hopes to get back on the victory trail against a team that hasn't won in its first four starts.

George Washington, leading team in the area with six straight victories, risks its streak at Richmond. Maryland travels to Washington and Lee and Catholic U. meets Navy at Annapolis. In the other game, Vallaudet will play Johns Hopkins at Baltimore.

In its last start, American U. lost a tough one to Muhlenberg here Saturday night, 56-54. Pete Negley and Reggie Crockett were the standouts for American—in fact, the two of them did practically all the scoring in the second half.

Muhlenberg's veterans of tournament play got their winning margin from the foul-line, missing only 3 of 21 tries.

Navy opened its season with an easy victory over Johns Hopkins. Catholic U., with two victories in three games, was hard-pressed before beating Towson Teachers, 57-53, last time out.

2 Area Hospitals Leave Blue Cross

Alexandria Reports $8,529 Ten-Month Loss On Insured Patients; Arlington $5,800

Alexandria and Arlington Hospitals both announced their withdrawal yesterday from the Virginia Hospital Service Association (Blue Cross).

Heads of the hospitals gave as reasons the refusal of Blue Cross to raise its payments sufficiently to meet rising hospitalization costs.

Arlington Hospital Administrator Karl York said his hospital had lost $5800 on Blue Cross patients in the 10 months ended October 31.

Alexandria Hospital lost $8529.22 over the same period, according to D. C. Book, chairman of the board of directors.

"In the future these patients will be treated on a straight cost basis only," Book said.

Book also said, in anticipation of a meeting with an Alexandria city council committee next Monday, that "unless the city assumes its full responsibility to the hospital, the board of directors will recommend that the hospital accept only private cases."

Committees from council and the hospital board are to discuss the thorny problem of rates to be paid by the city in 1948 for welfare patients. The 1947 contract was signed only three weeks ago.

Book said at a meeting Monday night that lack of funds has handicapped hospital activity all this year and that more than once the board almost recommended closing the hospital. The hospital lost $96,307.38 in the first 10 months of 1947, he said.

He denied reports that endowment funds had been improperly spent. The board did put up some endowment funds as security for purchase of land, he said, but this was "in keeping with the language of the bequest."

At the meeting, the Alexandria Hospital corporation membership gave a vote of confidence to its board of directors and to Robert C. Whitton, its administrator, who resigned last night.

Whitton, at the meeting, went over point by point the recent Clemmons survey report criticizing the Alexandria Hospital administration and said he felt it failed in its purpose which, he said, was "to establish a formula for future participation of . . . Alexandria (the city) in its responsibility to the Alexandria Hospital."

He called criticism of the hospital's accounting system "an honest difference of opinion." To the statement that the hospital should not expect full payment from the city for indigents, he pointed out that all other communities in the metropolitan area either pay cost or make up hospital losses.

13 Firms Indicted In Egg-Price Fixing

Attorney General Clark yesterday announced the indictment of the Boston Fruit & Produce Exchange and 12 produce firms on charges of conspiring to fix egg prices in New England.

Clark said the indictment was returned by a Federal grand jury in Boston acting under the anti-trust laws. The maximum penalty on conviction of organizations for price fixing is a $5000 fine.

In addition to the exchange, Clark's announcement listed the following as defendants:

H. P. Hood and Sons, Inc., Berman & Co., Inc.; Bartlett Varney Co., Chapin & Adams Corp., E. F. Deering Co., Inc.; H. A. Hovey Co., Kennedy & Co., Inc.; A. E. Mills & Son, Inc., all of Boston; Armour & Co., and Beatrice Foods Co., both of Chicago, Ill.; Brockton Cooperative Egg Auction Association, Inc., of Avon, Mass., and New Hampshire Egg Auction, Inc. of Derry, N. H.

The Justice Depatment also announced that a civil anti-trust suit had been filed against the Abrasive Grain Association of Worcester, Mass., and five corporations.

The suit charges them with fixing prices for artificial abrasives.

Two Named To Welfare Board

Gerstenfeld Mrs. Wedel

Rabbi Norman Gerstenfeld and Mrs. Theodore O. Wedel were appointed members of Board of Public Welfare yesterday by the Commissioners.

Rabbi Gerstenfeld, who has been minister of the Washington Hebrew Congregation for 12 years, will complete the term of William Brayshaw, which expires June 30, 1950. Brayshaw resigned June 27, giving no reason for his action.

Mrs. Wedel, president of the Washington Council of Church Women, will serve until June 30, 1948, completing the term of A. Harding Paul, former vice chairman of the board.

Paul resigned May 15. His letter rapped the "conflict and divided authority" of the present welfare setup.

Rabbi Gerstenfeld is honorary chairman of the inter-denominational Committee on Religious Life of the Nation's Capital. He lives at 3107 Garfield st. nw.

Mrs. Wedel, wife of the Rev. Theodore O. Wedel, Canon of Washington Cathedral, lives at 3508 Woodley rd. nw. She is a member of the boards of the United Council of Church Women and Council of Social Agencies; board of trustees of the House of Mercy; board of Lady Managers, Episcopal Eye, Ear and Throat Hospital.

She also serves as member of the Advisory Committee of the Juvenile Court, chairman of the Advisory Board of the Volunteer Center of Washington, member of the Consumer Advisory Committee to the President's Council of Economic Advisers, and consultant on the National Staff of Volunteer Services of American Red Cross.

ICC Proposes Rise in Most Express Rates

By the Associated Press

The Interstate Commerce Commission proposed yesterday to allow the Railway Express Agency to raise most express rates by 10 per cent.

The commission emphasized, however, that its action is not final and is subject to review if shippers file protests.

The effect is to authorize the company to file the increased rates and to put them into effect 30 days later if no protests are filed.

If protests are filed, the commission can suspend the higher rates and conduct a formal investigation as to their reasonableness.

The increase is designed chiefly to cover a 15½ cents an hour wage increase recently granted to express company employes, which the company estimated will add $31,400,000 to its annual operating bill.

The Express Agency, following the wage adjustments, asked ICC authority to make a flat new 10 per cent boost in all express rates and charges. The company estimated this would bring in $42,500,000 a year additional revenue.

Committee Votes Against Deporting Ex-Red Official

By The Associated Press

VIktor A. Kravchenko, former Soviet official in Washington who has publicly renounced communism, yesterday won the first round in his fight against deportation to Russia.

The House Judiciary Committee, headed by Representative Michener (R., Mich.), approved a bill by Representative Coudert (R., N. Y. to waive the exclusive provisions of U. S. immigration laws applicable to Kravchenko as a former Communist Party member.

The bill will probably come up for House action early in January. Under its terms, Kravchenko would be recognized as a permanent resident, as of August 18, 1943, when he came to this country, and would be eligible to apply for American citizenship two years after the bill is passed.

Russia has demanded the return of Kravchenko, former Soviet purchasing commission agent here, who wrote a book, "I Choose Freedom," after he broke with communism in 1944.

McDowell Urges Eisler Be Confined On Ellis Island

By The Associated Press

Representative McDowell (R., Pa.) a member of the House Un-American Activities Committee, yesterday asked that Gerhard Eisler, identified by the Justice Department as boss Communist of the United States, be apprehended and confined at the Ellis Island, N. Y., immigration station.

McDowell said in a statement in the Congressional Record that Eisler, convicted of contempt of Congress and of passport violation, should be kept on Ellis Island "until his case is finally disposed of by the courts of the United States."

Eisler addressed a group of Wayne University collegians at Detroit Monday night after snowball-hurling University of Michigan students prevented a planned appearance at Ann Arbor.

Grant Calls GSI Workers Group 'Misled'

Maj. Gen. U. S. Grant 3d, president of Government Services Inc., yesterday criticized the Citizens Committee in Support of the Cafeteria Workers as "misinformed and misled."

His statement was issued in answer to an announcement Monday night by the group that it had appointed a subcommittee to confer with officials of GSI to bring about a peaceful settlement of the present conflict with employes.

GSI and the CIO Cafeteria Workers Union are deadlocked over the union's refusal to file non-Communist and financial affidavits, with GSI refusing to negotiate until this is done.

Julius I. Peyser, head of the citizens' group, declared it was "incumbent upon the corporation to measure up to its responsibility and in good faith sit down at the bargaining table with the union, which has represented the employes for the past 10 years, and work out a solution of these matters."

Rezoning Hearing Held

The Montgomery County Commissioners held a hearing yesterday on rezoning a 30-acre tract for an apartment development in Chevy Chase.

The request to rezone the tract, situated on both sides of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tracks north of East-West hwy. and east of Connecticut ave., was taken under advisement by the commissioners.

Chevy Chase Land Co., which filed the petition, said it plans to erect 338 apartments on the tract if it is rezoned from residential A to C.

When President Brooke Johns asked persons favoring the application to stand, 41 stood up. Those in opposition numbered 14 when they arose.

The application has been recommended for approval by the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission which described the land company's development plan as "excellent."

The Empty Stocking

THIS Christmas we planned to fill the South's stocking with a $10 million gift of year-'round travel pleasure . . . those 101 luxurious new streamlined passenger train cars we ordered 'way back in August, 1946.

Alas! it can't be. Santa got caught in that famous post-war bottleneck.

We share your disappointment, because we can hardly wait to give our trains that "new look" with all those ultra-modern, lightweight coaches, all-room sleeping cars, diners, and observation, lounge and club cars. Month after month we've impatiently awaited their delivery. But surely, they'll be in service long before next Christmas!

In the meantime, we've been improving our schedules and connections, modernizing our present passenger cars, and adding Diesel power galore . . . doing everything possible to add to your safety, comfort and convenience when you travel on the Southern.

And as quickly as possible we'll fill the South's stocking . . . to the top . . . with those new passenger cars we ordered so long ago. So won't you please be patient?

Slot Machine Profits Kept In St. Marys

Leonardtown, Md., Dec. 16 (Spl.).—The St. Marys County Commissioners moved today to bar "outside interests" from sharing in the profits of newly legalized slot machines in the county.

In adopting a resolution which officially put the machines in motion, the commissioners agreed to restrict their operation to "bona fide" St. Marys residents. As a result of their action, licenses will be issued only to operators who have either owned property or have been registered voters in the county for two years.

The commissioners admitted the restrictive clause was designed to allay fears expressed by slot machine opponents, who had contended that "big-time outside gambling interests" would move into the county as soon as the machines were legalized.

The resolution, authorized by a public referendum vote of nearly two-to-one last Tuesday, also established a $50 license fee for each machine and a gross receipts tax of 5 per cent of the total "take."

Under terms of a special bill which authorized the commissioners to designate the type of coin-operated machines they wished to legalize, subject to the referendum vote, the members agreed to exempt music boxes and "legitimate vending machines" from the $50 annual license fee. The fee is the maximum permitted by the bill authorizing a referendum to legalize the machines.

Adoption of the resolution at today's meeting actually makes slot machines legal immediately, but county officials said they probably will not be operating until next week because application and license forms still must be prepared.

Meanwhile, because Leonardtown is the only incorporated town in the county, its town commission must also adopt a resolution to legalize the machines within the corporate limits. Members of the commission said today they would try to arrange a meeting either tomorrow or Friday night to enact a resolution similar to that approved by the county commissioners.

School Site Law Sought For Fairfax

Fairfax County's School Board will seek a county requirement that builders set aside land in large residential real estate developments for school sites.

The board voted at its regular meeting yesterday to ask the county board of supervisors to enact such an ordinance after meeting difficulty in finding places to build schools in several of the county's new developments.

The board voted to begin condemnation proceedings to acquire a school site at Jefferson Park near Groveton.

The board also:

1. Voted to apply for a $135,000 State literary loan for addition of four classrooms, library and cafeteria at Burke Elementary School.

2. Invited a committee of Negro residents to discuss their request that the county build a Negro high school. Negro pupils now attend a high school in Manassas which is jointly owned and operated by the Prince William and Fairfax counties.

3. Authorized purchase of additional playground space at Vienna Elementary School (Negro) and heard a report that the county has bought two additional acres for the playground at Chesterbrook Elementary School.

4. Authorized a committee to continue negotiations for school sites at Bailey's Crossroads, Groveton and in the Jefferson Village-Tyler Gardens area west of Falls Church.

Va. Negroes Band to Fight Segregation

Richmond, Va., Dec. 16 (AP).—In the first concerted movement of its kind in the state a group of prominent Virginia Negroes, acting as individuals and as representatives of some 100 organizations, have banded together to fight racial segregation.

The formation of the Viriginia Civil Rights Organization was announced today by Dr. Thomas H. Henderson, dean of Virginia Union University here.

The group's main concern will be to work for repeal of Virginia segregation statutes, Dr. Henderson said.

A committee has been set up to contact state offcial and legislators in an effort to have bills introduced to that end. On a long-range basis the organization will seek changes in the State Constitution to do away with such segregation—specifically in public transportation and assembly.

Dr. Harry T. Penn, Roanoke dentist, heads the new group.

Captain Who Kept Army Pay Checks Yields to MP's

Richmond, Va., Dec. 16 (AP).—Capt. Edward P. Kelly, who vanished from Camp Lee two weeks ago with paychecks of 37 fellow officers, has surrendered to military police in New York—just as he wrote his wife he intended to do.

Charles W. Brown, agent in charge of the Federal Bureau of Investigation here, said the 40-year-old officer now is in custody at Fort Jay. He is being held for military authorities at Camp Lee.

Building Permits Set New Record In Falls Church

The town of Falls Church set a new valuation high in building permits issued during November. Permits for $2,792,325 forth of construction was issued, Building Inspector N. G. Daavid announced yesterday.

The previous valuation high was reached in October, when $563,465 in permits was issued. The November figure was boosted by a permit for construction of Tyler Gardens, a development on W. Broad st. The development, which will have 97 apartment buildings, will cost an estimated $2,780,000, Daavid said.

Planes to Cut Baltimore, Bermuda Time by Half

Baltimore, Dec. 16 (AP).—The British Overseas Airways Corp. announced today it will replace its present Baltimore-Bermuda Flying Boat service with a thrice-weekly four-engine land plane service between the two points.

The move, effective January 15, will cut down the time required for the journey by 50 per cent. The Constellation Speedbirds to be used can make the flight in three hours, the BOAC said.

Coincidentally with the change in equipment on the Baltimore-Bermuda run, the BOAC intends to inaugurate a New York-Bermuda service on a thrice weekly round-trip basis, the announcement said.

Dynamite Truck Burns

Martinsburg, W. Va., Dec. 16 (AP).—The cab of a tractor-trailer truck loaded with 24,000 pounds of dynamite caught fire on United States Route 11 near Marlow yesterday and was extinguished by the Martinsburg Fire Department. The trailer of the truck was quickly detached from the cab and towed away. A short circuit caused the blaze.

8-Year-Old Boy In Rush to Be Pullman Porter

Baltimore, Dec. 16 (AP).—Clyde Thompson, 8-year-old Negro from Wilmington, Del., wants to be a Pullman porter when he grows up—and Patrolmen William Sudmeier and John Foertschbeck wish he could hurry the process.

Twice now, within less than two weeks, they've had to take him in tow after train rides he's made (without tickets) here.

The only thing they can get out of him is that he wants to be a porter because porters wear brass buttons and he likes to take train rides because he likes to go places.

Clyde knows that policemen wear brass buttons, too, but he doesn't want to be a policeman. He doesn't think much of policemen. They try to stop him from going places.

6 Va. Trucking Firms Sign Wafe Contract

Richmond, Va., Dec. 16 (AP).—A new contract has been signed between the Teamsters Union and a group of six trucking companies operating in the Winchester-Harrisonburg area, Governor Tuck's office was advised today.

The Winchester-Harrisonburg agreement is between Local 433 of the union and the Novick Transfer Co., Elliott Motor Lines, Mason & Dixon Lines, and Smith Transfer Co. It sets up an entirely new system of wage classification, with varying increases designed to eliminate a "number of inequities," officials said.

Court to Rule On Status of Water Control

Richmond, Va., Dec. 16 (AP).—The Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals today was asked to decide whether an industry authorized by the State Water Control Board to discharge industrial waste into Virginia streams, may be prosecuted thereafter under antipollution sections of the fish and game laws.

The question was put to the high court in an appeal by the American Cyanamid Co., which contended that passage of the 1946 Water Control Act nullified or amended earlier statutes governing the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries.

The court granted a writ of error to American Cyanamid from two convictions in Nelson County Circuit Court, thus assuring an opinion would be handed down on the question.

Tailor, 80, Drops Dead in Row Over Fur Coat

Bel Air, Md., Dec. 16 (AP).—Robert L. Bull, 80-year-old tailor, dropped dead today during a running argument with a customer over a fur coat.

Policeman Walter Bennington reported Miss Eva Balser, 35-year-old registered nurse, got into a struggle with Bull at his shop when she stopped there to claim a fur coat which she had left with him about three weeks ago for repairs.

The nurse left the store with the coat, Bennington said.

Bull, following her down the street, suddenly pitched dead of a heart attack, said Dr. Gerald Palmer.

The business section was thrown into a furore over the incident. Miss Balser was taken to the police station and questioned but was released.

Frederick, Md., Dec. 16.—Continued rent control in the Frederick defense rental area has been recommended to the Federal Housing expediter in Washington by the Frederick Rental Advisory Board.

While approving retention of control, the board members also suggested a 15 per cent increase in the general rent level for the area. They requested, however, that the increase not be applied to landlords and tenants who already have provided for 15-percent boosts through mutual agreement.

Going With Another's Spouse Costs Jobless Aid

Harrisburg, Pa., Dec. 16 (U.P.).—A glass company inspector, fired because she refused to stop going out with the husband of another worker, was denied unemployment compensation today.

Girl Visitors At Va. U. Frat Houses Curbed

Charlottesville, Va., Dec. 16 (AP).—New University of Virginia fraternity regulations curbing visiting hours for women were announced today in College Topics, undergraduate publication.

The regulations are not an "ultimatum," President Colgate W. Darden, jr., said, but represent "long and thoughtful consideration" by the board of visitors. The rules specify:

"Women are to be entertained in living and recreation rooms only. Fraternity houses shall be conducted in an orderly and gentlemanly manner.

"No women shall be permitted in fraternity houses Monday through Friday before 3 p. m. nor after 8 p. m. and on Saturday and Sunday before 11 a. m. nor after 8 p. m. under any circumstances—with the proviso that on Friday and Saturday nights women shall be permitted in fraternity houses until 1 a. m. if chaperones approved by the dean of students are present.

"Officers of each fraternity shall be responsible for enforcing these rules."

The board, "taking cognizance of a recent occurrence at the Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity," when young women were present after hours, barred "all women visitors" from the house for the remainder of the 1947-48 session and placed the house on probation.

Four members of the fraternity, reported directly involved or having knowledge of the occurrence, are prohibited from living in the house and placed on probation.

Fraternities may appeal to the board at its next meeting January 9, Darden said.

Virginia Area Reports Decline In Unemployment

Fredericksburg, Va., Dec. 16 (Spl.).—Unemployment would be totally eliminated from the Fredericksburg area by January 1, provided all present applicants for jobs could qualify for positions now available.

This fact high-lighted a report by the local office of the Virginia State Employment Service on a recently completed survey, which showed a steady decline in unemployment since last July.

G. L. Layne, local VSES manager, said there now are "almost as many" jobs as there are applicants, "but unfortunately, all the applicants don't fit the jobs." He said the agency's rolls showed about 250 unemployed persons, against 175 available jobs.

The survey covered the City of Fredericksburg, Spotsylvania, Stafford, King George and Caroline Counties, and a portion of Prince William County—an area with a population of about 56,000 persons. about 1200 persons in the area are employed steadily at the Naval Proving Ground in Dahlgren.

The Rockbridge Hunt, of Lexington, a nonprofit, nonstock corporation, is headed by F. H. Barksdale, as president, and W. E. Tilson, as vice president.

Also chartered as a nonprofit corporation was the Keswick Country Club, Inc., headed by Donald G. Stevens of Cismont as president, and Paul J. Bloch of Keswick as vice president.

THOSE WONDERFUL CARLS. It looks as though the Statler and the Club Cairo are competing in presenting the amusement world's most charming gents named Carl. Carl Ravazza, whose voice is full of heartbeats, S. A., and other fascinating elements, opens tonight at the Cairo. Tomorrow night the Statler presents the elderly but ever devastating Carl Brisson, frivolously known as the "Middle Aged Girls' Sinatra." (That skinny little ole Sinatra doesn't even start with Brisson as an entertainer.) . . . Strictly speaking this isn't exactly a competition between the Cairo and the Statler. It's simply a situation that makes it necessary for appreciators of top artists to go to both places.

Carl Ravazza
At the Cairo

Ray Heatherton and his band will open at the Metronome Room on Friday. First time he's been there since befo' the war, which changed him from a musician to a leatherneck.

YOUNG MAN OF PARTS. Tommy Diz, who'll open at the Mayflower Lounge next Monday, won the Critics' Award for his juvenile performance in "Best Foot Forward." Since then he's composed the official "March of Dimes" song, appeared with radio's "Aldrich Family" and in Ethel Barrymore's success, "The Corn is Green."

CHRISTMAS SECTOR. A Christmas present to the good citizens of Prince Georges County will be the first broadcast of Al Shea's Atom Band from the Dubonnet Room via WBUZ-FM on Christmas Eve . . . Eugenia Schor, pretty tub thumper for the Old New Orleans, will pour eggnog at a pre-Christmas party at her 16th st. home next Saturday . . . Grisha Gregory, band leader at the Balalaika, is changing his pre-Christmas party to an after-Christmas party so that his guests may include the Don Cossack Choir who'll be here early in January . . . First local Christmas card to drop on this desk was from Ida Clark, zippy blonde organist, who seized time by the scruff of the neck, did her mailing on December 8. Next came malty greetings from Gunther Beer and Duke Jacobs.

Ina Ray Hutton is waving her nationally famed chassis at Club Kavakos. Her band is one that always keeps the customers both looking and listening.

FRIENDS MEET. Ace music men dropping into the King Cole Room on a recent night included "Red" Minnevich and Freddie Wilson of the air waves, Ted Alexander of the Old New Orleans, the Mayflower's Johnny Shaw. When Johnny had a band at the Madrillon a few seasons ago, his singer was Helen Forrest. He sees a great similarity between the Forrest vocalizing and that of K. C. R.'s Dona Mason . . . Ciro's resounded with the gay greetings of a group of War Department civilian workers who had served with the occupation forces at Caserta, Italy. This happy bunch (11 girls and 4 young men, recalled those rugged days in Italy over a fine Italian dinner they could never have gotten in Caserta.

TOO FAT, HUH? Bib Knight of the Lounge Riviera brings a harrassed and fearful look to his playing of the "Too Fat Polka." Seems that Chubby Mamma Bryan, who runs the checkroom, shakes her finger at him warningly whenever he strikes up this musical reflection on her figger.

Betsy Winter at the Willard Hotel wants me to remind you that the "theater dinner" in the hostelry's Crystal Room is planned so you'll positively be on time for curtain rise at the National—even if you don't start on your oysters until 7:30.

THOSE NEW BANDS. Tonight's star band event is the opening of Carr and Don in the Rainbow Room. Let's hope the boys treat the customers to a few of their excellentissimo twin piano numbers in addition to the dance music . . . Julian Altman, his violin and his orchestra have gotten away to a mighty pretty start at the Pall Mall Room . . . Freddy de Castro's rumba group will be heard at the supper dance session at De Jon's beginning Christmas Eve.

DIAL-A-TUNE. There's a new game in Cafe Caprice these evenings. Rodolfo Cornejo passes out cards fixed up like a telephone dial plus a few musical characters. You indicate your telephone number on the card, pass it back to Dr. Cornejo and, so help us, he plays a tune based on your telephone number!

Merry-Land's Dr. Wiz has invented a game, too. It's a fortune-telling game, naturally, and called "Wiz." Several New York department stores will place it on sale early in 1947.

Virginia Urged To Boost Aid To Blind 40%

Richmond, Va., Dec. 16 (Spl.).—"Immediate steps" toward raising relief grants to the State's blind by 40 per cent were recommended today by the American Foundation for the Blind, Inc.

The Foundation, in its report made public here today by Governor Tuck, also asked formation of an educational plan to provide instruction in public day schools for blind and visually handicapped children.

"There would seem to be little justification for the State of Virginia to have an average grant of $23 per month when the average for the entire country is $38 a month," the report commented.

U. S. Would Pay 55 Per Cent

The report stated that under present Virginia and Federal laws the State could increase its present payments by 40 per cent and allow, in addition, $10 a month a person for special expenses and still receive a 55 per cent reimbursement from the Federal Government under the Social Security Act.

The foundation was asked to make the study upon recommendation by a three-man Governor's committee which investigated conditions at the Virginia Workshop for the Blind, at Charlottesville, last January.

Other recommendations made in the foundation's report included classifying all blind persons in the blind aid category. At present, relief to persons over 65 years of age comes under old-age relief whether or not the client is blind.

Against Proposed School

It also suggested appointment of an advocate to present to the reviewing officer the case of any relief recipient who wishes to appeal his grant.

It asked abandonment of plans for a proposed Virginia School for the Blind, at Charlottesville, and urged that a general program for education of blind children in the public schools system be undertaken without delay.

A vocational training program for the blind, "in which instruction rather than production is the main consideration," was recommended.

Special schools for the blind at high school levels were deemed unnecessary by the Foundation, "since children able to profit from high school education should do so in the public school."

Richmond, Va., Dec. 16 (AP).—The State Corporation Commission's hearing on an application of Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. of Virginia for rate increases will be resumed at 11 a. m. tomorrow when SCC counsel will begin cross-examination of company witnesses.

Those who are expected to be called for cross-examination tomorrow include A. L. Lanigan, assistant vice president of four Chesapeake & Potomac telephone companies; R. W. Thomas, of the engineering department of American Telephone & Telegraph Co., and R. W. Michie, vice president of four C&P companies.

The hearing of the telephone company's application was continued on December 3 to permit counsel for the commission to get ready for cross-examination of witnesses for the telephone company who had testified previously in the case.

Baltimore Banks To Be Open on 4 Saturdays in 1948

Baltimore, Dec. 16 (AP).—Baltimore banks, having adopted a five-day week last summer, announced today they will do business on four Saturdays in 1948 to avoid long idle periods when holidays fall at the end of the week.

Banks in other sections of Maryland are expected to follow suit.

The four open-for-business Saturdays are:

February 21, because Monday, February 23, is a legal holiday, Washington's birthday.

March 27, because Friday, March 26, is Good Friday and a legal holiday.

May 29, because Monday, May 31, is the legal Memorial Day holiday.

September 11, because Friday, September 10, is Defenders' Day in Maryland.

The Rotary Club will be host on Monday, when about 300 children will be feted at the new Fairfax Theater at 3:30 p. m., and again on Tuesday, when about 125 youngsters will be entertained at the Fairfax Negro Elementary School at 3:30. Howard Sharp is chairman for the entertainment.

Bay Bridge Test Borings Start Today

Baltimore, Dec. 16 (AP).—Engineers tomorrow will start $100,000 to $150,000 worth of test borings to determine the best location for a bridge or combination bridge and tunnel across Chesapeake Bay.

Six crews of four men each will man two 100-foot scows from which drills will bore down 100 to 300 feet below the surface of the bay across the four-mile stretch between Sandy Point on the western shore and Kent Island on the east.

They will work 24 hours a day and the tests are expected to take at least three months, depending mostly on weather and tide conditions.

The borings will be 400 to 775 feet apart on two lines across the bay—one for a possible causeway bridge with a high center steel arch which would permit ocean-going vessels to ply up and down the bay, and one for causeways with a tunnel under the bed of the bay at the center to permit shipping traffic.

In either case, the crossing itself is expected to cost about 25 million dollars. A start on the project, which has been discussed since about the time of the War Between the States, was authorized by the 1947 General Assembly last winter after Governor Lane had made it one of the planks in his campaign platform.

Ridenouk Gets 10 Years in Md. Slaying

Hagerstown, Md., Dec. 16 (AP).—A Circuit Court jury refused the State's demand for a first-degree murder verdict against Roy Woodrow Ridenour today, but convicted the young West Virginia Army veteran of manslaughter and he was sentenced to 10 years in prison for the slaying of a Hagerstown gambler.

"I'm not guilty," the 30-year-old Martinsburg, W. Va., man told the court after he had heard the verdict returned by 12 men following an hour and 40 minutes of deliberation.

Chief Judge William A. Huster of the Fourth Judicial Circuit imposed the sentence. He said he and his two associates had decided the maximum penalty was called for by the verdict.

On Terminal Leave

Ridenour, who was an Army warrant officer on terminal leave at the time, was accused of slaying Charles Terzeian Taylor as they were returning from Martinsburg the night of July 28 after a gambling session at John Light's tavern.

Taylor was supposed to have been carrying $3400 in a paper sack when they left Martinsburg.

Ridenour's defense was that Taylor "pulled a gun on me and called me a stool pigeon" during an argument over a horse race bet as they were driving along the Williamsport pike en route to Hagerstown. He said Taylor owed him $2400 on the bet. He also claimed Taylor was a member of the tri-State Potomac Valley gambling syndicate which had taken him "to the cleaners" for $1000—his savings, his terminal leave pay, and what he could borrow from friends.

Body Found on Road

The gambler's body was found along the road the next morning. His blood-spattered car was found parked near South Potomac Junior High School here.

Ridenour testified he became frightened and ran from the car after "the gun went off." Then he went back, dumped Taylor's body out, and drove the car into Hagerstown. He started to buy a bus ticket to Baltimore but noticed there was blood on his trousers and hired a cab to Frederick instead. He hired another which took him to Baltimore.

He was picked up there the second day as he emerged with a girl friend from her apartment house. Her address had been given Baltimore detectives by Hagerstown police.

Ridenour told them he took about $200 out of Taylor's paper sack and then threw it into a hedge near the schoolhouse. It has never been found.

The jury brought in its verdict so quickly that many of the spectators who jammed the courtroom through the two-day trial hadn't yet returned from lunch.

Md. Program Outlined for Road Builders

Baltimore, Dec. 16 (AP).—Chairman Robert Reindollar of the State Roads Commission laid a 25 to 40-million-dollar construction schedule for 1948 before some 100 road builders today, one of whom said he was seeking the "impossible."

The scarcity of equipment and material, as well as labor was cited by Bruce Campbell, representing the Maryland Aggregates Association, as factors against a schedule of such magnitude.

Campbell said he thought the commission was "trying to reach too far. It is not smart to go ahead at this time and try to spend so much money in so short a time."

Would Spread Program

He suggested the program be spread out over a longer period. The 1948 road construction schedule is the first stage in Maryland's 200-million-dollar highway program that is to cover a five-year period.

Campbell voiced his belief after William T. Childs, chief engineer of the commission, gave a breakdown of materials required for 1948.

These included 300,776 tons of stone, 216,966 tons of gravel, 216,942 tons of washed sand and 382,285 of bank-run gravel.

Further, cement road work will require 492,225 tons of barrels of portland cement and 641 tons of structural steel.

Some contractors commented they thought the commission's needs might be met, since both equipment and labor was becoming more available.

Regional Breakdown Planned

The Maryland Contractors Association—the other group represented at the crowded gathering in the Baltimore Association of Commerce Building—will receive a regional breakdown of materiel and equipment requirements for further study.

Reindollar told the builders that the commission's most serious bottleneck would be the acquisition of rights of way. He said the program would be flexible and fluctuate according to the ability to make surveys, acquire land, and lay out plans.

The 1948 program was divided into three parts, he said. The first was resurfacing and widening existing roads, the second some 20 to 25 projects of ordinary roads construction, and the third six to eight expressways.

Greeting Card to Lane Asks for New Road

Crisfield, Md., Dec. 16 (AP).—Merry Christmas, Governor, and how about that new road in 1948?

That's the gist of a Christmas greeting card sent Governor Lane by the Crisfield Chamber of Commerce.

After 243 words of the usual felicitations and best wishes, the Crisfield card concludes:

"Before the close of 1948 we sincerely trust and hope that Somerset County will be greatly enriched with a new straight and hard-surfaced road between Marion Station and Westover."

"The fate of the world sits on this rug"

—JOHN L. LEWIS

The control of labor monopolies, neglected by the Taft-Hartley Act, is discussed in this editorial which also appears in McGraw-Hill publications for January. It may be quoted from, or reprinted with or without credit mention.

This is the 64th of a series

NOTE: Paste this editorial in your hat. Re-read it as you start to shiver the next time John L. Lewis cuts off the nation's coal supply.

"Labor monopoly" will mean much more to you then. But if you are worried enough you will get after your Congressman to do his part now — before the shivering starts.

"The fate of the world sits on this rug."

The men on the rug: John L. Lewis, President of the United Mine Workers, who made the remark; Benjamin Fairless, President, United States Steel Corporation; George M. Humphrey, Chairman, Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal Company; Harry M. Moses, President, H. C. Frick Coke Company; Charles O'Neill, President, United Eastern Coal Sales Corporation; the late John O'Leary, International Vice President of the United Mine Workers; and John Owens, President, District No. 6 United Mine Workers.

The place: Room 800, Carlton Hotel, Washington, D. C.

The time: Last July during the "negotiation" of a new soft coal contract.

The outcome: Another whopping increase in wages and the price of coal, another hike in the cost of living, and a "contract" which binds the United Mine Workers only as long as they are "willing and able to work."

Mr. Lewis was right. The fate of the world did sit on the rug. In fact, it sat at Mr. Lewis' feet, for, as this editorial will explain and as the outcome shows, his power over coal is absolute.

Without coal modern industrial civilization collapses. Without Mr. Lewis' assent coal can not be mined. He has the nation and, in the years 1947-48, the world at his mercy.

The Taft-Hartley Act, good as it is, does nothing to check this kind of monopoly.

I

The Taft-Hartley Act fails to protect the public in many major particulars.

Here are some of them.

1. Labor monopoly is promoted and protected by its continued exemption from the federal antitrust laws. Management has no such exemption and should not have.

2. Industry-wide bargaining, a kind of second-degree monopoly, is left virtually undisturbed. So is union-wide bargaining which extends the power of national unions far beyond a single industry.

3. Featherbedding, the art of getting paid for doing nothing, is left largely intact.

4. The menace of having local utility strikes wreck the health and safety of a community is left untouched. Postponement and persuasion are the only instruments provided to deal with strikes that would wreck the nation.

My purpose in citing these omissions from the Taft-Hartley Act is not to belittle the act or its framers. They did a most courageous and constructive job. They made a real start toward restoring a workable balance in industrial relations in the United States, so far as the law can do it. But they have not completed the job. Among their omissions the two discussed in the next sections of this editorial stand out above all others.

II

The most serious Taft-Hartley shortcoming is its failure to deal with labor monopoly.

Labor monopoly exists wherever a union is so strong that bargaining becomes a sham and the union virtually dictates its own terms.

If an employer or group of employers secures a monopoly or anything approaching a monopoly, prosecution for violation of the federal antitrust laws is in order. That is as it should be, for monopoly means death to economic and political freedom.

But if a labor union secures complete monopoly control over an industry through control of its workers, that union remains above and beyond the antitrust laws. "The fate of the world sits on this rug." By that imperial attitude John L. Lewis fully demonstrated how obsolete is the notion that labor unions are weak and, therefore, need exemption from the antitrust laws. Through the United Mine Workers, Mr. Lewis controls about 90% of the coal miners. (No company controls more than 5% of the nation's coal output.) Wherever he sits he has at his feet the welfare of the whole nation.

Great international unions exercise a comparable measure of monopoly control in other basic industries—steel, transportation, and automobiles, for example.

These labor monopolies can destroy the nation if they are not themselves broken up. Witness the plight of France. There the Communists have found in the great labor monopolies an instrument for shaking the nation to its foundations.

III

The Taft-Hartley Act also leaves untouched industry-wide collective bargaining, which is a kind of second-degree monopoly.

When all or almost all of the employers in an industry get together with the union leaders to agree on wages and working conditions (that is called industry-wide bargaining) they set up a monopoly control. It is a less concentrated monopoly than when the terms are dictated by either side, as Lewis dictates them in coal. But, nonetheless, competition is eliminated and monopoly control is established over wages, which are by far the largest element in the cost of production. It follows that public regulation of collective bargaining—which means the end of free unions and free management—is not far behind.

Some employers defend industry-wide bargaining as their only defense against industry-wide unions. Other employers like it because it makes wages and hours uniform for their whole industry.

For those employers who are forced into industry-wide bargaining in self-defense the road to relief is clear. Congress owes it to them and to the public to free them from the necessity of dealing with a monopolistic union. The best way to do that is to remove the exemption of labor unions from the federal antitrust laws.

To those employers who engage in industry-wide bargaining because they like it the proper answer is also quite clear. They (and the union involved) are maintaining a private monopoly which is offensive to the public interest. It should be prevented by law.

IV

Congress should finish the job of eliminating labor monopoly and industry-wide bargaining.

In the course of enacting the Taft-Hartley law last spring the House acted to eliminate the exemption of unions from the federal antitrust laws and to make industry-wide bargaining illegal. The Senate, however, refused to go along.

The principal reason advanced in the Senate for deferring action was that more knowledge is required to legislate intelligently. To get the needed information, a joint Congressional committee was created.

It is standard Congressional practice to stall off tackling a difficult job by creating a special committee to study it. The new joint committee is not likely to prove an exception to this rule—unless the voters loudly demand of Congress that it get on with its job of protecting the public interest in the conduct of labor relations—a job which is nowhere near done.

Helpful and effective as many of its provisions are, the Taft-Hartley Act does not face squarely the central principle of industrial relations in a free society. That principle is this: Neither employers nor organized workers, separately or in combination, shall exploit the public by establishing a monopoly.

Do not let your Congressmen go to sleep on the job of solving that problem or hide from it because of fear. The perfect solution may be hard to find. But the problem can be largely solved by making organized labor subject to the federal antitrust laws just as management is now subject to them. If that problem goes by default your children and your grandchildren will really know what slave labor means.
